Lewis Orders 400,000 Men 'Keep Working'

Yields To Mandate Of Supreme Court

WASHINGTON, March 19—(AP)—John L. Lewis, yielding "unconditionally" to a Supreme Court mandate, told his 400,000 soft coal miners today to keep on working after March 31.

With no outward hint of bitterness, Lewis thus called off the threat of a new nation-wide coal strike next month and agreed to leave it to the courts for "final determination" of his long and costly battle with the government.

In terminating the strike last fall, Lewis had instructed his miners to continue operations until the end of March.

The United Mine Workers' chief signalled his surrender today in a 80-word letter to Secretary of Interior Krug—a message wholly lacking his usual blunt defiance—declaring simply:

Notice Withdrawm

"The notice of November 15, 1946, terminating the Krug-Lewis agreement as of November 20, 1946, is hereby unconditionally withdrawn."

In a separate letter to the mine workers, Lewis told union members they "are hereby instructed that said Krug-Lewis agreement is in full force and effect until final determination of the basic issues arising under the agreement.

"These actions," his letter to UMW workers continued, "have been taken in full conformance with the orders and directions of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia as affirmed by the Supreme Court of the United States on March 6th, 1947."

In submitting to the high court's mandate, Lewis was reported to have overruled union attorneys who urged him in two closed-door conferences yesterday to ask for a new Supreme Court hearing.

Lewis was said to have opposed any "stalling" tactics on the ground that it would be bad publicity as well as futile.

Interior Department officials indicated that Krug planned for negotiations, looking toward a return of the government-seized mines to private ownership. Krug took over the strike-bound pits last May 22 to end a paralyzing 59-day walkout by the miners and the Krug-Lewis agreement went into effect as a work contract.

Krug's aides declared the initiative could be taken by the operators or Lewis for a get-together, without government prodding.

Lewis' action today, reversing his usual tactics of waiting till the last minute, came a week before he was required by Supreme Court order to call off his notice ending the agreement under which the mines have been operating.

Saves $2,800,000

By yielding, he saved his union $2,800,000 of the $3,500,000 fine levied by District Court Judge T. Alan Goldsborough last December 5 when Lewis and the union were convicted of contempt of court for refusing to obey Goldsborough's anti-strike injunction. The Supreme Court upheld the contempt convictions along with a $10,000 personal fine against Lewis, but ruled that the union fine be reduced to $700,000 providing Lewis withdrew his contract-scrapping notice.

The high tribunal gave Lewis five days to act after issuance of its formal mandate. The mandate is to be filed tomorrow.

While Krug withheld comment, Coal Mines Administrator Capt. N. H. Collisson told reporters:

"This appears to be full and complete compliance, without hedging of any sort. I don't see how it could be otherwise construed."

Still at stake, as noted by Lewis, is the question of "basic issues" in the long-drawn controversy which broke out anew last November 15 when Lewis claimed the right to tear up his contract with the government and thus precipitated a 17-day strike.

Neither the District Court nor the Supreme Court has ruled on the legality of Lewis' claim. The UNION LEADER SHOT—James Crowley (above) was seriously wounded and his wife, Elizabeth, 44, was killed Tuesday, when a gunman opened fire on a car which the Chicago Bartender's Union leader and his wife were riding in. Police said they believed inter-union trouble was responsible for the shooting.

Creation Of Labor Courts Proposed By Two Senators

Would Provide New Judiciary Branch

WASHINGTON, March 19 (AP) — Two Republican Senators asked Congress today to create 11 labor relations courts designed to settle labor-management disputes by agreement or court order.

Either party to a dispute could sue the other for violating terms of a working contract.

The bill, long expected, was introduced by Senators Ferguson (R-Mich.) and Smith (R-NJ). It would provide a new branch of the American judiciary, at a cost unofficially estimated at about $1,000,000 a year.

Sent To Judiciary Committee

Surprisingly, the bill was sent to the Senate Judiciary Committee instead of the Labor Committee which now is busy writing a general labor bill. The authors, wanting their proposal to be enacted separately, asked that it go to the judiciary group for consideration.

The new Federal Courts would have jurisdiction over the most numerous kind of labor disputes—those arising out of different interpretations of an existing contract.

They would not handle the most serious kind—disputes arising over the writing of a new contract. Thus the recent wage struggles, such as the steel and railroad strikes and nearly all other big strikes of 1946, would not be covered.

Ferguson and Smith told the Senate they are working on a second bill that would in some way—not yet perfected — give the labor courts authority to settle "national paralysis" cases.

The Labor Relations Courts would be set up in the present U. S. Judicial Circuits throughout the country. Each court would have three judges, two of them lawyers and the third a layman experienced in labor relations.

Would Hear Petitions

Korean Police Kill Two Russians

SEOUL, March 19 (AP) — United States Headquarters today announced Korean police killed two Russian soldiers in a squabble over rice—the Koreans' staff of life—at the American-Soviet occupation boundary.

The incident could lead to serious repercussions in the explosive boundary atmosphere. There have been previous Korean-Russian squabbles along the border — the 33th parallel—but this is the first time Russians have been reported slain.

Epidemic Of "Q" Disease Blamed On Infected Cattle, Report Says

CHICAGO, March 19 (AP) — The first sizable outbreak in the United States of a new epidemic type disease called "Q" fever apparently was caused by infected cattle, medical investigators reported today.

The outbreak under study occurred in March, 1946, among stock handlers ACD Slaughterhouse Workers in Amarillo, Tex., with 55 cases reported among 136 employes of three establishments. The disease was marked by a wide variation of severity and there were two deaths.

In a report in the journal of the American Medical Association, the investigators said "Q" fever, a rickettsial infection originally discovered in Queensland, Australia, in 1935, was caused by a virus-like organism called rickettsia burneti. The organism belongs to the same family responsible for typhus and Rocky Mountain spotted fever.

In the Amarillo outbreak, the disease affected principally those persons engaged in killing animals and handling freshly killed meat.

Democrats Shun Sales Tax; Submit Substitute Measure

Greek-Turkish Problem Splits GOP Majority

House Group Set To Begin Hearing

WASHINGTON, March 19 (AP) — The Greek-Turkish-Russian problem split the Republican majority in Congress three ways tonight on the eve of the first public hearings on President Truman's appeal to bulwark Greece and Turkey against Communism.

New demands arose for turning the problem over to the United Nations, some GOP members suggested a hands-off attitude to let the problem find its own answer and others strung along, at least tentatively, with Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) who supports Mr. Truman on the matter.

Set For Hearings

The House Foreign Affairs Committee got set to begin hearings tomorrow on the President's request to step in with $400,000,000 in aid for Turkey and Greece, now that Great Britain is pulling out.

Dozens of lawmakers already have served notice that they will seek fullest details on the request for the money and the authority to send material, federal employes and "limited" military missions to the two countries.

The day's developments on foreign policy issues included:

1. The House Foreign Affairs committee reached formal agreement on a separate measure authorizing expenditure of $350,000,000 for foreign relief under close American supervision and stringent bars against discrimination in its distribution.

2. A House Appropriations Subcommittee called in former President Herbert Hoover and Secretary of War Patterson for information on relief needs, indicating that funds for the work may be included in an emergency money bill to reach the floor next week.

3. Senator Brewster (R-Me) predicted that "within the next two weeks" the United States will change its recent policy toward China and give firmer support to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek in his troubles with Communism. "They can't urge that we kiss Communists in China and kick them in Greece," Brewster told reporters.

4. The 11 Republicans on the Missouri Congressional delegation demanded that the administration lay all its cards on the table, and explain to Congress whether intervention in Greece and Turkey will mean "abandonment of our hopes and efforts to build a United Nations."

Hawks Asks About UN

5. Senator Hawkes (R-NJ) asked in an interview whether the Nations could take over the responsibility for Greece and Turkey when its facilities are organized, and Senator Smith (R-NJ) demanded that the administration reconcile its support of U. N. with its new program. His inquiry was submitted to Senator Vandenberg for relay to the state department.

6. William Benton, assistant Secretary of State, said totalitarian countries are waging a campaign of "psychological warfare" against the United States. He added in a New York speech that it amounts to "international libel."

Senator Vandenberg, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, is serving as a clearing house for his colleagues' various queries.

Bill Would Revise State Income Tax

ANNAPOLIS, March 19 — (AP) — Seventeen Democratic State Senators, shunting aside Governor Lane's two per cent sales tax, submitted tonight a substitute tax program to raise funds needed for schools, roads and other purposes.

The new bill, an omnibus measure combining revision of the state income tax and fixing taxes on various commodities, was unofficially estimated to bring in $21,000,000 a year.

Introduced By Democrats

It was introduced by the Democratic Senators, who had held a caucas late in the afternoon, and after Majority Leader Southoron (D-Prince George's) had successfully moved to return Governor Lane's two per cent sales tax bill to the finance committee.

The governor, who at his press conference had issued a statement determinedly reiterating that the sales tax is the only method which can bring to fruition the new fiscal program, did not comment upon developments. The Governor has repeatedly said the state needs $25,000,000 a year in additional revenue.

He had left the Statehouse and returned to the Government House before the new bill was introduced and spokesmen said he was not aware of its contents.

Would Lower Exemption

The majority's revision of the income tax law would lower exemptions and thereby increase the tax yield. The rate would remain at the present 2 per cent but exemptions would conform to the federal standard.

Exemptions for single persons would be $500, instead of $1,000, and married persons $1,000, instead of $2,000. However, exemptions for dependents would be increased from the present $400 for each to $500, which is the federal charge.

Other taxes proposed in the Democratic bill were:

Increase in alcoholic beverages tax from $1.25 to $1.75 a gallon. Wines to be taxed at 20 cents a gallon.

Beer tax to be increased from three cents to 14 cents a gallon (with an additional 2 cents for each 12 ounces in Garrett County alone).

Soft drinks to be taxed at one cent for each six cents or fraction thereof, with soft drink syrup to be taxed at 75 cents a gallon.

Cigarettes to be taxed at one cent for 10, and tobacco at one cent for each 10-cents or fraction thereof.

Signing the bill as sponsors were President Byrnes (D-Balto fifth), and Senator Balch (Talbot), Barton (Balto Second), Bauer (Balto First), Beck (Caroline), Bolton (Balto County), Della (Balto Sixth), Dulin (Anne Arundel), George (Queen Anne's), Goldstein (Calvert), G. Johnson (Cecil), T. F. Johnson (Worchester), Shallcross (Kent), Sothoron (Prince George's), Storm (Frederick), Stromberg (Howard) and Travers (Wicomcio).

The 11 Republican Senators in a substitute offered Monday night had proposed a personal income tax at four per cent and corporate income levy of five per cent. In addition they proposed an increase in the beer tax from three cents to six cents a gallon; a three-cent soft drink levy; tax on cigarettes at one cent for 10; tobacco tax at 15 cents a pound, and an increase in the amusement tax from ½ of one per cent to five per cent.

The Republicans had estimated their plan would bring in $25,000,000 a year.

Republicans in the house this afternoon aligned themselves against the sales levy, proposing increased personal and corporate taxes, among other things, as an alternative. The Senate Republicans had previously proposed the substitute.

1,000 Britons Trapped By High Flood Waters

LONDON, Thursday, March 20 (AP)—Swirling flood waters of the Don River trapped 1,000 persons in the Yorkshire Village of Bentley today, and the British Army rushed amphibious assault boats to the rescue.

The Don still was rising hours after the villagers had sent an urgent message saying that they must have help by this morning. The trapped residents had been without food for more than 24 hours.

A flood four-feet deep was sweeping through the streets of the town. A police officer, reached by telephone, said that strong currents eddying in the streets had prevented rowboats from reaching Bentley.

The Yorkshire Village, two miles north of Doncaster, was the latest of scores of British towns and villages to be inundated by floods coming on the heels of this Kingdom's worst winter in a half century.

Rain-swollen rivers rose toward record flood crests.

E. Whitley, chairman of the Bentley Urban District Council said in an urgent SOS telegram received in London:

"Help must be here Thursday morning. Position desperate. One thousand people isolated without food for 24 hours. Small boats useless owing to powerful current. Water three feet deep and still rising.

"Contacted military at Doncaster, York and Nottingham without effect. Troops for those three areas already were toiling around the clock to rescue marooned persons and sand bag river banks against the corrosive streams."

Bomb Kills One

JERUSALEM, March 19 (AP)—One British policeman was killed and five other Britons were injured when a bomb exploded among them as they were returning from a motion picture theater to their quarters north of Hadera, between Haifa and Tel Aviv, it was officially announced tonight.

McKeldin 'Probably' Will Try For Senate

BALTIMORE, March 19 — (AP) — Mayor Theodore Roosevelt McKeldin said today it "looks like" he'll be a candidate for Millard E. Tydings' seat in the United States Senate in 1950.

The Mayor—Baltimore's first Republican chief executive in some time—wouldn't give a direct "yes or no" answer to a question about his candidacy.

That the Mayor would be a candidate for the Senate the next time one of Maryland's seats comes up in an election has been somewhat of a foregone conclusion in political circles.

McKeldin himself outlined some of the reasons for the assumption.

"Last summer," he explained, "it was just a question of whether I was going to run for the Senate of the Governorship. As you know, I—somewhat reluctantly—followed the wishes of the party leadership and made the race for Governor."

McKeldin took a rather sound beating from Democratic W. Preston Lane, Jr., in that race. But Lane's running mate, Herbert R. O'Conor, squeezed into the Senate by such a narrow margin that agents for that body still are counting ballots in a contest brought by the Republican aspirant, D. John Markey.

McKeldin is rounding out a four-year term as Mayor. He got in when fractional strife broke up the solidarity of city Democrats and one group gave him some help. The Democratic factions still are warring, but McKeldin figured that this time they will at least all vote for a Democrat. He's not running for re-election this spring.

"This does not mean that I'm retiring from politics," he said today.

"I consider my administrative experience a fine thing for someone who some day might aspire to serve in Congress."

Pausing to consider that one a moment, he said:

"Looks like I'll be a candidate, doesn't it?"

China Nationals Take Communist Capital Of Yenan

Score Greatest Civil War Victory

NANKING, March 19 (AP)—Chiang Kai-Shek and his diminutive understudy, Army Chief of Staff Gen. Chen Cheng, today presented the Kuomintang with the government's greatest civil war victory—capture of the Chinese Communist Captal Yenan.

The government announced the seizure of undefended Yenan only a few hours after Chen had promised the Kuomintang (Government Party) Central Executive Committee that the city would be captured "within a very short time."

The victory appeared to be of greater psychological than military value, however.

Despite government reports that severe fighting preceded the entry into deserted Yenan, informed sources expressed belief the conquest was relatively bloodless. The Japanese had failed to capture the former stronghold in eight years of war.

The official Central News Agency, which received the first news of the occupation in a telephone call from Sian, reported that Communist Gen. Ho Lung's forces had 10,000 casualties and 2,000 more of his men were taken captive.

Conquest of Yenan opened the

Greek Steamer Hits Mine, Sinks

AMSTERDAM, The Netherlands, Thursday, March 20. (AP)—The 4,355-ton Greek steamer Alexandra struck a mine yesterday off the West Frisian Islands and was reported to be sinking.

Tugboats and a lifeboat from the island of Terschelling in the West Frisian group off the Dutch Mainland put out to aid the freighter.

Offices of the North South Holland Lifeboat Company said it was not known whether the company's lifeboat yet had contacted the freighter.

The vessel sailed from Baltimore February 19 and was enroute to Amsterdam with a cargo of hides.

Talmadge Is Rejected As Georgia Gov.

Thompson Takes Over State Duty

ATLANTA, Ga., March 19 (AP)—The State Supreme Court rejected claims of Herman Talmadge today as Governor of Georgia, and the ousted champion of white supremacy yielded to Lieut.-Gov. M. E. Thompson with a vow to take his case to the people.

The High Court, in an historic, 5-to-2 decision, voided the legislature's election of young Talmadge in place of his late father, Eugene Talmadge, who died 23 days before inauguration.

"Such attempted election," said the court, "was a void act, which did not confer upon him any right or title to the office of Governor."

No Legal Successor

The court held that when Talmadge died, there was no legal successor to Gov. Ellis Arnall, and declared Arnall held over. When he resigned voluntarily Jan. 18, 1947, the court continued, executive authority passed to the lieutenant-governor.

The decision came nine weeks to the day after Talmadge seized physical control of the executive offices and Governor's mansion with state troopers and national guard officers. It ended a period of unprecedented turmoil in which two rivals contended for control of Georgia's government.

Talmadge stumped out of the capitol, followed by his chief political lieutenant, tubby, talkative Roy V. Harris, who had helped engineer his abortive election by the legislature. Before leaving Talmadge

Senate Proposes Employer Defense In Portal-Pay Bill

WASHINGTON, March 19 (AP) — The Senate, considering anti-portal pay legislation, tonight approved a proposal permitting employers to offer a "good faith" defense against pending as well as future back-wage claims.

Adopted on a voice vote, the amendment by Senator Wherry (R-Neb) was the first action on a bill to outlaw nearly all pending and future portal pay claims.

Wherry said it would help protect small businessmen who have relied on interpretations of the Wage-Hour Act by the administrator of the statute.

As drawn originally, the bill approved by the Senate Judiciary Committee permitted a good faith defense only in connection with back wage claims in the future.

The provision stipulates that employers are exempt from liability when they relied on a ruling by the administrator that they were not required to meet back-wage claims.

Action on the amendment came in a night session at which the leadership pressed with little hope for a final vote on the measure to void some $6,000,000,000 in pending suits.

Shortly after approving the "good faith" amendment, the Senate turned back, 40 to 23, another change proposed by Senator Holland (D-Fla). That amendment would have permitted Florida and six other states which have general one-year statutes of limitations to apply them to portal suits.

The effect of the vote was to retain a nationwide two-year limit for filing of such actions, as writers into the original bill.

Los Angeles Has Slaying-A-Day Record For Month

Fifth Female Victim Murderously Assaulted

LOS ANGELES, March 19—(AP)—Beaten about the head and left to die, Anna Diresio, 55, was found in Elysian Park today—fifth Los Angeles County victim of a murderous assault on women since mid-January.

The coroner's office announced meanwhile that the county has a slaying-a-day record thus far this month. The wave of assaults on women, all but today's fatal, started with the mutilation slaying of the "Black Dahlia," movie hopeful Elizabeth Short, on January 15.

Doctors at a receiving hospital said the woman probably would recover, although they sewed a four-inch gash that may have been inflicted by a sharp rock.

The Diresio woman was found by a park caretaker in a clump of bushes. She was unconscious but emerged from a coma for a time and told hospital attendants a man she met downtown yesterday hit her from behind when she refused to accompany him home from the park.

The coroner reported that there had been 17 homicidal slayings in the county in the first 17 days of March.

The slayer of Miss Short is still unknown, as are the killers of Evelyn Winters, a Vassar graduate, and Jeanne French, former airlines hostess, movie bit player and airplane pilot. The grand jury yesterday indicted Myton Lee Funk, 23, a foundry moulder, on a charge of murdering Mrs. Mae Lorene Lund, 46, also known as Mae Preston.

A murder charge was filed today against Ruty McKenzie, 29-year-old divorcee, for the fatal stabbing of Jack C. Floyd, 30-year-old chemist. Police said she told them Floyd, whom she identified as her fiance, was on his knees professing his love for her when she playfully motioned toward him with a butcher knife. The blade cut a neck artery.

Capt. Jack Donahoe of the Los Angeles police homicide detail said he was studying the statement in St. Louis, Mo., of Melvin Robert Bailey that he was the Black Dahlia murderer.

British Back United States Stands

LONDON, March 19— (AP) — The British Government was reported authoratively today to have given its support to the United States on two major controversial issues directly or indirectly involving Russia.

A foreign office spokesman said Britain "shared the United States view" that the Big Three Potsdam agreement superseded Yalta or any other major power agreements with regard to German reparations.

Marshall Says Agreement Can Be Worked Out

Bevin Rejects Red Reparation Demand

MOSCOW, March 19 (AP)—The first inkling that the Moscow Conference might reach a compromise on Germany came tonight when Secretary of State George C. Marshall and Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov agreed that the four powers possibly could reconcile their positions.

At the same time, British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin gravely warned the conference that the success of negotiations on Germany will have a definite effect on big power collaboration in all Europe.

Molotov, who took the reparations skeleton out of the Yalta closet, found Bevin and Marshall producing similar reference to previously secret discussions at Potsdam and in the Allied Control Council for Germany.

Reveals Russian Fight

Marshall revealed that the Russians, who yesterday came out for a 10,000,000 to 12,000,000-ton steel production in Germany, fought desperately in the Allied Control Council a year ago to limit German steel production to 3,500,000 tons yearly because "a higher steel output constitutes a war potential."

Bevin in turn revealed that it was Prime Minister Stalin himself who insisted at Potsdam on capital goods reparations from the Western Zones and not the current production which the Soviets now ask.

Despite conciliatory speeches, particularly by Molotov, who agreed that Marshall's program for Germany constituted a good basis for discussion, little agreement was reached at today's meeting on basic issues, and new differences came to light in the economic discussions.

Bevin rejected setting a dollar value on reparations such as the Soviet $10,000,000,000 demand, rejected the Soviet demand to dissolve the Anglo-American Zone fusion, demanded a balanced economy for Germany before reparations and rejected the French demand for definite coal deliveries to other European states.

Molotov rejected economic unity for Germany without reparations, rejected Marshall's and Bevin's contention that the Potsdam agreement superseded Yalta on reparations, but supported the French coal demand.

French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault was scheduled to give France's positnon on these same subjects when the council meets tomorrow.

Molotov told the council that, after hearing the views of Great Britain, the United States and France, he still believed it possible to reach an accord in Moscow on the critical German economic program.

Raises Hope Of Union

The Soviet diplomat declared it did not follow from the disputes which have broken out here that the four powers would be unable to find a common point of view on such issues as the level of industry, a balanced import-export program, freedom of movement inside Germany and similar matters.

Molotov spoke after Bevin, in a commentary on the Soviet's program for Germany, had rejected Russian reparations demands.

Bevin declared that Stalin himself had urged and requested at Potsdam that the Western Allies agree that reparations should come from capital goods and particularly favorite factories in the Western Zone.

Bevin said that when he and others agreed to this he thought that the question of reparations was finished and there would be no demands for reparations from current production such as have been made by the Soviets.

In the main, Bevin went down the line for what Marshall and he had been insisting on. Among other things he flatly turned down Molotov's request that the British and American zonal merger be anulled.

Shipping Control Asked

WASHINGTON, March 19 (AP) — President Truman asked Congress today to continue his wartime power to control shipments abroad, as a curb on inflation at home and as a tool to help those countries "whose existence must be preserved."

The implication was that the countries include Greece and Turkey for whom he has asked $400,000,000 in special aid.

Cincinnati High School Students Strike To Have Head Re-instated

CINCINNATI, March 19—(AP)—A majority of the students of North College Hill Junior and Senior High Schools decided today that if they could not have Dr. William A. Cook as their superintendent, they would stay away—from classes—and they did.

Several hundred of them "struck" after the Community Board of Education by a 3 to 2 vote disapproved retaining Dr. Cook after his contract expires July 31. The attendance figures given at the schools showed nine of 330 attended the high school, and 90 of 230 the junior high school.

The students demonstrated quietly and briefly, dispersing shortly after Dr. Cook asked them either to enter their classrooms or leave the vicinity.

Walter Hughes, one of the education board's two members who voted to retain Dr. Cook, said the situation developed from an old dispute on education matters between Catholics and Protestants in the community.

Lewis Orders 400,000 Men 'Keep Working'

Yields To Mandate Of Supreme Court

WASHINGTON, March 19—(AP)—John L. Lewis, yielding "unconditionally" to a Supreme Court mandate, told his 400,000 soft coal miners today to keep on working after March 31.

With no outward hint of bitterness, Lewis thus called off the threat of a new nation-wide coal strike next month and agreed to leave it to the courts for "final determination" of his long and costly battle with the government.

In terminating the strike last fall, Lewis had instructed his miners to continue operations until the end of March.

The United Mine Workers' chief signalled his surrender today in a 60-word letter to Secretary of Interior Krug—a message wholly lacking his usual blunt defiance—declaring simply:

Notice Withdrawn

"The notice of November 15, 1946, terminating the Krug-Lewis agreement as of November 20, 1946, is hereby unconditionally withdrawn."

In a separate letter to the mine workers, Lewis told union members they "are hereby instructed that said Krug-Lewis agreement is in full force and effect until final determination of the basic issues arising under the agreement.

"These actions," his letter to UMW workers continued, "have been taken in full conformance with the orders and directions of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia as affirmed by the Supreme Court of the United States on March 6th, 1947."

In submitting to the high court's mandate, Lewis was reported to have overruled union attorneys who urged him in two closed-door conferences yesterday to ask for a new Supreme Court hearing.

Lewis was said to have opposed any "stalling" tactics on the ground that it would be bad publicity as well as futile.

Lewis' action today, reversing his usual tactics of waiting till the last minute, came a week before he was required by Supreme Court order to call off his notice ending the agreement under which the mines have been operating.

Saves $2,800,000

By yielding, he saved his union $2,800,000 of the $3,500,000 fine levied by District Court Judge T. Alan Goldsborough last December 4 when Lewis and the union were convicted of contempt of court for refusing to obey Goldsborough's anti-strike injunction. The Supreme Court upheld the contempt convictions along with a $10,000 personal fine against Lewis, but ruled that the union fine be reduced to $700,000 providing Lewis withdrew his contract-scrapping notice.

The high tribunal gave Lewis five days to act after issuance of its formal mandate. The mandate is to be filed tomorrow.

While Krug withheld comment, Coal Mines Administrator Capt. N. H. Collisson told reporters:

"This appears to be full and complete compliance, without hedging of any sort. I don't see how it could be otherwise construed."

Creation Of Labor Courts Proposed By Two Senators

Would Provide New Judiciary Branch

WASHINGTON, March 19 (AP) — Two Republican Senators asked Congress today to create 11 labor relations courts designed to settle labor-management disputes by agreement or court order.

Either party to a dispute could sue the other for violating terms of a working contract.

The bill, long expected, was introduced by Senators Ferguson (R-Mich.) and Smith (R-NJ). It would provide a new branch of the American judiciary, at a cost unofficially estimated at about $1,000,000 a year.

Sent To Judiciary Committee

Surprisingly, the bill was sent to the Senate Judiciary Committee instead of the Labor Comm[illegible] which now is busy writing a general labor bill. The authors, wanting their proposal to be enacted separately, asked that it go to the judiciary group for consideration.

The new Federal Courts would have jurisdiction over the most numerous kind of labor disputes—those arising out of different interpretations of an existing contract.

They would not handle the most serious kind—disputes arising over the writing of a new contract. Thus the recent wage struggles, such as the steel and railroad strikes and nearly all other big strikes of 1946, would not be covered.

Ferguson and Smith told the Senate they are working on a second bill that would in some way—not yet perfected — give the labor courts authority to settle "national paralysis" cases.

The Labor Relations Courts would be set up in the present U. S. Judicial Circuits throughout the country. Each court would have three judges, two of them lawyers and the third a layman experienced in labor relations.

Would Hear Petitions

Korean Police Kill Two Russians

SEOUL, March 19 (AP) — United States Headquarters today announced Korean police killed two Russian soldiers in a squabble over rice—the Koreans' staff of life—at the American-Soviet occupation boundary.

The incident could lead to serious repercussions in the explosive boundary atmosphere. There have been previous Korean-Russian squabbles along the border — the 38th parallel—but this is the first time Russians have been reported slain.

Epidemic Of "Q" Disease Blamed On Infected Cattle, Report Says

CHICAGO, March 19 (AP) — The first sizable outbreak in the United States of a new epidemic type disease called "Q" fever apparently was caused by infected cattle, medical investigators reported today.

The outbreak under study occurred in March, 1946, among stock handlers ACD Slaughterhouse Workers in Amarillo, Tex., with 55 cases reported among 136 employes of three establishments. The disease was marked by a wide variation of severity and there were two deaths.

In a report in the journal of the American Medical Association, the investigators said "Q" fever, a rickettsial infection originally discovered in Queensland, Australia, in 1935, was caused by a virus-like organism called rickettsia burneti. The organism belongs to the same family responsible for typhus and Rocky Mountain spotted fever.

In the Amarillo outbreak, the disease affected principally those persons engaged in killing animals and handling freshly killed meat.

Democrats Shun Sales Tax; Submit Substitute Measure

Bill Would Revise State Income Tax

ANNAPOLIS, March 19 — (AP) — Seventeen Democratic State Senators, shunting aside Governor Lane's two per cent sales tax, submitted tonight a substitute tax program to raise funds needed for schools, roads and other purposes.

The new bill, an omnibus measure combining revision of the state income tax and fixing taxes on various commodities, was unofficially estimated to bring in $21,000,000 a year.

Introduced By Democrats

It was introduced by the Democratic Senators, who had held a caucas late in the afternoon, and after Majority Leader Southoron (D-Prince George's) had successfully moved to return Governor Lane's two per cent sales tax bill to the finance committee.

The governor, who at his press conference had issued a statement determinedly reiterating that the sales tax is the only method which can bring to fruition the new fiscal program, did not comment upon developments. The Governor has repeatedly said the state needs $25,000,000 a year in additional revenue.

He had left the Statehouse and returned to the Government House before the new bill was introduced and spokesmen said he was not aware of its contents.

Would Lower Exemption

The majority's revision of the income tax law would lower exemptions and thereby increase the tax yield. The rate would remain at the present 2 per cent but exemptions would conform to the federal standard.

Exemptions for single persons would be $500, instead of $1,000, and married persons $1,000, instead of $2,000. However, exemptions for dependents would be increased from the present $400 for each to $500, which is the federal charge.

Other taxes proposed in the Democratic bill were:

Increase in alcoholic beverages tax from $1.25 to $1.75 a gallon. Wines to be taxed at 20 cents a gallon.

Beer tax to be increased from three cents to 14 cents a gallon (with an additional 2 cents for each 12 ounces in Garrett County alone).

Soft drinks to be taxed at one cent for each six cents or fraction thereof, with soft drink syrup to be taxed at 75 cents a gallon.

Cigarettes to be taxed at one cent for 10, and tobacco at one cent for each 10-cents or fraction thereof.

Signing the bill as sponsors were President Byrnes (D-Balto fifth), and Senator Balch (Talbot), Barton (Balto Second), Bauer (Balto First), Beck (Caroline), Bolton (Balto County), Della (Balto Sixth), Dulin (Anne Arundel), George (Queen Anne's), Goldstein (Calvert), G. Johnson (Cecil), T. F. Johnson (Worchester), Shallcross (Kent), Sothoron (Prince George's), Storm (Frederick), Stromberg (Howard) and Travers (Wicomcio).

The 11 Republican Senators in a substitute offered Monday night had proposed a personal income tax at four per cent and corporate income levy of five per cent. In addition they proposed an increase in the beer tax from three cents to six cents a gallon; a three-cent soft drink levy; tax on cigarettes at one cent for 10; tobacco tax at 15 cents a pound, and an increase in the amusement tax from ½ of one per cent to five per cent.

The Republicans had estimated their plan would bring in $25,000,000 a year.

Republicans in the house this afternoon aligned themselves against the sales levy, proposing increased personal and corporate taxes, among other things, as an alternative. The Senate Republicans had previously proposed the substitute.

Greek-Turkish Problem Splits GOP Majority

House Group Set To Begin Hearing

WASHINGTON, March 19 (AP) — The Greek-Turkish-Russian problem split the Republican majority in Congress three ways tonight on the eve of the first public hearings on President Truman's appeal to bulwark Greece and Turkey against Communism.

New demands arose for turning the problem over to the United Nations, some GOP members suggested a hands-off attitude to let the problem find its own answer and others strung along, at least tentatively, with Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) who supports Mr. Truman on the matter.

Set For Hearings

The House Foreign Affairs Committee got set to begin hearings tomorrow on the President's request to step in with $400,000,000 in aid for Turkey and Greece, now that Great Britain is pulling out.

Dozens of lawmakers already have served notice that they will seek fullest details on the request for the money and the authority to send material, federal employes and "limited" military missions to the two countries.

The day's developments on foreign policy issues included:

1. The House Foreign Affairs committee reached formal agreement on a separate measure authorizing expenditure of $350,000,000 for foreign relief under close American supervision and stringent bars against discrimination in its distribution.

2. A House Appropriations Subcommittee called in former President Herbert Hoover and Secretary of War Patterson for information on relief needs, indicating that funds for the work may be included in an emergency money bill to reach the floor next week.

3. Senator Brewster (R-Me) predicted that "within the next two weeks" the United States will change its recent policy toward China and give firmer support to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek in his troubles with Communism. "They can't urge that we kiss Communists in China and kick them in Greece," Brewster told reporters.

4. The 11 Republicans on the Missouri Congressional delegation demanded that the administration lay all its cards on the table, and explain to Congress whether intervention in Greece and Turkey will mean "abandonment of our hopes and efforts to build a United Nations."

Hawks Asks About UN

5. Senator Hawkes (R-NJ) asked in an interview whether the Nations could take over the responsibility for Greece and Turkey when its facilities are organized, and Senator Smith (R-NJ) demanded that the administration reconcile its support of U. N. with its new program. His inquiry was submitted to Senator Vandenberg for relay to the state department.

6. William Benton, assistant Secretary of State, said totalitarian countries are waging a campaign of "psychological warfare" against the United States. He added in a New York speech that it amounts to "international libel."

Senator Vandenberg, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, is serving as a clearing house for his colleagues' various queries.

1,000 Britons Trapped By High Flood Waters

LONDON, Thursday, March 20 (AP) —Swirling flood waters of the Don River trapped 1,000 persons in the Yorkshire Village of Bentley today, and the British Army rushed amphibious assault boats to the rescue.

The Don still was rising hours after the villagers had sent an urgent message saying that they must have help by this morning. The trapped residents had been without food for more than 24 hours.

A flood four-feet deep was sweeping through the streets of the town. A police officer, reached by telephone, said that strong currents eddying in the streets had prevented rowboats from reaching Bentley.

The Yorkshire Village, two miles north of Doncaster, was the latest of scores of British towns and villages to be inundated by floods coming on the heels of this Kingdom's worst winter in a half century.

Rain-swollen rivers rose toward record flood crests.

E. Whitley, chairman of the Bentley Urban District Council said in an urgent SOS telegram received in London:

"Help must be here Thursday morning. Position desperate. One thousand people isolated without food for 24 hours. Small boats useless owing to powerful current. Water three feet deep and still rising.

"Contacted military at Doncaster, York and Nottingham without effect. Troops for those three areas already were toiling around the clock to rescue marooned persons and sand bag river banks against the corrosive streams."

Bomb Kills One

JERUSALEM, March 19 (AP)—One British policeman was killed and five other Britons were injured when a bomb exploded among them as they were returning from a motion picture theater to their quarters north of Hadera, between Haifa and Tel Aviv, it was officially announced tonight.

McKeldin 'Probably' Will Try For Senate

BALTIMORE, March 19 — (AP) — Mayor Theodore Roosevelt McKeldin said today it "looks like" he'll be a candidate for Millard E. Tydings' seat in the United States Senate in 1950.

The Mayor—Baltimore's first Republican chief executive in some time—wouldn't give a direct "yes or no" answer to a question about his candidacy.

That the Mayor would be a candidate for the Senate the next time one of Maryland's seats comes up in an election has been somewhat of a foregone conclusion in political circles.

McKeldin himself outlined some of the reasons for the assumption.

"Last summer," he explained, "it was just a question of whether I was going to run for the Senate of the Governorship. As you know, I—somewhat reluctantly—followed the wishes of the party leadership and made the race for Governor."

McKeldin took a rather sound beating from Democratic W. Preston Lane, Jr., in that race. But Lane's running mate, Herbert R. O'Conor, squeezed into the Senate by such a narrow margin that agents for that body still are counting ballots in a contest brought by the Republican aspirant, D. John Markey.

McKeldin is rounding out a four-year term as Mayor. He got in when fractional strife broke up the solidarity of city Democrats and one group gave him some help. The Democratic factions still are warring, but McKeldin figured that this time they will at least all vote for a Democrat. He's not running for re-election this spring.

"This does not mean that I'm retiring from politics," he said today.

"I consider my administrative experience a fine thing for someone who some day might aspire to serve in Congress."

Pausing to consider that one a moment, he said:

"Looks like I'll be a candidate, doesn't it?"

China Nationals Take Communist Capital Of Yenan

Score Greatest Civil War Victory

NANKING, March 19 (AP)—Chiang Kai-Shek and his diminutive understudy, Army Chief of Staff Gen. Chen Cheng, today presented the Kuomintang with the government's greatest civil war victory—capture of the Chinese Communist Captal Yenan.

The government announced the seizure of undefended Yenan only a few hours after Chen had promised the Kuomintang (Government Party) Central Executive Committee that the city would be captured "within a very short time."

The victory appeared to be of greater psychological than military value, however.

Despite government reports that severe fighting preceded the entry into deserted Yenan, informed sources expressed belief the conquest was relatively bloodless. The Japanese had failed to capture the former stronghold in eight years of war.

The official Central News Agency, which received the first news of the occupation in a telephone call from Sian, reported that Communist Gen. Ho Lung's forces had 10,000 casualties and 2,000 more of his men were taken captive.

Conquest of Yenan opened the

Greek Steamer Hits Mine, Sinks

AMSTERDAM, The Netherlands, Thursday, March 20. (AP)—The 4,355-ton Greek steamer Alexandra struck a mine yesterday off the West Frisian Islands and was reported to be sinking.

Tugboats and a lifeboat from the island of Terschelling in the West Frisian group off the Dutch Mainland put out to aid the freighter.

Offices of the North South Holland Lifeboat Company said it was not known whether the company's lifeboat yet had contacted the freighter.

The vessel sailed from Baltimore February 19 and was enroute to Amsterdam with a cargo of hides.

Talmadge Is Rejected As Georgia Gov.

Thompson Takes Over State Duty

ATLANTA, Ga., March 19 (AP)—The State Supreme Court rejected claims of Herman Talmadge today as Governor of Georgia, and the ousted champion of white supremacy yielded to Lieut.-Gov. M. E. Thompson with a vow to take his case to the people.

The High Court, in an historic, 5-to-2 decision, voided the legislature's election of young Talmadge in place of his late father, Eugene Talmadge, who died 23 days before inauguration.

"Such attempted election," said the court, "was a void act, which did not confer upon him any right or title to the office of Governor."

No Legal Successor

The court held that when Talmadge died, there was no legal successor to Gov. Ellis Arnall, and declared Arnall held over. When he resigned voluntarily Jan. 18, 1947, the court continued, executive authority passed to the lieutenant-governor.

The decision came nine weeks to the day after Talmadge seized physical control of the executive offices and Governor's mansion with state troopers and national guard officers. It ended a period of unprecedented turmoil in which two rivals contended for control of Georgia's government.

Talmadge stumped out of the capitol, followed by his chief political lieutenant, tubby, talkative Roy V. Harris, who had helped engineer his abortive election by the legislature. Before leaving Talmadge

Senate Proposes Employer Defense In Portal-Pay Bill

WASHINGTON, March 19 (AP) — The Senate, considering anti-portal pay legislation, tonight approved a proposal permitting employers to offer a "good faith" defense against pending as well as future back-wage claims.

Adopted on a voice vote, the amendment by Senator Wherry (R-Neb) was the first action on a bill to outlaw nearly all pending and future portal pay claims.

Wherry said it would help protect small businessmen who have relied on interpretations of the Wage-Hour Act by the administrator of the statute.

As drawn originally, the bill approved by the Senate Judiciary Committee permitted a good faith defense only in connection with back wage claims in the future.

The provision stipulates that employers are exempt from liability when they relied on a ruling by the administrator that they were not required to meet back-wage claims.

Action on the amendment came in a night session at which the leadership pressed with little hope for a final vote on the measure to void some $6,000,000,000 in pending suits.

Shortly after approving the "good faith" amendment, the Senate turned back, 40 to 23, another change proposed by Senator Holland (D-Fla). That amendment would have permitted Florida and six other states which have general one-year statutes of limitations to apply them to portal suits.

The effect of the vote was to retain a nationwide two-year limit for filing of such actions, as writers into the original bill.

Los Angeles Has Slaying-A-Day Record For Month

Fifth Female Victim Murderously Assaulted

LOS ANGELES, March 19—(AP)—Beaten about the head and left to die, Anna Diresio, 55, was found in Elysian Park today—fifth Los Angeles County victim of a murderous assault on women since mid-January.

The coroner's office announced meanwhile that the county has a slaying-a-day record thus far this month. The wave of assaults on women, all but today's fatal, started with the mutilation slaying of the "Black Dahlia," movie hopeful Elizabeth Short, on January 15.

Doctors at a receiving hospital said the woman probably would recover, although they sewed a four-inch gash that may have been inflicted by a sharp rock.

The Diresio woman was found by a park caretaker in a clump of bushes. She was unconscious but emerged from a coma for a time and told hospital attendants a man she met downtown yesterday hit her from behind when she refused to accompany him home from the park.

The coroner reported that there had been 17 homicidal slayings in the county in the first 17 days of March.

The slayer of Miss Short is still unknown, as are the killers of Evelyn Winters, a Vassar graduate, and Jeanne French, former airlines hostess, movie bit player and airplane pilot. The grand jury yesterday indicted Myton Lee Funk, 23, a foundry moulder, on a charge of murdering Mrs. Mae Lorene Lund, 46, also known as Mae Preston.

A murder charge was filed today against Ruty McKenzie, 29-year-old divorcee, for the fatal stabbing of Jack C. Floyd, 30-year-old chemist. Police said she told them Floyd, whom she identified as her fiance, was on his knees professing his love for her when she playfully motioned toward him with a butcher knife. The blade cut a neck artery.

Capt. Jack Donahoe of the Los Angeles police homicide detail said he was studying the statement in St. Louis, Mo., of Melvin Robert Bailey that he was the Black Dahlia murderer.

British Back United States Stands

LONDON, March 19— (AP) — The British Government was reported authoratively today to have given its support to the United States on two major controversial issues directly or indirectly involving Russia.

A foreign office spokesman said Britain "shared the United States view" that the Big Three Potsdam agreement superseded Yalta or any other major power agreements with regard to German reparations.

Cincinnati High School Students Strike To Have Head Re-instated

CINCINNATI, March 19—(AP)—A majority of the students of North College Hill Junior and Senior High Schools decided today that if they could not have Dr. William A. Cook as their superintendent, they would stay away—from classes—and they did.

Several hundred of them "struck" after the Community Board of Education by a 3 to 2 vote disapproved retaining Dr. Cook after his contract expires July 31. The attendance figures given at the schools showed nine of 330 attended the high school, and 90 of 230 the junior high school.

The students demonstrated quietly and briefly, dispersing shortly after Dr. Cook asked them either to enter their classrooms or leave the vicinity.

Walter Hughes, one of the education board's two members who voted to retain Dr. Cook, said the situation developed from an old dispute on education matters between Catholics and Protestants in the community.

Marshall Says Agreement Can Be Worked Out

Bevin Rejects Red Reparation Demand

MOSCOW, March 19 (AP)—The first inkling that the Moscow Conference might reach a compromise on Germany came tonight when Secretary of State George C. Marshall and Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov agreed that the four powers possibly could reconcile their positions.

At the same time, British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin gravely warned the conference that the success of negotiations on Germany will have a definite effect on big power collaboration in all Europe.

Molotov, who took the reparations skeleton out of the Yalta closet, found Bevin and Marshall producing similar reference to previously secret discussions at Potsdam and in the Allied Control Council for Germany.

Reveals Russian Fight

Marshall revealed that the Russians, who yesterday came out for a 10,000,000 to 12,000,000-ton steel production in Germany, fought desperately in the Allied Control Council a year ago to limit German steel production to 3,500,000 tons yearly because "a higher steel output constitutes a war potential."

Bevin in turn revealed that it was Prime Minister Stalin himself who insisted at Potsdam on capital goods reparations from the Western Zones and not the current production which the Soviets now ask.

Despite conciliatory speeches, particularly by Molotov, who agreed that Marshall's program for Germany constituted a good basis for discussion, little agreement was reached at today's meeting on basic issues, and new differences came to light in the economic discussions.

Bevin rejected setting a dollar value on reparations such as the Soviet $10,000,000,000 demand, rejected the Soviet demand to dissolve the Anglo-American Zone fusion, demanded a balanced economy for Germany before reparations and rejected the French demand for definite coal deliveries to other European states.

Molotov rejected economic unity for Germany without reparations, rejected Marshall's and Bevin's contention that the Potsdam agreement superseded Yalta on reparations, but supported the French coal demand.

French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault was scheduled to give France's positnon on these same subjects when the council meets tomorrow.

Molotov told the council that, after hearing the views of Great Britain, the United States and France, he still believed it possible to reach an accord in Moscow on the critical German economic program.

Raises Hope Of Union

The Soviet diplomat declared it did not follow from the disputes which have broken out here that the four powers would be unable to find a common point of view on such issues as the level of industry, a balanced import-export program, freedom of movement inside Germany and similar matters.

Molotov spoke after Bevin, in a commentary on the Soviet's program for Germany, had rejected Russian reparations demands.

Bevin declared that Stalin himself had urged and requested at Potsdam that the Western Allies agree that reparations should come from capital goods and particularly favorite factories in the Western Zone.

Bevin said that when he and others agreed to this he thought that the question of reparations was finished and there would be no demands for reparations from current production such as have been made by the Soviets.

In the main, Bevin went down the line for what Marshall and he had been insisting on. Among other things he flatly turned down Molotov's request that the British and American zonal merger be anulled.

Shipping Control Asked

WASHINGTON, March 19 (AP) — President Truman asked Congress today to continue his wartime power to control shipments abroad, as a curb on inflation at home and as a tool to help those countries "whose existence must be preserved."

The implication was that the countries include Greece and Turkey for whom he has asked $400,000,000 in special aid.

$100 Lunch Taken For Ride

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Harry Woodrow didn't mind missing a meal, but he was glad to get back his lunchbox — which contained $100 — after it rode on the bumper of an automobile for a whole day.

Loaded with bundles, Woodrow set the lunchbox on the bumper as he waited for a streetcar. When it came along, he hopped aboard but forgot his box. A few minutes later, he remembered and got off the streetcar only to find that the automobile had been driven off.

The owner of the auto, Jack Morgan, drove around all day on business, and that night found the lunch box on his bumper.

"YOU CAN'T GO HOME AGAIN"

Thomas Wolfe was a big, shy, clumsy southern boy who came to New York with stars in his eyes and dreams feeling their way through every drop of his blood. He did not write many books nor live very long but he left us one novel, at least, which will be immortal—"Of Time and the River." And he made some great discoveries about life which affect all of us and could be a candle set in the darkness of our bewilderment if we would accept them.

Lately the Atlantic Monthly has been publishing some of Thomas Wolfe's letters. They are as real and intimate as if they were written today to you and to me personally. In one of them he says—

"I don't know whether I shall come home this summer—if I do it will be only for a short visit. . . Last summer I found out that one's home is not always the best place to work. . . It crystalized a feeling, a conviction, a discovery that had been coming slowly for years, and I suppose that discovery and conviction might be best summarized in these words, 'You can't go home again.' By that I don't simply mean back to your home town—I mean back to your childhood, back to the image of the father you have lost, back to the old cosmos of your youth and all those colors and associations, back to time and memory, back to romantic love, back to see many of the things that were once the whole world to you.

"It has been a hard and grievous discovery and so much time has been spent in mourning for the dead; but now that I have made it I feel new strength and hope; I am standing on the shores of a new land and if the old world is behind me, my heart is somehow full of hope about the new one I shall explore; because I found out that although 'you can't go home again,' the home of all of us, of every mother's son of us is in the future.

"There has been a good deal of talk about the 'lost generation,' meaning the young men who came up during and after the last war but I wonder if the real lost generation is not these men of middle and advanced middle age who keep saying the old phrases, trying to whoop it up in the old way over something that has gone forever. . . . What are these men going to do? They know only one language, only one set of values.

"I am not lost because I am ready to accept and meet the future that is before us; but what are people to do when they cannot accept it, cannot face it, are forever looking backward at the image of a world that is gone?"

Thomas Wolfe did not really make a new discovery. Every one of us who dares to live in the true sense of the word must make the same discovery sooner or later. We cannot go home again. We cannot live in the past no matter how sweet it was or how exciting or how precious with beloved memories. Our place is here and now in the present and we must face the world as it is today with its harsh realities, not the world that we knew last year or 10 or 20 years ago.

We hate the thought of death and yet most of us live in the dead past. We live in the memory of our high school pranks or our young bridal passion or our first successes. And everything else seems dull by comparison. Yes, we hate death, but we actually live like ghosts, hovering continually over the days that are gone.

And we not only strive to relive the joys of yesterday. We relive our mistakes and our blunders, our fears and our shames, our regrets and remorse. It is healthy and necessary to regret a mistake when we know we have made one. But it is morbid and wasteful to keep on regretting it. Some people nurse the memory of their past errors as if they were pet chow dogs. If the truth were told, they get a kick out of it. It's much more exciting to think what a sinner you were once than it is to junk the whole mess and go on and be a straight shooting saint. This business of remembering can be the most demoralizing habit on earth.

"YOU CAN'T GO HOME AGAIN"

Thomas Wolfe was a big, shy, clumsy southern boy who came to New York with stars in his eyes and dreams feeling their way through every drop of his blood. He did not write many books nor live very long but he left us one novel, at least, which will be immortal—"Of Time and the River." And he made some great discoveries about life which affect all of us and could be a candle set in the darkness of our bewilderment if we would accept them.

Lately the Atlantic Monthly has been publishing some of Thomas Wolfe's letters. They are as real and intimate as if they were written today to you and to me personally. In one of them he says—

"I don't know whether I shall come home this summer—if I do it will be only for a short visit. . . Last summer I found out that one's home is not always the best place to work. . . It crystalized a feeling, a conviction, a discovery that had been coming slowly for years, and I suppose that discovery and conviction might be best summarized in these words, 'You can't go home again.' By that I don't simply mean back to your home town—I mean back to your childhood, back to the image of the father you have lost, back to the old cosmos of your youth and all those colors and associations, back to time and memory, back to romantic love, back to see many of the things that were once the whole world to you.

"It has been a hard and grievous discovery and so much time has been spent in mourning for the dead; but now that I have made it I feel new strength and hope; I am standing on the shores of a new land and if the old world is behind me, my heart is somehow full of hope about the new one I shall explore; because I found out that although 'you can't go home again,' the home of all of us, of every mother's son of us is in the future.

"There has been a good deal of talk about the 'lost generation,' meaning the young men who came up during and after the last war but I wonder if the real lost generation is not these men of middle and advanced middle age who keep saying the old phrases, trying to whoop it up in the old way over something that has gone forever. . . . What are these men going to do? They know only one language, only one set of values.

"I am not lost because I am ready to accept and meet the future that is before us; but what are people to do when they cannot accept it, cannot face it, are forever looking backward at the image of a world that is gone?"

Thomas Wolfe did not really make a new discovery. Every one of us who dares to live in the true sense of the word must make the same discovery sooner or later. We cannot go home again. We cannot live in the past no matter how sweet it was or how exciting or how precious with beloved memories. Our place is here and now in the present and we must face the world as it is today with its harsh realities, not the world that we knew last year or 10 or 20 years ago.

We hate the thought of death and yet most of us live in the dead past. We live in the memory of our high school pranks or our young bridal passion or our first successes. And everything else seems dull by comparison. Yes, we hate death, but we actually live like ghosts, hovering continually over the days that are gone.

And we not only strive to relive the joys of yesterday. We relive our mistakes and our blunders, our fears and our shames, our regrets and remorse. It is healthy and necessary to regret a mistake when we know we have made one. But it is morbid and wasteful to keep on regretting it. Some people nurse the memory of their past errors as if they were pet chow dogs. If the truth were told, they get a kick out of it. It's much more exciting to think what a sinner you were once than it is to junk the whole mess and go on and be a straight shooting saint. This business of remembering can be the most demoralizing habit on earth.

City Getting Help In Its Efforts To Control Smoke

While Cumberland's proposed anti-smoke ordinance lies squirming in the archives of the City Hall, awaiting attention to be given it, the world's biggest coal company—Pittsburgh Consolidation Coal Company—announces practical steps to make possible the control of smoke in the Smoky City.

It has issued a statement to the effect that it would bring in low volatile (smokeless) coal from outside, and is willing to finance other dealers to do likewise. It will aid manufacturers and dealers in merchandising stokers and smokeless stoves, including operation of a stoker center to give 24-hour service. It is going so far as to expand its plant in order to provide more of that smokeless fuel. And it will hold back a large amount of that type of coal now shipped away so that it will be available for Pittsburgh.

The statement goes still further with the wise announcement that the company favors the Pittsburgh ordinance and its enforcement on the date now set, October 1, of this year. Declaring that the people of Pittsburgh have shown they want smoke control (as did Cumberlanders), George H. Love, president of the huge company, said: "If Pittsburgh is more prosperous it will burn more coal in the long run."

Pittsburgh is not the only smoke-blighted city to show a determination to get rid of that curse. So, instead of resisting, Pittsburgh Consolidation plans to promote its own industry by helping them to burn coal smokelessly.

This is a sensible, progressive view to take. Such enthusiastic cooperation with the City Council of Pittsburgh is to be admired.

Move Is Started Toward Bettering The Government

Federal bureaucracy, that huge, sprawling structure, invites and compels waste and confusion and inefficiency. It is too complex for the people to understand, for the President to supervise or for Congress to control. Its most incredible duplications of effort and overlappings of authority are baffling obstacles to wise economy. Congressman R. B. Wigglesworth of Massachusetts cites the U. S. Comptroller General as authority for the statement that recently:

"There were no less than 29 agencies lending Government funds, three insuring deposits, 34 engaged in the acquisition of land, 16 in wildlife preservation, nine in credit and finance, 12 in home and community planning, 10 in materials and construction, 28 in welfare matters, 14 in forestry matters, four in bank examinations and 65 in gathering statistics."

The executive branch of the Government spread out in all directions before the war and mushroomed during the war. In 1932, according to Senator Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts, there were 521 agencies ranking as bureaus or the equivalent. By 1944, that number had grown to 1141. Presidential plans for reorganization, drawn up by authority of Congress, have not simplified the structure or made it less expensive.

Senator Lodge and Congressman Clarence J. Brown of Ohio now have introduced companion bills that should get better results. They propose a bipartisan commission to make a thorough study of the executive branch—"to go through the government with a fine-tooth comb and throw light into all the musty old corners," as Senator Lodge put it—and then to recommend ways and means of substituting modern management methods for the disorder.

Under the plan, the commission would have twelve members. It would be made up of two officials of executive agencies appointed by the President, two Senators, two Representatives and six private citizens, who should be recognized authorities in the management field. It would be required to report back to Congress in January, 1949. Thus it would have a year and a half or more to do its work, if the Lodge-Brown proposals were adopted promptly. That much time will be required for a careful study.

Through the La Follette-Monroney Act, Congress has gone far toward bringing its own methods up to date. The need for similar improvement of the Government's executive machinery is equally great.

Margaret Truman And Her Debut Before Microphone

Probably no ambitious young singer ever attempted her debut under such auspicious circumstances as Margaret Truman when she sang with the Detroit Symphony Sunday night. Neither did any young singer ever take her first bow under such dangerous circumstances.

It may be, as some say, that Miss Truman never would have had this opportunity if she had not been the President's daughter. By the same token, if she had not been the President's daughter she wouldn't have attracted attention from the big league critics and the public generally. Its too bad she couldn't have begun her career as Margaret Truman, and never mind whose daughter. But we don't permit the members of President's families such privileges.

Appraisal of her performance is a matter of opinion, as with any other artists. As John Crosby in his "Radio In Review" to be found elsewhere in this newspaper today points out, "It was a strong voice but there was a considerable air of unfinish about it," and it "was at times harsh to the point of stridency."

But she was under the additional and extraordinary handicap of being a White House resident. In the fact of this, her modesty, courage and restraint were admirable.

Uncle Sam Can Fire

It has now been declared by the United States Supreme Court that it is lawful to fire a Government employe on the grounds of reasonable doubts of his loyalty to our country. That such an issue had to be tested in court tells volumes about how mush-headed have been some of the Government's past regulations and law interpretations.

In this free country a citizen may have a constitutional right to believe that Communism is the best of all possible systems, and in any controversy to believe that the United States is always wrong and Russia always on the side of the angels. But to contend that such a lug has a constitutional right to fasten himself onto the Government payroll is stretching things rather far.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

A NEW REMEDY FOR BLOOD VESSEL SPASMS

SCIENTISTS are experimenting with a new drug—tetraethylammonium bromide — which has a powerful dilating action on the blood vessels. It is hoped that the preparation will be helpful in controlling high blood pressure and alleviating circulatory disturbances in the arms and legs.

The substance reacts on the sympathetic nervous system—the mechanism that regulates the flow of vital fluid, the heart rate, sweating, secretion of saliva, arterial tension, movements of the digestive tract, and other bodily functions. After an injection of the chemical the nerve impulses are blocked temporarily so that the vessels relax, the skin becomes warm, the pulse quickens, and the blood pressure falls. The fact that the effect wears off within a few hours may represent a drawback, especially in hypertension. For this reason, several "shots" daily would be needed to keep the tension down.

Since the response is similar to that obtained by cutting certain nerve fibers (sympathectomy), the medicine may also prove of value as a test to determine whether such an operation would be successful in high blood pressure victims. If it lowers the reading sufficiently the chances are that this type of surgery would produce permanent relief. Hence, from this angle alone, the drug is encouraging.

In Raynaud's disease, in which the fingers blanch and become cold and numb on excitement or exposure to chilly weather, a daily injection will open up the constricted blood pathways and warm the skin. When the remedy is stopped, symptoms may return but at any rate it is useful as a temporary measure to tide the patient over a crisis. As in hypertension, it may be employed as a trial balloon to predict whether sympathestomy is indicated.

When the arteries to the extremities are narrowed or obstructed because of arteriosclerosis or Buerger's disease, the product may offer amelioration. Berry and his colleagues used it in 18 victims of Buerger's and the results were hopeful. In a series of 55 individuals with hardening of the arteries, some were relieved of the exasperating pain which is prone to occur at night in bed. Others could walk farther without developing cramps in the calf of the leg. Since sympathectomy is likewise beneficial in many of these patients, the preparation will again serve as an index of what might be expected were the operation performed.

Tetraethylammonium bromide has already been administered by vein safely to many subjects. After a dose is given, the unpleasant side effects are rapid but fleetig. A metallic taste in the mouth ensues and, since salivation practically ceases, the oral cavity feels dry. The pulse increases and, for a few moments after the injection, numbness and tingling of the arms and legs are experienced. The pupils dilate and, with the drop in blood pressure, dizziness may be noted if an attempt is made to stand.

The compound is new and we do not yet know whether it will be practicable. Can it be harnessed for treatment or will it merely become a valuable adjunct as a test for the efficacy of the modern nerve operations?

HEART SOUND

R. T. writes: What is meant by a functional murmur?

REPLY

The term is used by the physician when he hears an abnormal "swish" over the heart which is not traceable to a diseased valve or other damage to the pumping apparatus. It may be due to the movement of air in the respiratory passages or the contracting heart muscles. Now and then the sound originates from the rubbing of the heart against the edge of the lungs.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

Hollywood did itself proud when it showed up in full force at the Los Angeles Paramount for the Damon Runyon memorial cancer fund. It was a heartwarming and gratifying sight to see the whole-hearted and unselfish efforts put forth by the motion picture business for that most worthy cause. I would like also to thank those countless millions who, although not present that night, sent their generous contributions by mail.

Some of the biggest names in Hollywood were there—The Andrew Sisters, Desi Arnaz, Jack Benny, Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy, Burns and Allen, Eddie Cantor, Jerry Colona, Jimmy Durante, Cary Grant, The Benny Goodman Sextette, Betty Hutton, Van Johnson, Al Jolson, Danny Kaye, Gene Kelly, Dorothy Lamour, Frank Sinatra, Dinah Shore, Red Skelton, The Victor Young Orchestra through the countesy of the American Federation of Musicians — and Joe Shbonk, the midget—he's the little guy in the movies who keeps pushing your elbow off the armrest. Seriously though, the movie stars present did everything in their power to contribute to the benefit's success—even Nora Prentiss said a few words.

There were so many movie stars present that night they didn't use a red carpet — they walked in on agents. No kidding, it was so crowded the pickpockets were working piggyback. What an experience. Someone missed a cue and twenty-five stars rushed out on the stage at the same time. They all took bows and the first three rows were blown out of the theatre by the breeze.

The event of the evening was the previewing of "My Favorite Brunette" and the audience just ate it up. In fact, they took a few bites out of me also. I was then asked to make a speech—well not exactly a speech—they wanted to know if I had any last words.

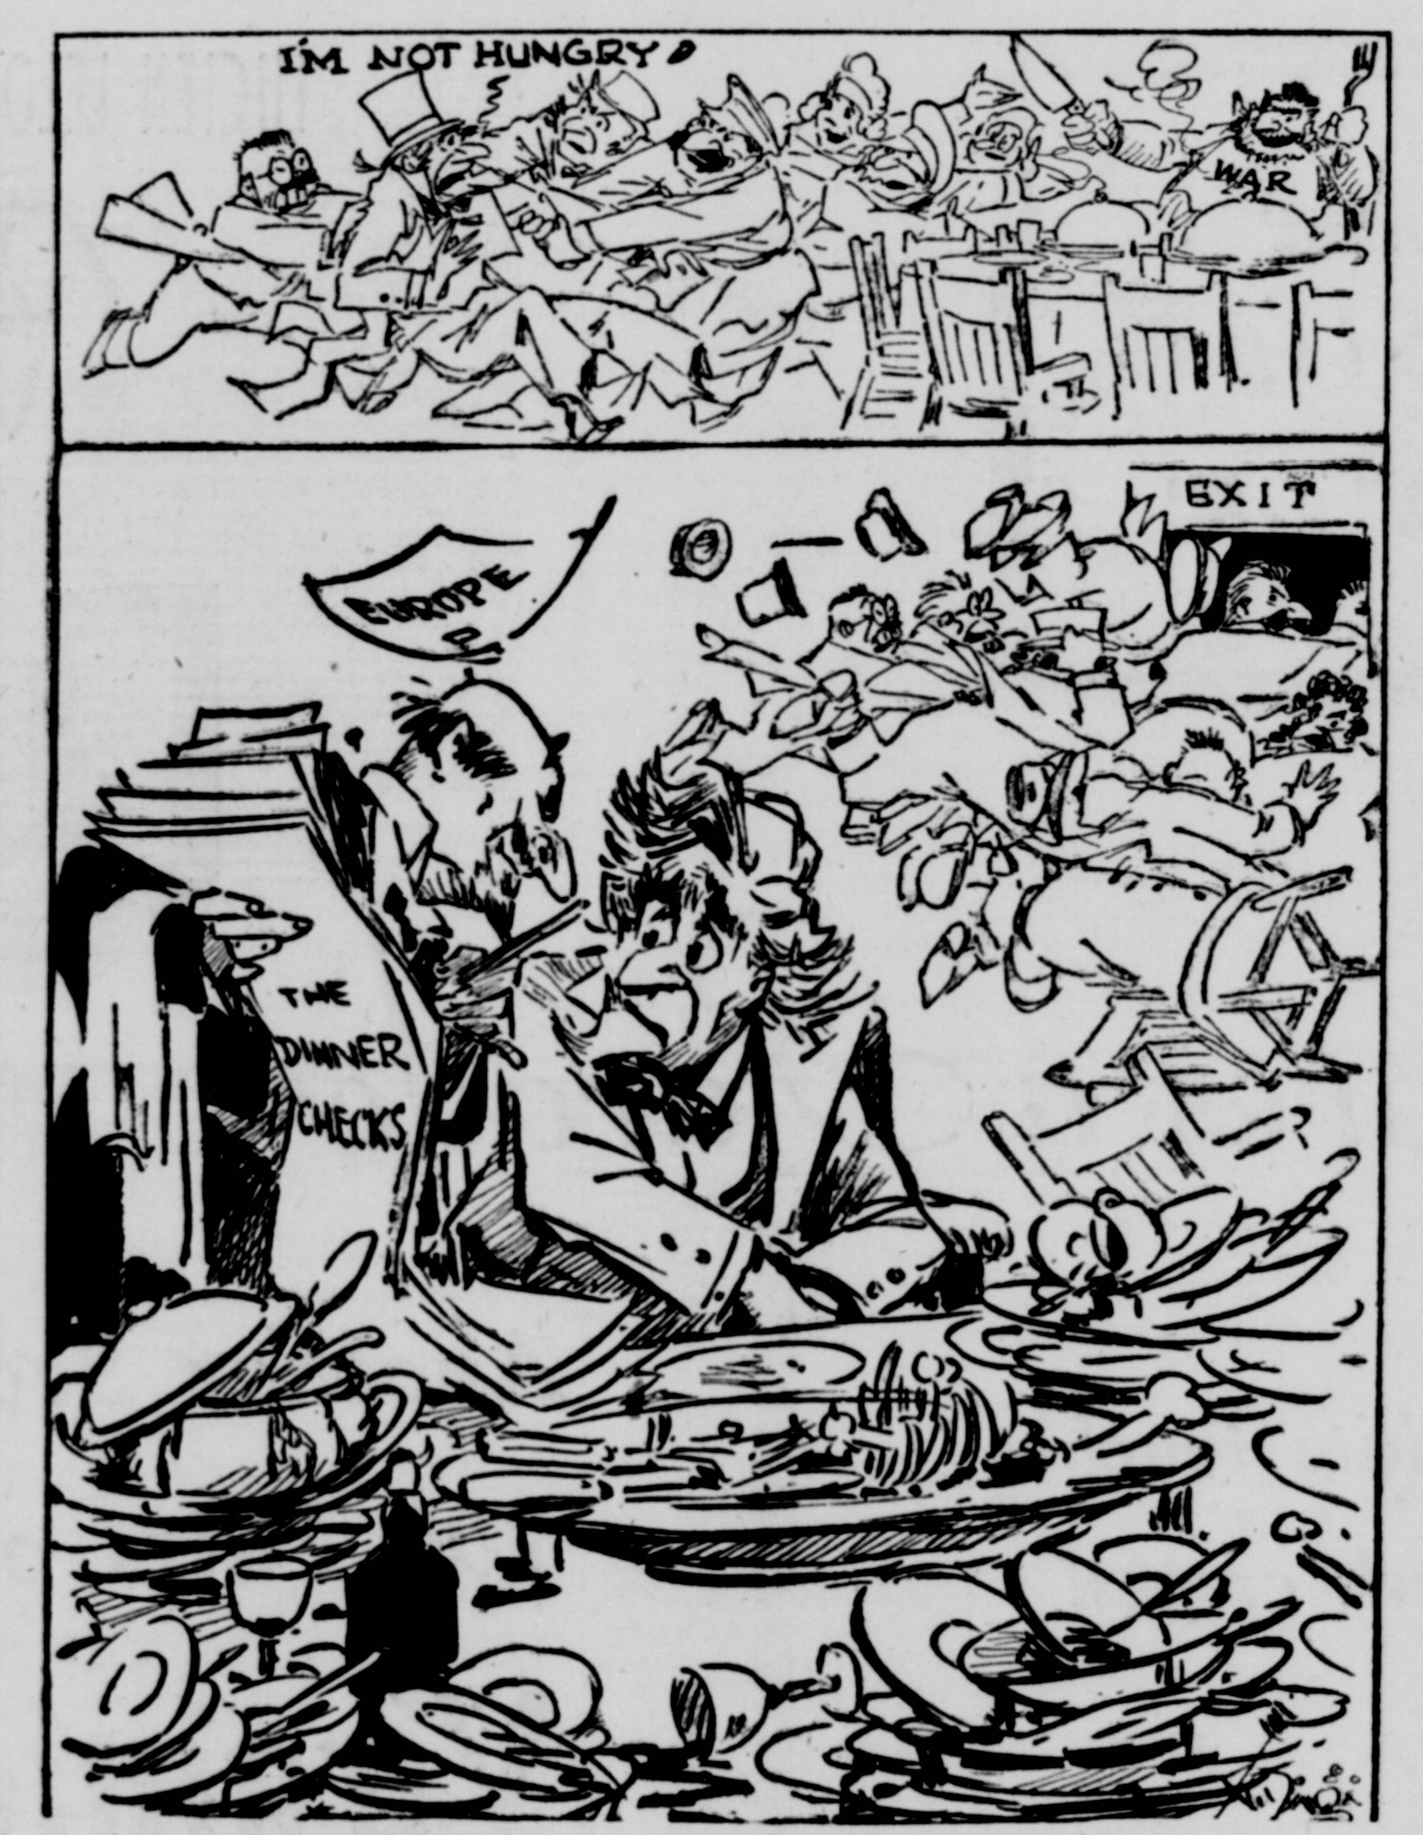
THE DINNER WE DIDN'T ORDER



The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Fighting Marines Now Officers' Servants; Detailed For Commandant's Cocktail Parties; General Armstrong Says Army To Take Over Marine Corps

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, March 19—The U. S. Marine Corps, with one of the greatest fighting records in the world, has now been reduced to the degredation of acting as servants.

The Marines don't like to admit it, but two official orders signed by Col. Donald J. Kendall cannot be disputed. Despite the great record of the Marines at Iwo Jima, Tarawa, and a dozen other places, and despite Marine regulation 553 which states that "under no circumstances shall any enlisted man be employed as a servant," they have recently been drafted as servants just the same.

The orders were isssued at Marine barracks in the District of Columbia, oldest Marine Corps post in the USA, to serve at two cocktail parties given by the Marine Corps Commandant, General Alexander A. Vandegrift.

The first order drafted 12 sergeants and seven corporals to act as bartenders, assist in checking coats and hats, act as doormen and park cars at a Christmas party. Most degrading part of the order was that the sergeants and corpor were told to enter General Vandegrift's compound through the servants' entrance.

This order meant that some of the men who were to act as bartenders and coat-checkers had to cancel Chistmas furloughs, and as a result there was considerable resentment. However, the underground furore gradually subsided until this month, when once again General Vandegrift decided to give a party, and once again an official order was written out drafting sergeants and corporals as bartenders and car-parkers.

This time the servant detail was not so great, but this time also the men were ordered to report through the servants' entrance, and again the whole Marine barracks seethed with indignation.

The day before the cocktail party—officially called a "tea" —part of the order was suddenly cancelled. The two bartenders, Sgt. Elmer N. Snyder and Sgt. Lionel F. St. Peter, were told that because of possible political repercussions their services would not be required.

The political repercussions which the Marine brass hats feared apparently revolved around Democratic Attorney General Tom Clark, who having attended the Christmas party had recognized one of the bartenders. And, ignoring distinguished guests, the Attorney General had reached across the bar to shake hands.

"Hello, sarge," he said, surprised. What are you doing behind there?"

Under The Dome

While there is no great love lost between Republican leaders Vandenberg of Michigan and Taft of Ohio, they keep up the social amenities. The other day when Life Magazine published a full-page picture of Vandenburg, together with his letter disclaiming White House ambitions, Van took the magazine over to Senator Taft's seat on the Senate floor to show him. It looked as if he were trying to prove to Taft that he was not a Presidential contender .... Earl Long, brother of Huey Long, is slated to run as governor of Louisiana again. Opposing him probably will be Sam Jones, the ex-governor who once defeated the Huey Long machine; also Congressman Jimmy Marrison, sometimes called the second kingfish of Louisiana .... A group of liberal solons—Taylor of Idaho, Murray of Montana, Pepper of Florida, and Helen Gahagan Douglas of California—persistently tried to see Truman prior to his message on Greece to urge him not to torpedo the United Nations. Truman was "busy."

End Of The Marines

Interesting light on the future of the Marine Corps was given by Brig. Gen. Frank Armstrong in an off-the-record talk before a group of Naval officers at a dinner tendered by Norfolk, Va., businessmen. Gen. Armstrong, who is part Indian and who had a fine record in training B-29 crews, really let his hair down regarding the future role of the Army Air Force and the Marines, as follows:

"You gentlemen had better understand that the Army Air Force is tired of being a subordinate outfit. It was a predominant force during the war and it is going to be a predominant force during the peace and you might as well make up your minds whether you like it or not, and we do not care whether you like it or not, the Army Air Force is going to run the show.

"You (the Navy) are not going to have anything but a couple of carriers which are ineffective anyway, and they will probably be sunk in the first battle.

"Now as for the Marines, you know what the Marines are. They are a small fouled-up army talking navy lingo. We're going to put those Marines in the regular Army, and make efficient soldiers out of them. The Navy is going to end up by only supplying the requirements of Army Air and Ground Forces too.

"The Army is going to take over Norfolk. We're here now and we're going to stay. We know this is a Navy town and a Navy hangout, but Army Air is still going to stay and we are going to take over, too."

Capital Chaff

Chalk up a bad strategic error to the Republicans for gutting the Labor Department's Conciliation Service. This is one Federal agency which has done more than any other to stop strikes. But GOPeers, despite their fanfare about strikes, now threaten to stymie conciliation service appropriations .... While Republican leaders were trying to get a two-thirds majority in the Senate to block a future Presidential third term, some of their best Roosevelt-hating colleagues were absent. Seven Senators were being entertained by Roosevelt-hating Colenel Bertie McCormick of the Chicago Tribune, who was giving a gala dinner for Republican leaders. This was one reason why Senator Taft abandoned his plan to hold night sessions three times a week. Instead, only one night session will be held weekly .... The State Department, now preparing to move into new offices in the War Department, has a shuttle bus operating between the two buildings. A sign on the bus reads: "State To War." .... Could this be significant?

Economists Still Of Opinion Prices Will Drop By Early Fall

By MARK SULLIVAN

Prices are in the news; and news about prices, whether high or low, is rarely good news. The happy condition of a country is when prices are so stable that the news takes no account of them.

Wheat is at the highest price in 30 years. Many other goods are similarly high, both agriculture and otherwise. This is the present phenomenon. It can be followed by either of two conditions. The high prices could become, so to speak, permanent; could be accepted and become incorporated into the country's economy. That would mean inflation.

Or, the present burst of high prices may be merely the agitated peak of a long rise, the foam at the top of a long wave. In that event the condition following would be a drop, perhaps sudden and sharp. Such a drop would be uncomfortable, but would be infinitely better than to see the present high prices remain and go higher. Lower prices should be our economic prayer.

Whole Public Can Help

Toward fulfillment of this prayer the whole public can help, especially some groups. One group is labor. Labor sees the cost of living go higher, it sees, for example, the rise in the price of wheat lead to a rise of one cent a loaf in the price of bread. Seeing this, labor could feel justified in demanding higher wages. But if labor makes this demand and gets it, the new high level of wages would tend to remain. This in turn would tend toward a new high level of costs of goods. Both the new levels would tend to stay, to become a step in inflation. By being patient for a little while, labor can make a contribution to the public good. The balance of evidence suggests that the present wave of high prices may be checked and reversed.

Upon another group lies an even heavier responsibility than upon labor. Owners and producers of goods owe it to the country to keep down and even reduce the price of the goods they own or make. Many of them can do this readily, for many are making profits so high as to be exorbitant, and in the present condition dangerous. It is no hardship for a manufacturer or dealer who bought materials or goods a year ago at a price lower than the present, to refrain now from raising the price to the public. Wise leaders of industry are urging a policy of lower prices, and some are providing examples. Last week the International Harvester Company announced reductions in prices to take effect before April 1st. A few weeks ago Mr. Henry Ford reduced the prices of some lines of automobiles.

There is evidence for supposing that the present burst of high prices may be a temporary deviation from the real pattern. The sensational rise in the price of wheat during the past few weeks was not expected. On the contrary economists, including government ones, in their New Year summaries last January forecast lower prices for wheat and other farm crops. In that they were justified by history. During the war there had been, as in all wars, an immense rise in prices. This was due to two causes—great demand for food to support armies, and lack of production by countries involved in the war. With the end of the war, these causes ceased. The normal expectations was lower prices.

Traceable To Europe Demands

For this expectation going wrong, there was a concrete cause. It was an unexpected demand for wheat and other food for Europe.

In the first week of March the Bureau of Agriculture Economics predicted that agricultural exports in 1947 "will be 20 per cent less than in 1946." That pointed toward lower prices for farm crops.

By the middle of March that expectation was upset. Ex-President Hoover's report on Germany called for larger amounts of food to be sent to that country. President Truman called for more for Greece and other European countries. In addition, the planting of wheat by France, an immense producer, was delayed by cold weather. Also there is a dearth of new wheat in some Balkan countries and a part of Russia.

These conditions causing unexpected increase of exports of wheat and other farm crops to Europe must be temporary. In fact, government economists, though early expectations were upset as to time, still think that prices of wheat and other foods will begin to fall by July or a little later.

Good Deal Of Labor Strife Traced To Wagner Act, NLRB

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, March 19—Reports that members of the House committee on labor are divided as to whether to draft one or two bills on labor regulation are linked with the question of averting a presidential veto.

At present, for instance, it is highly doubtful whether President Truman will sign any labor bill. A tip-off on his attitude may be discerned from a reading of the brief filed by the National Labor relations board with the Senate labor committee. That brief rejects virtually every suggested amendment to existing labor laws and reflects, as do all board pronouncements, the desires of the CIO and AFL national unions which it is the professed purpose of the board to champion.

Mr. Truman's political future is, according to many of his lieutenants, tied up inextricably with the help that the CIO-PAC and the AFL may be ready to give him at the polls. Mr. Turman vetoed the mild and inoffensive Case bill at the last session of Congress, and there is every reason to believe he will veto any or all labor bills sent him by Congress hereafter.

Republican Maneuver Sound

Under such circumstances, the argument for six or seven separate pieces of legislation is a sound political maneuver for the Republicans. It will be easier to get a two-thirds vote in both houses for specific issues than on an over-all bill, which naturally would include such a variety of changes as to permit timid members of the House to take refuge in technicalities of the kind that the labor board's brief contains in abundance. Anyone who wants a technical reason for voting against any changes in existing labor laws will find the board's brief a virtual encyclopedia of alarms and dangers and pitfalls. One would think, after reading it, that Congress is incompetent to legislate at all and that omniscence and wisdom on labor matters is confined to the NLRB.

Actually Congress has the upper hand. If Mr. Truman vetoes every one of the six or seven measures that could conceivably be sent to him, the Congress could answer such an arbitrary though technically defensible position by using a majority vote to refuse to appropriate any funds for the NLRB.

This would be an extreme measure, but not less extreme than a series of vetoes.

The country understands the labor problem all too well. It is fitting that the 1948 election campaign should make the labor monopolies and their regulation the central issue.

The issue is not collective bargaining at all but the application of collectivist philosophy to the American way of life. It's a philosophy which seeks to undermine the dignity and self-reliance of the individual and to extoll the virtues of a socialist state in which the government is master and the individual is a servant.

The Wagner Act was not intended as an unlimited delegation of power by Congress to a governmental agency, with unqualified discretion to that agency to write laws and make decisions governing labor-management relations.

Vague Phrases In Law

The Congress wrote some vague phrases into the Wagner Act in 1935 which the labor board, backed up by decisions from the New Deal Supreme Court, has now interpreted as a broad grant of discretion to do whatever the board wishes to do to encourage unionization as against individual bargaining or to coerce or threaten or intimidate employers in their negotiations with labor units already recognized.

One of the fallacies offered by the board and its defenders is that the number of strikes for organization demands—that is for "recognition"—have "dramatically declined." This is a misleading statement. The labor board's power of intimidation is greatest after a labor unit has been recognized and collective bargaining starts and strikes are threatened or called.

Indeed, if Congress could undertake a comprehensive investigation of the many-sided inconsistent decisions rendered by the labor board in the last 10 years in connection with strikes or threats of strikes, it would have to come to the conclusion that the Wagner Act and the Labor Board have been fundamentally the cause of and have actually promoted a good deal of labor strife and engendered much of the bitterness in present-day labor-management relations.

THESE DAYS By George E. Sokolsky

MY FRIEND, George Stringfellow, is a business man who fusses over civic questions. He devotes himself to Kiwanis and to Conference of Catholics, Jews, and Protestants and various good will organizations. I, myself, keep away from most of the "toleration" shows because I do not believe that tolerance or good will or love can be achieved by propaganda or coercion.

Sometime ago, George, in his capacity as Chairman of the Kiwanis Committee of Public Affairs for the United States, wrote a piece entitled "We Need a Paul Revere," in which he lambasted the Communists and announced that "Our fundamental liberties are at stake," which is a fairly mild statement of the case. President Truman said it stronger and better in his message to Congress on Greece. But along came one, Henry I. Meyer, also of Kiwanis, in Peekskill, New York, and he denounced Brother Stringfellow for his Paul Revere piece and makes this statement:

". . . The communist ideology never has had a strong appeal for any large number of American citizens. It never has made any great inroads on our political thinking.

Brother Meyer then goes off on the usual clap-trap about Bundists, Silver Shirts and such nuts who amount to nothing to show that the Communists are unimportant, and he ends his diatribe: ". . . When Paul Revere rides again he need not cry, 'The communists are coming.' He had better shout, 'The fascists are here.'"

So Brother Stringfellow writes Brother Meyer a letter which includes the following paragraph:

"Would you mind giving me your definition of a fascist and your definition of a communist, and then outline how they differ and where and why the fascists are more prevalent in this country than the communists?"

I thought that a knockout because anybody who can tell the difference in philosophy or method or objective between a Communist and a Fascist is a better man than Stalin, as George Marshall told Molotov when he bawled him out for turning Nazis into Bolsheviks in the Russian zone in Germany.

That upset Brother Henry I. Meyer no end. He wrote a long letter in which he explains all things. For instance, he says:

"In a purely communistic state the individual produces services and goods according to his ability and receives in return, services and goods according to his needs. Unlike a capitalistic state, the individual may not gain for himself an accumulation of goods in excess of his personal needs. This requires a rigidly planned economy under government supervision in order to keep in delicate balance the production and distribution of goods. . ."

I don't know what happens in a "purely communistic state," but none of this has anything to do with the principal existing Communistic state where wages are paid according to production, and goods and services, if any, are sold by cash payments.

Further he says:

"There is nothing inherent in the communist philosophy which prevents democratic political methods or which calls for a militaristic and imperialistic policy. It does not call for a secret police force or the ruthless suppression of its citizens. In these respects Russia has diverted from communist principles. The ruling clique has borrowed liberally from fascist technics in order to maintain itself in power. . ."

Well, that is O.K. Communism, as practiced in Soviet Russia, is the same as Fascism, as it was practiced in Nazi Germany, only more so. But Dr. Meyer says: "Russia today is a conglomeration of communist theory and fascist practice," which is an all right statement with me, except that the learned gentleman wants us, from that point on, to ghost-fight the dead Fascist and Nazis and their small crackpots in this country and to let Russia and the American Communists revert to their purity. For the remainder of his letter is a ferocious attack on the American intolerant ones of whom he is wholly intolerant. He wants us to exterminate Pegler but he says, "I believe, however, that since we collaborated in war (with Soviet Russia) so we can collaborate in peace."

Oh! Why didn't Harry Truman hire this guy to fix things up so that we could do some of the aforesaid collaborating without spending hundreds of millions of our taxes because the Russians won't play?

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

Do Something About It

There would be ten times—perhaps a thousand times—more people who would be happier and more successful if they but did something about what they imagine that they would most like to do or be.

I have been fascinated with the story of Robert R. Young, the man who is putting his long carefully thought out dreams to work—gathering in whole armfuls of railroad properties, with the end in view or giving to the people, rather than to bankers, the full benefits of his ideas for their comfort and profit. He intends to make it safer, more comfortable, and more enjoyable for people to travel the railroads. He hopes to make every purchaser of a ticket his secret partner—and he doesn't intend that that purchaser shall stand in line and wait for service. He is a respecter of the value of time.

For years the railroads have lagged behind in their service to the public. The great popularity and increasing improvements of the air lines have aroused the railroads—but it is Robert R. Young who is doing something about it—and he is going to untie many a hardened knot that has been heretofore disdained by many a traveler.

I'll wager that this man Young will be scooting trains across the continent in record time—with no bump-offs at Chicago, Kansas City, or any other way-station! He is out for efficiency, and a cutting away of red tape and waste. His plan is to make a trip by rail a vacation in itself. I will also wager that if he gets hold of the Pullman service it will be a joy to sleep on wheels!

Many a boy has regretted not having a college education—but a far greater number have gained this goal—because they did something about it. Take the book "Who's Who." It's a biographical dictionary of those who did something about it. People of will, vision, and enterprise. All the comforts which we enjoy today are the result of what people had in mind and who did something about it. What debtors we all are!

City Getting Help In Its Efforts To Control Smoke

While Cumberland's proposed anti-smoke ordinance lies squirming in the archives of the City Hall, awaiting attention to be given it, the world's biggest coal company—Pittsburgh Consolidation Coal Company—announces practical steps to make possible the control of smoke in the Smoky City.

It has issued a statement to the effect that it would bring in low volatile (smokeless) coal from outside, and is willing to finance other dealers to do likewise. It will aid manufacturers and dealers in merchandising stokers and smokeless stoves, including operation of a stoker center to give 24-hour service. It is going so far as to expand its plant in order to provide more of that smokeless fuel. And it will hold back a large amount of that type of coal now shipped away so that it will be available for Pittsburgh.

The statement goes still further with the wise announcement that the company favors the Pittsburgh ordinance and its enforcement on the date now set, October 1, of this year. Declaring that the people of Pittsburgh have shown they want smoke control (as did Cumberlanders), George H. Love, president of the huge company, said: "If Pittsburgh is more prosperous it will burn more coal in the long run."

Pittsburgh is not the only smoke-blighted city to show a determination to get rid of that curse. So, instead of resisting, Pittsburgh Consolidation plans to promote its own industry by helping them to burn coal smokelessly.

This is a sensible, progressive view to take. Such enthusiastic cooperation with the City Council of Pittsburgh is to be admired.

Move Is Started Toward Bettering The Government

Federal bureaucracy, that huge, sprawling structure, invites and compels waste and confusion and inefficiency. It is too complex for the people to understand, for the President to supervise or for Congress to control. Its most incredible duplications of effort and overlappings of authority are baffling obstacles to wise economy. Congressman R. B. Wigglesworth of Massachusetts cites the U. S. Comptroller General as authority for the statement that recently:

"There were no less than 29 agencies lending Government funds, three insuring deposits, 34 engaged in the acquisition of land, 16 in wildlife preservation, nine in credit and finance, 12 in home and community planning, 10 in materials and construction, 28 in welfare matters, 14 in forestry matters, four in bank examinations and 65 in gathering statistics."

The executive branch of the Government spread out in all directions before the war and mushroomed during the war. In 1932, according to Senator Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts, there were 521 agencies ranking as bureaus or the equivalent. By 1944, that number had grown to 1141. Presidential plans for reorganization, drawn up by authority of Congress, have not simplified the structure or made it less expensive.

Senator Lodge and Congressman Clarence J. Brown of Ohio now have introduced companion bills that should get better results. They propose a bi-partisan commission to make a thorough study of the executive branch—"to go through the government with a fine-tooth comb and throw light into all the musty old corners," as Senator Lodge put it—and then to recommend ways and means of substituting modern management methods for the disorder.

Under the plan, the commission would have twelve members. It would be made up of two officials of executive agencies appointed by the President, two Senators, two Representatives and six private citizens, who should be recognized authorities in the management field. It would be required to report back to Congress in January, 1949. Thus it would have a year and a half or more to do its work, if the Lodge-Brown proposals were adopted promptly. That much time will be required for a careful study.

Through the La Follette-Monroney Act, Congress has gone far toward bringing its own methods up to date. The need for similar improvement of the Government's executive machinery is equally great.

Margaret Truman And Her Debut Before Microphone

Probably no ambitious young singer ever attempted her debut under such auspicious circumstances as Margaret Truman when she sang with the Detroit Symphony Sunday night. Neither did any young singer ever take her first bow under such dangerous circumstances.

It may be, as some say, that Miss Truman never would have had this opportunity if she had not been the President's daughter. By the same token, if she had not been the President's daughter she wouldn't have attracted attention from the big league critics and the public generally. Its too bad she couldn't have begun her career as Margaret Truman, and never mind whose daughter. But we don't permit the members of President's families such privileges.

Appraisal of her performance is a matter of opinion, as with any other artists. As John Crosby in his "Radio In Review" to be found elsewhere in this newspaper today points out, "It was a strong voice but there was a considerable air of unfinish about it," and it "was at times harsh to the point of stridency."

But she was under the additional and extraordinary handicap of being a White House resident. In the fact of this, her modesty, courage and restraint were admirable.

Uncle Sam Can Fire

It has now been declared by the United States Supreme Court that it is lawful to fire a Government employe on the grounds of reasonable doubts of his loyalty to our country. That such an issue had to be tested in court tells volumes about how mush-headed have been some of the Government's past regulations and law interpretations.

In this free country a citizen may have a constitutional right to believe that Communism is the best of all possible systems, and in any controversy to believe that the United States is always wrong and Russia always on the side of the angels. But to contend that such a lug has a constitutional right to fasten himself onto the Government payroll is stretching things rather far.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

A NEW REMEDY FOR BLOOD VESSEL SPASMS

SCIENTISTS are experimenting with a new drug—tetraethylammonium bromide — which has a powerful dilating action on the blood vessels. It is hoped that the preparation will be helpful in controlling high blood pressure and alleviating circulatory disturbances in the arms and legs.

The substance reacts on the sympathetic nervous system—the mechanism that regulates the flow of vital fluid, the heart rate, sweating, secretion of saliva, arterial tension, movements of the digestive tract, and other bodily functions. After an injection of the chemical the nerve impulses are blocked temporarily so that the vessels relax, the skin becomes warm, the pulse quickens, and the blood pressure falls. The fact that the effect wears off within a few hours may represent a drawback, especially in hypertension. For this reason, several "shots" daily would be needed to keep the tension down.

Since the response is similar to that obtained by cutting certain nerve fibers (sympathectomy), the medicine may also prove of value as a test to determine whether such an operation would be successful in high blood pressure victims. If it lowers the reading sufficiently the chances are that this type of surgery would produce permanent relief. Hence, from this angle alone, the drug is encouraging.

In Raynaud's disease, in which the fingers blanch and become cold and numb on excitement or exposure to chilly weather, a daily injection will open up the constricted blood pathways and warm the skin. When the remedy is stopped, symptoms may return but at any rate it is useful as a temporary measure to tide the patient over a crisis. As in hypertension, it may be employed as a trial balloon to predict whether sympathestomy is indicated.

When the arteries to the extremities are narrowed or obstructed because of arteriosclerosis or Buerger's disease, the product may offer amelioration. Berry and his colleagues used it in 18 victims of Buerger's and the results were hopeful. In a series of 55 individuals with hardening of the arteries, some were relieved of the exasperating pain which is prone to occur at night in bed. Others could walk farther without developing cramps in the calf of the leg. Since sympathectomy is likewise beneficial in many of these patients, the preparation will again serve as an index of what might be expected were the operation performed.

Tetraethylammonium bromide has already been administered by vein safely to many subjects. After a dose is given, the unpleasant side effects are rapid but fleetig. A metallic taste in the mouth ensues and, since salivation practically ceases, the oral cavity feels dry. The pulse increases and, for a few moments after the injection, numbness and tingling of the arms and legs are experienced. The pupils dilate and, with the drop in blood pressure, dizziness may be noted if an attempt is made to stand.

The compound is new and we do not yet know whether it will be practicable. Can it be harnessed for treatment or will it merely become a valuable adjunct as a test for the efficacy of the modern nerve operations?

HEART SOUND

R. T. writes: What is meant by a functional murmur?

REPLY

The term is used by the physician when he hears an abnormal "swish" over the heart which is not traceable to a diseased valve or other damage to the pumping apparatus. It may be due to the movement of air in the respiratory passages or the contracting heart muscles. Now and then the sound originates from the rubbing of the heart against the edge of the lungs.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

Hollywood did itself proud when it showed up in full force at the Los Angeles Paramount for the Damon Runyon memorial cancer fund. It was a heartwarming and gratifying sight to see the wholehearted and unselfish efforts put forth by the motion picture business for that most worthy cause. I would like also to thank those countless millions who, although not present that night, sent their generous contributions by mail.

Some of the biggest names in Hollywood were there—The Andrew Sisters, Desi Arnaz, Jack Benny, Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy, Burns and Allen, Eddie Cantor, Jerry Colona, Jimmy Durante, Cary Grant, The Benny Goodman Sextette, Betty Hutton, Van Johnson, Al Jolson, Danny Kaye, Gene Kelly, Dorothy Lamour, Frank Sinatra, Dinah Shore, Red Skelton, The Victor Young Orchestra through the countesy of the American Federation of Musicians — and Joe Shbonk, the midget—he's the little guy in the movies who keeps pushing your elbow off the armrest. Seriously though, the movie stars present did everything in their power to contribute to the benefit's success—even Nora Prentiss said a few words.

There were so many movie stars present that night they didn't use a red carpet — they walked in on agents. No kidding, it was so crowded the pickpockets were working piggyback. What an experience. Someone missed a cue and twenty-five stars rushed out on the stage at the same time. They all took bows and the first three rows were blown out of the theatre by the breeze.

The event of the evening was the previewing of "My Favorite Brunette" and the audience just ate it up. In fact, they took a few bites out of me also. I was then asked to make a speech—well not exactly a speech—they wanted to know if I had any last words.

THE DINNER WE DIDN'T ORDER

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, March 19—The U. S. Marine Corps, with one of the greatest fighting records in the world, has now been reduced to the degredation of acting as servants.

The Marines don't like to admit it, but two official orders signed by Col. Donald J. Kendall cannot be disputed. Despite the great record of the Marines at Iwo Jima, Tarawa, and a dozen other places, and despite Marine regulation 553 which states that "under no circumstances shall any enlisted man be employed as a servant," they have recently been drafted as servants just the same.

The orders were issued at Marine barracks in the District of Columbia, oldest Marine Corps post in the USA, to serve at two cocktail parties given by the Marine Corps Commandant, General Alexander A. Vandegrift.

The first order drafted 12 sergeants and seven corporals to act as bartenders, assist in checking coats and hats, act as doormen and park cars at a Christmas party. Most degrading part of the order was that the sergeants and corpor were told to enter General Vandegrift's compound through the servants' entrance.

This order meant that some of the men who were to act as bartenders and coat-checkers had to cancel Chistmas furloughs, and as a result there was considerable resentment. However, the underground furore gradually subsided until this month, when once again General Vandegrift decided to give a party, and once again an official order was written out drafting sergeants and corporals as bartenders and car-parkers.

This time the servant detail was not so great, but this time also the men were ordered to report through the servants' entrance, and again the whole Marine barracks seethed with indignation.

The day before the cocktail party—officially called a "tea"—part of the order was suddenly cancelled. The two bartenders, Sgt. Elmer N. Snyder and Sgt. Lionel F. St. Peter, were told that because of possible political repercussions their services would not be required.

The political repercussions which the Marine brass hats feared apparently revolved around Democratic Attorney General Tom Clark, who having attended the Christmas party had recognized one of the bartenders. And, ignoring distinguished guests, the Attorney General had reached across the bar to shake hands.

"Hello, sarge," he said, surprised. What are you doing behind there?"

Under The Dome

While there is no great love lost between Republican leaders Vandenberg of Michigan and Taft of Ohio, they keep up the social amenities. The other day when Life Magazine published a full-page picture of Vandenburg, together with his letter disclaiming White House ambitions, Van took the magazine over to Senator Taft's seat on the Senate floor to show him. It looked as if he were trying to prove to Taft that he was not a Presidential contender . . . . Earl Long, brother of Huey Long, is slated to run as governor of Louisiana again. Opposing him probably will be Sam Jones, the ex-governor who once defeated the Huey Long machine; also Congressman Jimmy Marrison, sometimes called the second kingfish of Louisiana . . . . A group of liberal solons—Taylor of Idaho, Murray of Montana, Pepper of Florida, and Helen Gahagan Douglas of California—persistently tried to see Truman prior to his message on Greece to urge him not to torpedo the United Nations. Truman was "busy."

End Of The Marines

Interesting light on the future of the Marine Corps was given by Brig. Gen. Frank Armstrong in an off-the-record talk before a group of Naval officers at a dinner tendered by Norfolk, Va., businessmen. Gen. Armstrong, who is part Indian and who had a fine record in training B-29 crews, really let his hair down regarding the future role of the Army Air Force and the Marines, as follows:

"You gentlemen had better understand that the Army Air Force is tired of being a subordinate outfit. It was a predominant force during the war and it is going to be a predominant force during the peace and you might as well make up your minds whether you like it or not, and we do not care whether you like it or not, the Army Air Force is going to run the show.

"You (the Navy) are not going to have anything but a couple of carriers which are ineffective anyway, and they will probably be sunk in the first battle.

"Now as for the Marines, you know what the Marines are. They are a small fouled-up army talking navy lingo. We're going to put those Marines in the regular Army, and make efficient soldiers out of them. The Navy is going to end up by only supplying the requirements of Army Air and Ground Forces too.

"The Army is going to take over Norfolk. We're here now and we're going to stay. We know this is a Navy town and a Navy hang-out, but Army Air is still going to stay and we are going to take over, too."

Capital Chaff

Chalk up a bad strategic error to the Republicans for gutting the Labor Department's Conciliation Service. This is one Federal agency which has done more than any other to stop strikes. But GOPeers, despite their fanfare about strikes, now threaten to stymie conciliation service appropriations . . . . While Republican leaders were trying to get a two-thirds majority in the Senate to block a future Presidential third term, some of their best Roosevelt-hating colleagues were absent. Seven Senators were being entertained by Roosevelt-hating Colenel Bertie McCormick of the Chicago Tribune, who was giving a gala dinner for Republican leaders. This was one reason why Senator Taft abandoned his plan to hold night sessions three times a week. Instead, only one night session will be held weekly . . . . The State Department, now preparing to move into new offices in the War Department, has a shuttle bus operating between the two buildings. A sign on the bus reads: "State To War." . . . . Could this be significant?

Economists Still Of Opinion Prices Will Drop By Early Fall

By MARK SULLIVAN

Prices are in the news; and news about prices, whether high or low, is rarely good news. The happy condition of a country is when prices are so stable that the news takes no account of them.

Wheat is at the highest price in 30 years. Many other goods are similarly high, both agriculture and otherwise. This is the present phenomenon. It can be followed by either of two conditions. The high prices could become, so to speak, permanent; could be accepted and become incorporated into the country's economy. That would mean inflation.

Or, the present burst of high prices may be merely the agitated peak of a long rise, the foam at the top of a long wave. In that event the condition following would be a drop, perhaps sudden and sharp. such a drop would be uncomfortable, but would be infinitely better than to see the present high prices remain and go higher. Lower prices should be our economic prayer.

Whole Public Can Help

Toward fulfillment of this prayer the whole public can help, especially some groups. One group is labor. Labor sees the cost of living go higher, it sees, for example, the rise in the price of wheat lead to a rise of one cent a loaf in the price of bread. Seeing this, labor could feel justified in demanding higher wages. But if labor makes this demand and gets it, the new high level of wages would tend to remain. This in turn would tend toward a new high level of costs of goods. Both the new levels would tend to stay, to become a step in inflation. By being patient for a little while, labor can make a contribution to the public good. The balance of evidence suggests that the present wave of high prices may be checked and reversed.

Upon another group lies an even heavier responsibility than upon labor. Owners and producers of goods owe it to the country to keep down and even reduce the price of the goods they own or make. Many of them can do this readily, for many are making profits so high as to be exorbitant, and in the present condition dangerous. It is no hardship for a manufacturer or dealer who bought materials or goods a year ago at a price lower than the present, to refrain now from raising the price to the public. Wise leaders of industry are urging a policy of lower prices, and some are providing examples. Last week the International Harvester Company announced reductions in prices to take effect before April 1st. A few weeks ago Mr. Henry Ford reduced the prices of some lines of automobiles.

There is evidence for supposing that the present burst of high prices may be a temporary deviation from the real pattern. The sensational rise in the price of wheat during the past few weeks was not expected. On the contrary economists, including government ones, in their New Year summaries last January forecast lower prices for wheat and other farm crops. In that they were justified by history. During the war there had been, as in all wars, an immense rise in prices. This was due to two causes—great demand for food to support armies, and lack of production by countries involved in the war. With the end of the war, these causes ceased. The normal expectations was lower prices.

Traceable To Europe Demands

For this expectation going wrong, there was a concrete cause. It was an unexpected demand for wheat and other food for Europe.

In the first week of March the Bureau of Agriculture Economics predicted that agricultural exports in 1947 "will be 20 per cent less than in 1946." That pointed toward lower prices for farm crops.

By the middle of March that expectation was upset. Ex-President Hoover's report on Germany called for larger amounts of food to be sent to that country. President Truman called for more for Greece and other European countries. In addition, the planting of wheat by France, an immense producer, was delayed by cold weather. Also there is a dearth of new wheat in some Balkan countries and a part of Russia.

These conditions causing unexpected increase of exports of wheat and other farm crops to Europe must be temporary. In fact, government economists, though early expectations were upset as to time, still think that prices of wheat and other foods will begin to fall by July or a little later.

Good Deal Of Labor Strife Traced To Wagner Act, NLRB

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, March 19—Reports that members of the House committee on labor are divided as to whether to draft one or two bills on labor regulation are linked with the question of averting a presidential veto.

At present, for instance, it is highly doubtful whether President Truman will sign any labor bill. A tip-off on his attitude may be discerned from a reading of the brief filed by the National Labor relations board with the Senate labor committee. That brief rejects virtually every suggested amendment to existing labor laws and reflects, as do all board pronouncements, the desires of the CIO and AFL national unions which it is the professed purpose of the board to champion.

Mr. Truman's political future is, according to many of his lieutenants, tied up inextricably with the help that the CIO-PAC and the AFL may be ready to give him at the polls. Mr. Turman vetoed the mild and inoffensive Case bill at the last session of Congress, and there is every reason to believe he will veto any or all labor bills sent him by Congress hereafter.

Republican Maneuver Sound

Under such circumstances, the argument for six or seven separate pieces of legislation is a sound political maneuver for the Republicans. It will be easier to get a two-thirds vote in both houses for specific issues than on an over-all bill, which naturally would include such a variety of changes as to permit timid members of the House to take refuge in technicalities of the kind that the labor board's brief contains in abundance. Anyone who wants a technical reason for voting against any changes in existing labor laws will find the board's brief a virtual encyclopedia of alarms and dangers and pitfalls. One would think, after reading it, that Congress is incompetent to legislate at all and that omniscence and wisdom on labor matters is confined to the NLRB.

Actually Congress has the upper hand. If Mr. Truman vetoes every one of the six or seven measures that could conceivably be sent to him, the Congress could answer such an arbitrary though technically defensible position by using a majority vote to refuse to appropriate any funds for the NLRB.

This would be an extreme measure, but not less extreme than a series of vetoes.

The country understands the labor problem all too well. It is fitting that the 1948 election campaign should make the labor monopolies and their regulation the central issue.

The issue is not collective bargaining at all but the application of collectivist philosophy to the American way of life. It's a philosophy which seeks to undermine the dignity and self-reliance of the individual and to extoll the virtues of a socialist state in which the government is master and the individual is a servant.

The Wagner Act was not intended as an unlimited delegation of power by Congress to a governmental agency, with unqualified discretion to that agency to write laws and make decisions governing labor-management relations.

Vague Phrases In Law

The Congress wrote some vague phrases into the Wagner Act in 1935 which the labor board, backed up by decisions from the New Deal Supreme Court, has now interpreted as a broad grant of discretion to do whatever the board wishes to do to encourage unionization as against individual bargaining or to coerce or threaten or intimidate employers in their negotiations with labor units already recognized.

One of the fallacies offered by the board and its defenders is that the number of strikes for organization demands—that is for "recognition"—have "dramatically declined." This is a misleading statement. The labor board's power of intimidation is greatest after a labor unit has been recongnized and collective bargaining starts and strikes are threatened or called.

Indeed, if Congress could undertake a comprehensive investigation of the many-sided inconsistent decisions rendered by the labor board in the last 10 years in connection with strikes or threats of strikes, it would have to come to the conclusion that the Wagner Act and the Labor Board have been fundamentally the cause of and have actually promoted a good deal of labor strife and engendered much of the bitterness in present-day labor-management relations.

MY FRIEND, George Stringfellow, is a business man who fusses over civic questions. He devotes himself to Kiwanis and to Conference of Catholics, Jews, and Protestants and various good will organizations. I, myself, keep away from most of the "toleration" shows because I do not believe that tolerance or good will or love can be achieved by propaganda or coercion.

Sometime ago, George, in his capacity as Chairman of the Kiwanis Committee of Public Affairs for the United States, wrote a piece entitled "We Need a Paul Revere," in which he lambasted the Communists and announced that "Our fundamental liberties are at stake," which is a fairly mild statement of the case. President Truman said it stronger and better in his message to Congress on Greece. But along came one, Henry I. Meyer, also of Kiwanis, in Peekskill, New York, and he denounced Brother Stringfellow for his Paul Revere piece and makes this statement:

". . . The communist ideology never has had a strong appeal for any large number of American citizens. It never has made any great inroads on our political thinking.

Brother Meyer then goes off on the usual clap-trap about Bundists, Silver Shirts and such nuts who amount to nothing to show that the Communists are unimportant, and he ends his diatribe: ". . . When Paul Revere rides again he need not cry, 'The communists are coming.' He had better shout, 'The fascists are here.'"

So Brother Stringfellow writes Brother Meyer a letter which includes the following paragraph:

"Would you mind giving me your definition of a fascist and your definition of a communist, and then outline how they differ and where and why the fascists are more prevalent in this country than the communists?"

I thought that a knockout because anybody who can tell the difference in philosophy or method or objective between a Communist and a Fascist is a better man than Stalin, as George Marshall told Molotov when he bawled him out for turning Nazis into Bolsheviks in the Russian zone in Germany.

That upset Brother Henry I. Meyer no end. He wrote a long letter in which he explains all things. For instance, he says:

"In a purely communistic state the individual produces services and goods according to his ability and receives in return, services and goods according to his needs. Unlike a capitalistic state, the individual may not gain for himself an accumulation of goods in excess of his personal needs. This requires a rigidly planned economy under government supervision in order to keep in delicate balance the production and distribution of goods. . ."

I don't know what happens in a "purely communistic state," but none of this has anything to do with the principal existing Communistic state where wages are paid according to production, and goods and services, if any, are sold by cash payments.

Further he says:

"There is nothing inherent in the communist philosophy which prevents democratic political methods or which calls for a militaristic and imperialistic policy. It does not call for a secret police force or the ruthless suppression of its citizens. In these respects Russia has diverted from communist principles. The ruling clique has borrowed liberally from fascist technics in order to maintain itself in power. . ."

Well, that is O.K. Communism, as practiced in Soviet Russia, is the same as Fascism, as it was practiced in Nazi Germany, only more so. But Dr. Meyer says: "Russia today is a conglomeration of communist theory and fascist practice," which is an all right statement with me, except that the learned gentleman wants us, from that point on, to ghost-fight the dead Fascist and Nazis and their small crackpots in this country and to let Russia and the American Communists revert to their purity. For the remainder of his letter is a ferocious attack on the American intolerant ones of whom he is wholly intolerant. He wants us to exterminate Pegler but he says, "I believe, however, that since we collaborated in war (with Soviet Russia) so we can collaborate in peace."

Oh! Why didn't Harry Truman hire this guy to fix things up so that we could do some of the aforesaid collaborating without spending hundreds of millions of our taxes because the Russians won't play?

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

Do Something About It

There would be ten times—perhaps a thousand times—more people who would be happier and more successful if they but did something about what they imagine that they would most like to do or be.

I have been fascinated with the story of Robert R. Young, the man who is putting his long carefully thought out dreams to work—gathering in whole armfuls of railroad properties, with the end in view or giving to the people, rather than to bankers, the full benefits of his ideas for their comfort and profit. He intends to make it safer, more comfortable, and more enjoyable for people to travel the railroads. He hopes to make every purchaser of a ticket his secret partner—and he doesn't intend that that purchaser shall stand in line and wait for service. He is a respecter of the value of time.

For years the railroads have lagged behind in their service to the public. The great popularity and increasing improvements of the air lines have aroused the railroads—but it is Robert R. Young who is doing something about it—and he is going to untie many a hardened knot that has been heretofore disdained by many a traveler.

I'll wager that this man Young will be scooting trains across the continent in record time—with no bump-offs at Chicago, Kansas City, or any other way-station! He is out for efficiency, and a cutting away of red tape and waste. His plan is to make a trip by rail a vacation in itself. I will also wager that if he gets hold of the Pullman service it will be a joy to sleep on wheels!

Many a boy has regretted not having a college education—but a far greater number have gained this goal—because they did something about it. Take the book "Who's Who." It's a biographical dictionary of those who did something about it. People of will, vision, and enterprise. All the comforts which we enjoy today are the result of what people had in mind and who did something about it. What debtors we all are!

PITCHING HORSESHOES

by Billy Rose

I don't know where this story comes from. It's been around a long time. I tried it out on some of my friends who can read, but it was fresh to them. It's a neat yarn, so I think I'll take a chance and spin it. Process servers will please form a line to the right.

Billy Rose

Four people sat in a railroad coach as it rattled across the Jersey meadows. On one seat there were two men, one young, one older. On the seat facing them were two women, one young and pretty, one not so young and not so pretty. They didn't know each other, and not a word has been spoken all the way from Trenton.

The train slowed down as it crossed the Hackensack River Bridge. As it entered the tunnel under the Hudson, everything went black. The conductor had forgotten to snap on the lights.

A second later, there was the unmistakeable sound of a kiss. And then the equally unmistakeable sound of a slap in the face.

The Older Man heard the kiss and the slap and thought: "How charming. . . Like in a movie. . . Can't say I blame the young fellow. . . That's a rather pretty girl. . . .Wish I were young enough to steal a kiss in a tunnel. . . Worth a slap in the face. . . Girls like to be kissed in the dark. . . Wish I'd always known that. . . Trouble is by the time you learn the rules, it's too late to play. . . Young fellows don't know much about women. . . Look how wrong I was about Ethel. . . That night at her house when the fuse blew out, I went down to the cellar and fixed it. . . It wasn't 'till years later that I realized why she slapped me so hard when I came upstairs. . . . Maybe I've got this all wrong. . . Maybe the young fellow kissed the older lady. . . Stranger things have happened. . . Maybe he was trying to make the old gal feel good. . . Nice thought. . . Maybe he was trying to make the young girl jealous. . . Anyhow, he got a kiss for the slap. . . That's better than I did with Ethel. . ."

The Girl Who Was Young and Pretty thought: "How do you like that? . . . Imagine anyone kissing that old dame! . . . Wonder which one did it. . . Must have been old frozen face. . . Never can tell about those dignified looking fellows. . . Some of them are pips. . . Bet the old dame is sorry she slapped him. . . . He looks like a pretty good touch. . . Say, maybe it wasn't old frozen face. . . Maybe the young guy kissed her. . . He's kind of cute. . . . If he's passing kisses around, what's the matter with little Goldilocks?. . . She wouldn't slap him . . . She ain't slapping nobody. . . It don't get you any place. . . Would little Goldilocks be modelling at sixty bucks a week if she had slapped the boss? . . . Not recently. . . . Supposing a girl does give away a few kisses? . . . So what? . . She's got plenty left. . . A smart gal can do herself a lot of good spreading a little lipstick around. . ."

The Woman Who Was Not So Young and Not So Pretty thought: "So the boy kissed the girl. . . Fresh guy. . . He rated that slap. . . . Would have slapped him myself. . . Maybe not. . . Long time since I was kissed. . . When was it? . . . The New Year's party at Kate's, but Joe was drunk and it didn't count. . . That accountant from Camden used to kiss nice. . . Trouble was he kissed everybody . . . Say, maybe it wasn't the young fellow who kissed the girl. . . Maybe it was the old coot. . . Can't tell about these dignified-looking fellows. . . Some of them are lulus. . . No wonder she slapped him. . . I remember slapping a guy once. . . Wish I hadn't. . . He was pretty nice. . . I think he liked me. . . A lot. . . What was I trying to prove? . . . That I was a nice girl? . . . That's a laugh. . . He never came around after that. . . Hear he's in the chips now. . . Who knows? Might have married him. . . . Wish I had. . . Wouldn't be riding on this crummy train to answer a Help Wanted ad. . ."

The Young Man grinned and thought: "Pretty cute stunt, kissing my own hand and slapping my own face. . . Wonder what they're thinking?"

Shogun, pronounced "sho-goon," with the accent on the first syllable, and the long sound of o, was the title adopted in Japan for the general commanding each of the four divisions of the empire in early times. By degrees the Shogun became independent of the emperor and became the ruling power of the country. The office was abolished in 1868.

Katharine Tynan, Irish author of many novels and other works, wrote the well known hymn, "Sheep and Lambs."

Gephart P-TA To Complete Paving; Plans Activities

To Sponsor Cubs, Girl Scout Troops

The Gephart Parent-Teacher Association received a report of the realization of project after five years; formulated plans for various activities and elected a Nominating committee at the meeting Tuesday night at the school.

Edward Eichner announced that "a bid had been accepted from a local contractor for paving the block around the playground and up the playground to the school and a portion of the playground to be graded, the work to start as soon as weather permits." Plans for the work have been discussed for the past five years.

Mrs. Kenneth A. Wilson, president, conducted the election of a Nominating committee, which includes Miss Marian Devans, teacher, Mrs. Carl Robbins and Mrs. Frank Spoerl.

It was recommended and the association voted in favor of having a series of moving pictures for adults and children. They will be shown from the middle of April until the last of May. Mrs. Wilson appointed Lloyd Marshall chairman of the committee of arrangements, which includes Miss Anne Tennant, principal, Leo Wilson and Edward Eichner.

Another recommendation concerning a "Fun for Family Night," was voted upon and it was decided to have the affair early in May. Arthur Gehauf was appointed chairman with Mrs. Gehauf, Leo Wilson, Carl Robbins, Wood Dyche, J. A. Siehler, and John E. Cooper serving on his committee.

The association decided to fill an overseas kit, composed of items to aid teachers in war stricken areas abroad. Consented to sponsor a Girl Scout movement and Cub Scout Troop in the school; and it was announced that a meeting of the Playground association would be held March 28, at 7:30 for the purpose of enlisting help in the installation of equipment obtained for the playground.

Mrs. D. W. Andrews was chairman of the program, which included a talk by Kenneth Jackson, executive secretary of the Boy Scouts of the area, who gave an informative outline on Cub Scouts. He stressed the importance of interesting boys in this movement, which will, he said, help decrease the tendancy toward juvenile delinquency.

The Lions Glee Club, consisting of ten voices, and directed by Edgar Duke, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Avis Siehler sang a group of three songs, "Lamp in the West," Horatio Parks; a Negro Spiritual, "Deep River," and "Marjory," with "Shine" as a encore.

A moving picture, "The Story of a Penny," was the finale of the evening's entertainment, after which Mrs. Wilson and Millard Buskirk were presented with the plants, a former patron of the school, had donated for decorations. A social followed in the cafeteria.

B And P Women Discuss Sales Tax, Adopt Belgium Girl

A round table discussion on the pros and cons of the sales tax, with Robert Little Ebert presenting both sides and reading of a letter concerning the war orphan the club adopted, featured the meeting of the Business and Professional Women's Club Tuesday night at Central YMCA.

Mr. Little listed four things that must be considered regarding the sale tax. They are:

Will the sale tax be a burden? Is it a fair tax? Is it hard to enforce? Is there need for it?

He also gave a brief history of the tax saying that approximately one half of the states now have a sales tax. Many others are considering it, and no state that ever had a sales tax ever repealed it.

Miss Datha Thomas, violinist, accompanied by Miss Mabel Mayers, played "Estudiantiana," Waldlensel; "Priest's March from Athalia," Mendelssohn. Miss Lillian Compton, Membership chairman, was in charge of the program.

The club remitted $16.15 to adopt a war orphan for one year, and Miss Anna Nicht read a letter concerning the child, who is Belgium. Her name is Marcelle Guillaume, and she resides at 6 Rue de la Gare, Walcourt, Belgium. The letter described her as "courageous and gay, weak and should have to take tonic and be in open air. Five children in family, not too healthy, one has very bad eyes, mother discouraged, she has had a broken foot and had to remain a long time without walking. Any help would be welcome in this family."

Miss Jane Botsford said last night, that anyone interested could send help to the family.

Conference Officers Will Be Speakers

The report of the Planning committee was ratified and officers elected at the organization meeting of the Centre Street Church School Parent-Teacher Association last night in the social hall.

Mrs. C. Erich Roeder was elected president; Mrs. C. R. Nuzum, first vice-president; Mrs. William Buchholtz, second vice-president; Miss Beverly Fayman, secretary; Paul Fisher, treasurer and C. H. Furtney chairman of Devotions.

Objectives of the organization, which were ratified, are to develop between teacher and parent such united efforts as will secure for every child the highest advantages in spiritual education, mental, social and physical development. The educational welfare and co-operation of parents; and to co-operate with other county groups to develop co-ordinated programs based on such common interests as promoting wholesome influence for children and youth.

Urge the adoption and enforcement of laws that promote child welfare, health and safety, character building organizations, employment of youth, adequate recreation facilities, improving educational opportunities for young people and adults, literary service, parent education or other matters concerned with welfare of children and youth for which the community support is desired.

Meetings will be held bi-monthly and the first will be held at 7:30 April 18, in the assembly room of the church school, at which time Rev. W. W. Delaplain, Baltimore, executive secretary and Miss Mary Alice Douty, assistant executive secretary of the Conference Board of Education of the Methodist Church, will be guest speakers.

Research indicates that half of the 200 million tons of farm waste produced in the United States each year might be available for use in making motor fuel.

Seven "Little" Foys To Appear On Radio Together

NEW YORK, March 19 — The seven "little" Foys are going to be together again, this time on the radio. They are to appear with brother Eddie, now a regular in the music hall of NBC at 9 o'clock Thursday nights. The guest Foys comprise four brothers and two sisters. Once upon a time they performed on the stage both before and after the death of their comedian father. That was around 26 years ago.

America's town meeting is to have its annual "junior town meeting" when it broadcasts for ABC from Washington at 8:30. The question will be "Should our public schools educate for marriage and family relations?" Participants will include four high school students winners of an essay contest.

Claude Rains, as a Suspense star on CBS at 8, will appear in "The Waxworks," all about a newspaper man and a night in a wax museum. . . . Gene Tierney, in another guesting, appears in the Magazine theater CBS at 10 to perform in a version of O. Henry's "Gift of the Magi."

The late night concert half-hour at 11:30 on two networks finds CBS presenting its School of Music series on Beethoven's quartet No. 11 in F. Minor and the NBC Story of Music having the Eastman ensemble in one of the earliest chamber music compositions written in America, "Quintet for strings in C Major."

The Thursday night comedy skit, titled That's Finnegan, does its finale on CBS 10:30. . . . The World Security Workshop drama on ABC at 10 is to be "The Price of Freedom."

Blancke, vice-president and John . Larkin, secretary for the company; and Simon W. Green and James Holmes for the County Commissioners.

Wilson also asserted that the five-year exemption granted the Kelly company in January this year was only the second such order for the "new Kelly." The "old Kelly" which received an exemption went bankrupt and an entirely new Maryland corporation was formed and is now operating the plant within the city limits of Cumberland, the attorney asserted.

The next step in the litigation involving the legality of the exemptions will be a hearing in court, it was indicated.

Several bills are pending in the Maryland Assembly to rescind present exemptions or prohibit such exemptions to industries in the future.

RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

A Young American Soprano

John Crosby

Margaret Truman, according to the announcer on the American Broadcasting System last Sunday night, is a young American soprano from Washington, D. C. who was born in Missouri. Following its policy of encouraging promising young singers, the announcer said, the Detroit Symphony Orchestra's conductor, Dr. Karl Krueger, had invited her to make her radio debut with the orchestra.

To the great surprise of the people who stage-managed this event, the debut attracted considerable attention. Newspapers in New York, Chicago, Detroit, and a great many other cities heralded the event in page one stories, particularly emphasizing Miss Truman's desire to be judged solely as a singer.

Some fifty newspapermen, few of whom were music critics, showed up to cover the event, which again hit page one. The rating of the Detroit Symphony rose sharply, though just how sharply it not known as this is being written. It's a fairly safe guess that the listening audience was at least half again as large as the Detroit Symphony's normal Sunday night audiences and that the total number of listeners equalled and probably exceeded that of the President of the United States during his important foreign policy address last week (10,000,000).

Miss Truman sang Padilla's "Cielito Lindo," "Charmant Oiseau" from the opera "Le Perle du Bresil," and "The Last Rose Of Summer." It was a strong voice but there was a considerable air of unfinish about it, though Miss Truman has been studying for seven years. Miss Truman's phrasing is anything but sure and she lacks control over her tones, which at times got completely out of hand. In her second two numbers she was off pitch repeatedly and her voice was decidedly uncertain in the lower registers. Although she is reputed to have a range of three octaves, there were distinct evidences of strain in the upper registers too.

A good deal of these failings in technique may be ascribed to understandable nervousness and possibly to lack of training, which might be overcome by more experience. The quality of the voice itself, which was at times harsh to the point of stridency, is, I regret to say, something that can't be helped either by time or experience.

Miss Truman's pay for her single appearance is a secret between her and her sponsors. However, from the large, round hints that were dropped here and there, a good guess would be $1,000. Considering the fountains of publicity heaped on the program, it was well worth it.

Speaking of singing and singers, Jack Benny introduced a new quartet for the first and probably the last time anywhere to sing the commercial on his program the other night. It was composed of Bing Crosby, Dick Haymes, Andy Russell and Dennis Day. As a quartet, they were hilariously bad. At one point the singing got so far out of hand that Bing Crosby was heard to inquire irritably: "Who the hell selected this key—Dennis Day?"

Summons Served On Miltenberger

In one of the first civil cases of its kind affecting a local resident, a privately-owned airplane has been attached by Howard P. Loughrie, deputy United States marshal, at the Mexico Farms airport pending a hearing for its owner in federal court in Baltimore.

Loughrie said yesterday that he has served a summons and complaint upon George Bernard Miltenberger, about 43, Route 3, Bedford Road, an electrician at the Celanese plant, notifying him to appear on or before April 2 in Baltimore federal court on a charge of flying without securing an airworthiness certificate for his plane.

Miltenberger was fined $250 by Federal Judge Calvin Chesnut in Baltimore about five months ago on a similar charge brought by the Civil Aeronautics Administration, when he failed to secure a certificate for the J-12 Cub he owned at that time, Loughrie said.

After selling that plane, Miltenberger later purchased a two-place single engine Taylorcraft, the plane involved in the present case, Loughrie said. Miltenberger holds a private pilot's license, it was stated.

Barton Woman Elected Treasurer Woman's Club

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 19—(AP)—Miss Ruth E. Shoemaker of Bethesda, Montgomery County, a member of the Maryland House of Delegates from 1935 to 1941, was elected president of the Maryland Branch, National Order of Women Legislators, today.

Fourteen members of the state organization held their annual meeting at Carvel Hall. Mrs. William Preston Lane, Jr., wife of the Governor, was their guest at luncheon.

Mrs. Helen Tingley of Baltimore was elected vice-president; Mrs. Mary S. Hoffa of Bowie, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Gladys Pippin of Baltimore, recording secretary and Mrs. Lulu W. Boucher of Barton, Treasurer.

Monumental Reveals Violence Threat

BALTIMORE, March 19 (AP) — The home office of Monumental Life Insurance Company issued a statement today that employes have been threatened with violence by pickets at some of its branch offices in Missouri, Ohio and Michigan where agents went on strike Monday.

The company said only 10 of its 25 offices in the three states are affected and that these are operating at better than 50 per cent efficiency.

The strikers, members of the CIO United Office and Professional Workers of America, walked out to enforce demands for a guaranteed $50 weekly minimum wage.

Rubber Strike Still Set For Sunday

AKRON, O., March 19 (AP)—Union and Company officials stood pat today as the Sunday midnight deadline approached for a strike of 110,000 workers in "big four" rubber plants.

L. M. Buckingham, spokesman for the companies—Goodyear, Goodrich, Firestone and United States Rubber—reiterated that the CIO United Rubber Workers "have everything to gain and nothing to lose by accepting the companies' offer" of a 10-cent hourly pay boost.

Presbyterian Union Plan Is Studied

PHILADELPHIA, March 19 (AP)—The two major groups of Presbyterians—split by issues of the war between the states—disclosed today a new plan for organic union of their more than 8,500,000 members.

A joint committee worked out an agreement which will be recommended to general assemblies to be held in May by the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. and the Presbyterian Church in the U. S., Northern and Southern branches respectively.

House Recommits Little Wagner Act

ANNAPOLIS, MARCH 19 (AP) — Strong opposition from the counties brought the reversal of a favorable report of the combined Judiciary-Labor Committees on the "Little Wagner Act."

The joint committee vote for the bill was 11-10, but on roll call, it was recommitted. Scattered delegates from industrial counties, including Allegany and Garrett, joined 25 Baltimore City members in voting against recommittal.

Delegate Hyde (R-Montgomery) made the motion to recommit, charging that it was a "very, very poor bill."

He said it was "poor in substance and that it contained provisions worse than contained in the Federal Wagner Act, while it lacked many good points of the Wagner Act."

He said it still prevented employers from talking to employes on labor matters, and that the Federal Government even now was considering a change in this provision.

Delegate Mrozinski (D-Balto First), Labor Committee chairman, said the bill would prevent "wildcat strikes," and that it would bring labor and management closer together.

He referred to the present strike of bus drivers and mechanics in Cumberland which has crippled transportation in that city for two weeks. He added:

"The mayor has appealed to labor and management to sit down and arbitrate their differences. Labor is willing, but management is not. This bill would force them to sit down and talk the dispute over."

telephoned his pretty young wife at the mansion.

"Honey, it was five to two against us," he said. "Get our stuff together now and we'll move out this afternoon."

Talmadge then told reporters: "In all political questions the court of last resort is the people of Georgia. This question will be carried to the court of last resort."

The Supreme Court's decision was made public at 11:25 a. m. By 12:15 p. m., Talmadge and his staff had cleaned out their desks, removed all private papers, and locked the doors.

Thompson Jubilant

Jubilant Lieut.-Gov. Thompson, pump-handling well-wishers in a suite of a downtown hotel, declared: "All along I have believed it was wrong for the General Assembly to elect a Governor." He asked "the continuous help and prayers of those who put the welfare of our state above personal and political partisanship."

The 42-year-old doctor of philosophy, who remains lieutenant-governor, will exercise executive authority until a successor is chosen in the general election of 1948. The successor will serve the last two years of 'Gene Talmadge's unexpired four-year term.

way for another long march if Communist Party Chief Mao Tse-Tung and other leaders hope to join up the bulk of their forces in far off Manchuria. The government's capture a few months ago of Kalgan, formerly a big Communish military base about 125 miles nortwest of Peiping, cut off the Communists' previous direct route from Yenan to Manchuria.

The fleeing Communists face a long, roundabout route across hundreds of miles of rough country if they make for Harbin, their north Manchurian base.

The speed with which Kuomintang troops crossed more than 50 miles of rugged mountain country to seize Yenan indicated the Communists made only a token defense of the area—as predicted—then retired according to prearranged plan.

ministrative agencies under the Wagner Labor Relations Act, the Wage-Hour Act, and the Railway Labor Act.

Ferguson and Smith didn't mention it, but their bills would have the effect of carrying out one of President Truman's proposals to Congress in his January 6 message. Mr. Truman said then:

"Legislation should be enacted to provide machinery whereby unsettled disputes concerning the interpretation of an existing agreement may be referred by either party to final and binding arbitration."

Crosstown Viaduct Proposal Favored By Local AAUW

Mrs. Eugene Kester, secretary of the Cumberland branch, American Association of University Women, was instructed by Mrs. John J. Hafer, president, last night to inform the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission that the AAUW favors the construction of an overhead crosstown bridge.

The action was taken at a meeting of the organization at the Girl Scout House, Greene Street. Mrs. Hafer explained that the need for such a bridge was demonstrated several weeks ago, when firemen were delayed by a train at the Baltimore Street crossing as they were en route to a fire on Waverly Terrace, in which one man perished.

Mrs. John A. Cupler, II, chairman of the education committee, issued a personal appeal for all county groups and individuals interested in "the survival of the schools" to support the consumer's sales tax measure as a source of additional funds for educational purposes.

Mrs. Cupler announced that Dr. Thomas Pullen, state superintendent of schools, is scheduled to address the next meeting of the AAUW, to be held April 16 at Frostburg State Teachers' College. His topic has not yet been announced.

Mrs. Robert Troxell, vice president, said it is planned to devote part of the May 21 meeting to a discussion of college qualifications for AAUW membershinp.

Following the business session Miss Ruby M. Adams, chairman of the legislative committee, led a panel discussion on "Legislative Procedures and Mechanics."

The panel included Miss Margaret Baker of the AAUW International relations committee; Mrs. James Yarnall, president of the Cumberland branch of American Childhood Education, a teachers' organization; Mrs. Harold W. Smith, representing the legislative committee of the Women's Civic Club; Miss Mildred Willison, of the Business and Professional Women's Club; and Miss Anne Tennant, chairman of the AAUW's committee on the economic and legal status of women.

Miss Adams issued an appeal for assistance to the legislative committee from the various AAUW study groups as to the nature and type of broad general legislation which the organization could consider in next year's program.

The discussion was based on a list of 16 tentative legislative items for 1947-49, drawn up by the national AAUW.

DEATHS

MRS. ROBERTSON RITES

A funeral service for Mrs. Mattie Dallas Robertson, 69, who died here Saturday, was held yesterday afternoon at the home of her son, Howard Dallas, 1040 Myrtle Street, by Rev. Wayne Shillenberger, Cresaptown, and Rev. Samuel Rose, pastor of Trinity Methodist Church.

Burial was in Hillcrest Cemetery. Pallbearers were Reese and Bernard Diehl, William Twigg, Clark Bittinger and Stephen Fresno.

FRANK KASTNER RITES

A funeral service for Frank M. Kastner, 67, retired Baltimore and Ohio Railroad machinist, who died yesterday morning at 9 o'clock at his home, 27 Race Street, after a lingering illness, will be conducted Saturday morning at 9 o'clock in St. Mary's Catholic Church. Burial will be in SS. Peter and Paul Cemetery.

Mr. Kastner was a native of Cumberland and a son of the late Anton and Margaret Walburger Kastner. His wife, the former Miss Catherine Codire, died in 1940.

He belonged to Cumberland Council No. 586, Knights of Columbus, St. Mary's Catholic Church and the Holy Name Society of the parish.

Mr. Kastner had been employed by the railroad about 40 years.

Surviving are a daughter, Sister M. Florita, Ursuline Convent, Louisville, Ky.; two sons, Joseph C. Kastner, Washington, and Francis T. Kastner, at home; four brothers, Joseph Kastner, Tiffin, Ohio, and George, Andrew and William Kastner, this city, and a sister, Mrs. Theodore George, also of Cumberland.

MRS. BRYSON RITES

A solemn requiem high mass for Mrs. Elizabeth Veronica McGreevy Bryson, 60, wife of James T. Bryson, 538 North Centre Street, who died Sunday, was held yesterday morning in St. Patrick's Catholic Church with Rev. Charles W. Bogan as celebrant. Rev. Thomas Hardesty served as deacon and Rev. Robert Kilgannon, pastor of St. Anthony's Church, Ridgeley, was sub-deacon. Burial was in the church cemetery.

Pallbearers were John Cullen, James S. Bryson, Bernard and Joseph McGreevy and John and William Kirk.

MRS. ALDERTON RITES

A funeral service was conducted yesterday afternoon in Melvin Methodist Church for Mrs. Myrtle Alderton, 62, widow of Merton Alderton, 54½ Marion Street, who died Sunday in Memorial Hospital. Rev. Joseph W. Young officiated and interment was in Hillcrest Burial Park.

Pallbearers were Kenneth Alderton, Walter Perdew, Prentis Parsons, Paul Crabtree, Howard Bender and William Newman.

EDMUND A. MILLER

Edmund A. Miller, about 65, uncle of Mrs. Earl Conn, Park Heights, died Tuesday night in St. Joseph's Hospital, Lorain, Ohio. He was a former resident of Mt. Savage and a son of the late Joseph and Bridget Flood Miller.

Besides Mrs. Conn, he is survived by a sister, Mrs. Charles Winner, Mt. Savage, and one brother, Charles F. Miller, Fostoria, Ohio.

The body is at the Reichlin-Coolie Funeral Home, Lorain. A requiem mass will be held Friday at 10 a. m. in St. Mary's Catholic Church there with interment in the church cemetery.

Enlists In Army

Robert Willard Sines, Route 1, Oakland, enlisted in the First Cavalry Division for three years' service yesterday at the local Army recruiting station, according to Capt. L. M. Bairstow, officer in charge.

News Briefs

Well-baby clinics will be held by the Cumberland Health Department today at 10 a. m. at East Side School and tomorrow at 10 a. m. at the firemen's hall, Bowman's Addition, conducted by Dr. Winter R. Frantz, assistant city and county health officer.

Memorial Hospital attaches reported as "good" the condition of Robert Frank Knipper, fireman first class, who was admitted to the hospital Tuesday night after he became ill while en route to his ship on the West Coast.

The Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce will hold its regular monthly meeting at 7:30 o'clock tonight in the Chamber offices, Liberty Trust Building.

Mid-week lenten services of Centre Street Methodist Church will be held at 7:30 o'clock tonight with the pastor, Rev. Dr. Walter M. Michael, speaking on "Our Spiritual Resources."

Salary Increase Not Sponsored By City

The bill introduced in the House of Delegates Tuesday by the Allegany County Delegation to increase salaries of the mayor and councilmen of Cumberland, was not sponsored by the mayor and council, Mayor Thomas S. Post said yesterday, but he added that city officials will probably not oppose it.

Mayor Post said that some of the councilmen as well as himself were approached by members of the county delegation to the General Assembly regarding salaries. The Mayor said he told them, he felt salaries should be raised and also suggested that hours of work for the mayor and councilmen be fixed.

No Machines Found

No slot machines were found in an inspection of six Cumberland clubs Monday, police reported last night. The same results were obtained from a raid on eight clubs last week, they added. One police official said he doubted if any slot machines were in operation in this city at present.

Lewis Orders

government has contended all along that the Krug-Lewis Pact is binding for the duration of federal operation of the mines, and that it cannot be reopened without the consent of both parties.

Goldsborough's court still must rule on that key point, but the decision would have little lasting effect since government control of seized properties, carried out under wartime powers, ends June 30. President Truman recently ended the seizure authority, effective on that date on properties now in government possession.

Trial Request Expected

Thereafter, operation of the mines would rest on a new agreement between the mine owners and the union, unless Congress acts to extend the government's control authority.

As the next step, the government is expected to ask Judge Goldsborough to set a trial date to thrash out the question of contract termination.

Suit For Damages To Car Filed Here

Suit was filed in Circuit Court yesterday by Robert Fallin and the Travelers Insurance Company against Michael A. Dusic, local fool dealer, and Gene P. Hill for $500 damages as the result of a traffic mishap December 12, 1946 at Franklin and Cathedral streets, Baltimore.

Walter C. Capper, representing Fallin and the company, states in his bill that Dusic owns a truck which was operated by Hill at the time of the mishap. The truck collided with a car operated by Fallin, causing extensive damage to the auto.

Attorneys in a damage action resulting from a traffic accident early last year in the North End have reached a settlement and the suit was removed from the Circuit Court docket. The amount involved in the settlement was not disclosed.

Mrs. Jessie V. Kennedy, represented by Robert MacDonald Bruce, filed suit against Fred W. Jenkins, trading as the Astor Cab Company, alleging she was injured when a taxicab and an automobile in which she was riding collided May 28, 1946 at the intersection of Franklin Street and Columbia Avenue. The taxicab driver was accused of negligence.

Bruce also said that several other claims against the taxi company have been settled out of court. William C. Walsh and Thomas B. Finan were attorneys for Jenkins.

Arthur M. Kennedy, husband of the injured woman and owner of the car involved in the mishap, receives $263.15 for damages to the vehicle. John D. Kennedy, infant son of the couple, and Edna L. Ackerman, also in the car, were paid undisclosed amounts in the settlements.

Action Sought On Sanitary Bill

A meeting of the Allegany County Sanitary District Committee will be held tonight in the City Hall, Frostburg, at 7:30 o'clock, according to J. Milton Dick, to seek action in Annapolis on the measure. The meeting is open to the public.

Dick said yesterday, he had been informed that the bill is "in jeopardy," meaning that it is in danger of not being passed by the General Assembly, unless people in the county who are interested and affected make it known to the delegation that the measure is desirable.

At a meeting of the Potomac Park Improvement Association the group went on record urging action on the measure, described as an enabling act to set up sanitary districts within the county.

Horace P. Whitworth, chairman of the Allegany County Delegation, has indicated the bill will be held in committee because it does not provide for a referendum.

About 40 residents of the county, including public health officials and residents in outlying sections have been advocating the measure as one which would generally improve sanitary conditions, and eliminate pollution of streams, etc., Dick explained.

Two Men, Woman Fined On Disorder Charge

Two men and their woman companion were fined $10 and costs each when arraigned yesterday morning in Trial Magistrates Court on charges of acting in a disorderly manner on or near a public highway. All three pleaded guilty.

State Police listed the trio as Leonard C. Moreland, Route 1, Ridgeley, W. Va.; Herbert R. Llewellyn, Rawlings, and Virginia M. Plum, 12 North Mechanic Street. They were arrested at 2:20 a. m. by Troopers William McElfish and Walter Wilt.

Seven "Little" Foys To Appear On Radio Together

NEW YORK, March 19 — The seven "little" Foys are going to be together again, this time on the radio. They are to appear with brother Eddie, now a regular in the music hall of NBC at 9 o'clock Thursday nights. The guest Foys comprise four brothers and two sisters. Once upon a time they performed on the stage both before and after the death of their comedian father. That was around 26 years ago.

America's town meeting is to have its annual "junior town meeting" when it broadcasts for ABC from Washington at 8:30. The question will be "Should our public schools educate for marriage and family relations?" Participants will include four high school students winners of an essay contest.

Claude Rains, as a Suspense star on CBS at 8, will appear in "The Waxworks," all about a newspaper man and a night in a wax museum. . . . Gene Tierney, in another guesting, appears in the Magazine theater CBS at 10 to perform in a version of O. Henry's "Gift of the Magi."

The late night concert half-hour at 11:30 on two networks finds CBS presenting its School of Music series on Beethoven's quartet No. 11 in F. Minor and the NBC Story of Music having the Eastman ensemble in one of the earliest chamber music compositions written in America, "Quintet for strings in C Major."

The Thursday night comedy skit, titled That's Finnegan, does its finale on CBS 10:30. . . . The World Security Workshop drama on ABC at 10 is to be "The Price of Freedom."

Blancke, vice-president and John L. Larkin, secretary for the company; and Simon W. Green and James Holmes for the County Commissioners.

Wilson also asserted that the five-year exemption granted the Kelly company in January this year was only the second such order for the "new Kelly." The "old Kelly" which received an exemption went bankrupt and an entirely new Maryland corporation was formed and is now operating the plant within the city limits of Cumberland, the attorney asserted.

The next step in the litigation involving the legality of the exemptions will be a hearing in court, it was indicated.

Several bills are pending in the Maryland Assembly to rescind present exemptions or prohibit such exemptions to industries in the future.

RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

John Crosby

Margaret Truman, according to the announcer on the American Broadcasting System last Sunday night, is a young American soprano from Washington, D. C. who was born in Missouri. Following its policy of encouraging promising young singers, the announcer said, the Detroit Symphony Orchestra's conductor, Dr. Karl Krueger, had invited her to make her radio debut with the orchestra.

To the great surprise of the people who stage-managed this event, the debut attracted considerable attention. Newspapers in New York, Chicago, Detroit, and a great many other cities heralded the event in page one stories, particularly emphasizing Miss Truman's desire to be judged solely as a singer.

Some fifty newspapermen, few of whom were music critics, showed up to cover the event, which again hit page one. The rating of the Detroit Symphony rose sharply, though just how sharply it not known as this is being written. It's a fairly safe guess that the listening audience was at least half again as large as the Detroit Symphony's normal Sunday night audiences and that the total number of listeners equalled and probably exceeded that of the President of the United States during his important foreign policy address last week (10,000,000).

Miss Truman sang Padilla's "Cielito Lindo," "Charmant Oiseau" from the opera "Le Perle du Bresil," and "The Last Rose Of Summer." It was a strong voice but there was a considerable air of unfinish about it, though Miss Truman has been studying for seven years. Miss Truman's phrasing is anything but sure and she lacks control over her tones, which at times got completely out of hand. In her second two numbers she was off pitch repeatedly and her voice was decidedly uncertain in the lower registers. Although she is reputed to have a range of three octaves, there were distinct evidences of strain in the upper registers too.

A good deal of these failings in technique may be ascribed to understandable nervousness and possibly to lack of training, which might be overcome by more experience. The quality of the voice itself, which was at times harsh to the point of stridency, is, I regret to say, something that can't be helped either by time or experience.

Miss Truman's pay for her single appearance is a secret between her and her sponsors. However, from the large, round hints that were dropped here and there, a good guess would be $1,000. Considering the fountains of publicity heaped on the program, it was well worth it.

Speaking of singing and singers, Jack Benny introduced a new quartet for the first and probably the last time anywhere to sing the commercial on his program the other night. It was composed of Bing Crosby, Dick Haymes, Andy Russell and Dennis Day. As a quartet, they were hilariously bad. At one point the singing got so far out of hand that Bing Crosby was heard to inquire irritably: "Who the hell selected this key—Dennis Day?"

Summons Served On Miltenberger

In one of the first civil cases of its kind affecting a local resident, a privately-owned airplane has been attached by Howard P. Loughrie, deputy United States marshal, at the Mexico Farms airport pending a hearing for its owner in federal court in Baltimore.

Loughrie said yesterday that he has served a summons and complaint upon George Bernard Miltenberger, about 43, Route 3, Bedford Road, an electrician at the Celanese plant, notifying him to appear on or before April 2 in Baltimore federal court on a charge of flying without securing an airworthiness certificate for his plane.

Miltenberger was fined $250 by Federal Judge Calvin Chesnut in Baltimore about five months ago on a similar charge brought by the Civil Aeronautics Administration, when he failed to secure a certificate for the J-12 Cub he owned at that time, Loughrie said.

After selling that plane, Milterberger later purchased a two-place single engine Taylorcraft, the plane involved in the present case, Loughrie said. Miltenberger holds a private pilot's license, it was stated.

Barton Woman Elected Treasurer Woman's Club

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 19—(AP)—Miss Ruth E. Shoemaker of Bethesda, Montgomery County, a member of the Maryland House of Delegates from 1935 to 1941, was elected president of the Maryland Branch, National Order of Women Legislators, today.

Fourteen members of the state organization held their annual meeting at Carvel Hall. Mrs. William Preston Lane, Jr., wife of the Governor, was their guest at luncheon.

Mrs. Helen Tingley of Baltimore was elected vice-president; Mrs. Mary S. Hoffa of Bowie, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Gladys Pippin of Baltimore, recording secretary and Mrs. Lulu W. Boucher of Barton, Treasurer.

Monumental Reveals Violence Threat

BALTIMORE, March 19 (AP) — The home office of Monumental Life Insurance Company issued a statement today that employes have been threatened with violence by pickets at some of its branch offices in Missouri, Ohio and Michigan where agents went on strike Monday.

The company said only 10 of its 25 offices in the three states are affected and that these are operating at better than 50 per cent efficiency.

Rubber Strike Still Set For Sunday

AKRON, O., March 19 (AP)—Union and Company officials stood pat today as the Sunday midnight deadline approached for a strike of 110,000 workers in "big four" rubber plants.

L. M. Buckingham, spokesman for the companies—Goodyear, Goodrich, Firestone and United States Rubber—reiterated that the CIO United Rubber Workers "have everything to gain and nothing to lose by accepting the companies' offer" of a 10-cent hourly pay boost.

Presbyterian Union Plan Is Studied

PHILADELPHIA, March 19 (AP)—The two major groups of Presbyterians—split by issues of the war between the states—disclosed today a new plan for organic union of their more than 8,500,000 members.

A joint committee worked out an agreement which will be recommended to general assemblies to be held in May by the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. and the Presbyterian Church in the U. S., Northern and Southern branches respectively.

House Recommits Little Wagner Act

ANNAPOLIS, MARCH 19 (AP) — Strong opposition from the counties brought the reversal of a favorable report of the combined Judiciary-Labor Committees on the "Little Wagner Act."

The joint committee vote for the bill was 11-10, but on roll call, it was recommitted. Scattered delegates from industrial counties, including Allegany and Garrett, joined 25 Baltimore City members in voting against recommittal.

Delegate Hyde (R-Montgomery) made the motion to recommit, charging that it was a "very, very poor bill."

He said it was "poor in substance and that it contained provisions worse than contained in the Federal Wagner Act, while it lacked many good points of the Wagner Act."

He said it still prevented employers from talking to employes on labor matters, and that the Federal Government even now was considering a change in this provision.

Delegate Mrozinski (D-Balto First), Labor Committee chairman, said the bill would prevent "wildcat strikes," and that it would bring labor and management closer together.

He referred to the present strike of bus drivers and mechanics in Cumberland which has crippled transportation in that city for two weeks. He added:

"The mayor has appealed to labor and management to sit down and arbitrate their differences. Labor is willing, but management is not. This bill would force them to sit down and talk the dispute over."

telephoned his pretty young wife at the mansion.

"Honey, it was five to two against us," he said. "Get our stuff together now and we'll move out this afternoon."

Talmadge then told reporters: "In all political questions the court of last resort is the people of Georgia. This question will be carried to the court of last resort."

The Supreme Court's decision was made public at 11:25 a. m. By 12:15 p. m., Talmadge and his staff had cleaned out their desks, removed all private papers, and locked the doors.

Thompson Jubilant

Jubilant Lieut.-Gov. Thompson, pump-handling well-wishers in a suite of a downtown hotel, declared: "All along I have believed it was wrong for the General Assembly to elect a Governor." He asked "the continuous help and prayers of those who put the welfare of our state above personal and political partisanship."

The 42-year-old doctor of philosophy, who remains lieutenant-governor, will exercise executive authority until a successor is chosen in the general election of 1948. The successor will serve the last two years of 'Gene Talmadge's unexpired four-year term.

way for another long march if Communist Party Chief Mao Tse-Tung and other leaders hope to join up the bulk of their forces in far off Manchuria. The government's capture a few months ago of Kalgan, formerly a big Communish military base about 125 miles nortwest of Peiping, cut off the Communists' previous direct route from Yenan to Manchuria.

The fleeing Communists face a long, roundabout route across hundreds of miles of rough country if they make for Harbin, their north Manchurian base.

The speed with which Kuomintang troops crossed more than 50 miles of rugged mountain country to seize Yenan indicated the Communists made only a token defense of the area—as predicted—then retired according to prearranged plan.

Creation Of Labor

ministrative agencies under the Wagner Labor Relations Act, the Wage-Hour Act, and the Railway Labor Act.

Ferguson and Smith didn't mention it, but their bills would have the effect of carrying out one of President Truman's proposals to Congress in his January 6 message. Mr. Truman said then:

"Legislation should be enacted to provide machinery whereby unsettled disputes concerning the interpretation of an existing agreement may be referred by either party to final and binding arbitration."

Crosstown Viaduct Proposal Favored By Local AAUW

Mrs. Eugene Kester, secretary of the Cumberland branch, American Association of University Women, was instructed by Mrs. John J. Hafer, president, last night to inform the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission that the AAUW favors the construction of an overhead crosstown bridge.

The action was taken at a meeting of the organization at the Girl Scout House, Greene Street. Mrs. Hafer explained that the need for such a bridge was demonstrated several weeks ago, when firemen were delayed by a train at the Baltimore Street crossing as they were en route to a fire on Waverly Terrace, in which one man perished.

Mrs. John A. Cupler, II, chairman of the education committee, issued a personal appeal for all county groups and individuals interested in "the survival of the schools" to support the consumer's sales tax measure as a source of additional funds for educational purposes.

Mrs. Cupler announced that Dr. Thomas Pullen, state superintendent of schools, is scheduled to address the next meeting of the AAUW, to be held April 16 at Frostburg State Teachers' College. His topic has not yet been announced.

Mrs. Robert Troxell, vice president, said it is planned to devote part of the May 21 meeting to a discussion of college qualifications for AAUW membership.

Following the business session Miss Ruby M. Adams, chairman of the legislative committee, led a panel discussion on "Legislative Procedures and Mechanics."

The panel included Miss Margaret Baker of the AAUW International relations committee; Mrs. James Yarnall, president of the Cumberland branch of American Childhood Education, a teachers' organization; Mrs. Harold W. Smith, representing the legislative committee of the Women's Civic Club; Miss Mildred Willison, of the Business and Professional Women's Club; and Miss Anne Tennant, chairman of the AAUW's committee on the economic and legal status of women.

Miss Adams issued an appeal for assistance to the legislative committee from the various AAUW study groups as to the nature and type of broad general legislation which the organization could consider in next year's program.

The discussion was based on a list of 16 tentative legislative items for 1947-49, drawn up by the national AAUW.

DEATHS

MRS. ROBERTSON RITES

A funeral service for Mrs. Mattie Dallas Robertson, 69, who died here Saturday, was held yesterday afternoon at the home of her son, Howard Dallas, 1040 Myrtle Street, by Rev. Wayne Shillenberger, Cresaptown, and Rev. Samuel Rose, pastor of Trinity Methodist Church.

Burial was in Hillcrest Cemetery. Pallbearers were Reese and Bernard Diehl, William Twigg, Clark Bittinger and Stephen Fresno.

FRANK KASTNER RITES

A funeral service for Frank M. Kastner, 67, retired Baltimore and Ohio Railroad machinist, who died yesterday morning at 9 o'clock at his home, 27 Race Street, after a lingering illness, will be conducted Saturday morning at 9 o'clock in St. Mary's Catholic Church. Burial will be in SS. Peter and Paul Cemetery.

Mr. Kastner was a native of Cumberland and a son of the late Anton and Margaret Walburger Kastner. His wife, the former Miss Catherine Codire, died in 1940.

He belonged to Cumberland Council No. 586, Knights of Columbus, St. Mary's Catholic Church and the Holy Name Society of the parish.

Mr. Kastner had been employed by the railroad about 40 years.

Surviving are a daughter, Sister M. Florita, Ursuline Convent, Louisville, Ky.; two sons, Joseph C. Kastner, Washington, and Francis T. Kastner, at home; four brothers, Joseph Kastner, Tiffin, Ohio, and George, Andrew and William Kastner, this city, and a sister, Mrs. Theodore George, also of Cumberland.

MRS. BRYSON RITES

A solemn requiem high mass for Mrs. Elizabeth Veronica McGreevy Bryson, 60, wife of James T. Bryson, 538 North Centre Street, who died Sunday, was held yesterday morning in St. Patrick's Catholic Church with Rev. Charles W. Bogan as celebrant. Rev. Thomas Hardesty served as deacon and Rev. Robert Kilgannon, pastor of St. Anthony's Church, Ridgeley, was sub-deacon. Burial was in the church cemetery.

Pallbearers were John Cullen, James S. Bryson, Bernard and Joseph McGreevy and John and William Kirk.

MRS. ALDERTON RITES

A funeral service was conducted yesterday afternoon in Melvin Methodist Church for Mrs. Myrtle Alderton, 62, widow of Merton Alderton, 54½ Marion Street, who died Sunday in Memorial Hospital. Rev. Joseph W. Young officiated and interment was in Hillcrest Burial Park.

Pallbearers were Kenneth Alderton, Walter Perdew, Prentis Parsons, Paul Crabtree, Howard Bender and William Newman.

EDMUND A. MILLER

Edmund A. Miller, about 65, uncle of Mrs. Earl Conn, Park Heights, died Tuesday night in St. Joseph's Hospital, Lorain, Ohio. He was a former resident of Mt. Savage and a son of the late Joseph and Bridget Flood Miller.

Besides Mrs. Conn, he is survived by a sister, Mrs. Charles Winner, Mt. Savage, and one brother, Charles F. Miller, Fostoria, Ohio.

The body is at the Reichlin-Coolie Funeral Home, Lorain. A requiem mass will be held Friday at 10 a. m. in St. Mary's Catholic Church there with interment in the church cemetery.

Enlists In Army

Robert Willard Sines, Route 1, Oakland, enlisted in the First Cavalry Division for three years' service yesterday at the local Army recruiting station, according to Capt. L. M. Bairstow, officer in charge.

News Briefs

Well-baby clinics will be held by the Cumberland Health Department today at 10 a. m. at East Side School and tomorrow at 10 a. m. at the firemen's hall, Bowman's Addition, conducted by Dr. Winter R. Frantz, assistant city and county health officer.

Memorial Hospital attaches reported as "good" the condition of Robert Frank Knipper, fireman first class, who was admitted to the hospital Tuesday night after he became ill while en route to his ship on the West Coast.

The Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce will hold its regular monthly meeting at 7:30 o'clock tonight in the Chamber offices, Liberty Trust Building.

Mid-week lenten services of Centre Street Methodist Church will be held at 7:30 o'clock tonight with the pastor, Rev. Dr. Walter M. Michael, speaking on "Our Spiritual Resources."

Salary Increase Not Sponsored By City

The bill introduced in the House of Delegates Tuesday by the Allegany County Delegation to increase salaries of the mayor and councilmen of Cumberland, was not sponsored by the mayor and council, Mayor Thomas S. Post said yesterday, but he added that city officials will probably not oppose it.

Mayor Post said that some of the councilmen as well as himself were approached by members of the county delegation to the General Assembly regarding salaries. The Mayor said he told them, he felt salaries should be raised and also suggested that hours of work for the mayor and councilmen be fixed.

No Machines Found

No slot machines were found in an inspection of six Cumberland clubs Monday, police reported last night. The same results were obtained from a raid on eight clubs last week, they added. One police official said he doubted if any slot machines were in operation in this city at present.

government has contended all along that the Krug-Lewis Pact is binding for the duration of federal operation of the mines, and that it cannot be reopened without the consent of both parties.

Goldsborough's court still must rule on that key point, but the decision would have little lasting effect since government control of seized properties, carried out under wartime powers, ends June 30. President Truman recently ended the seizure authority, effective on that date on properties now in government possession.

Trial Request Expected

Thereafter, operation of the mines would rest on a new agreement between the mine owners and the union, unless Congress acts to extend the government's control authority.

As the next step, the government is expected to ask Judge Goldsborough to set a trial date to thrash out the question of contract termination.

Suit For Damages To Car Filed Here

Suit was filed in Circuit Court yesterday by Robert Fallin and the Travelers Insurance Company against Michael A. Dusic, local fool dealer, and Gene P. Hill for $500 damages as the result of a traffic mishap December 12, 1946 at Franklin and Cathedral streets, Baltimore.

Walter C. Capper, representing Fallin and the company, states in his bill that Dusic owns a truck which was operated by Hill at the time of the mishap. The truck collided with a car operated by Fallin, causing extensive damage to the auto.

Attorneys in a damage action resulting from a traffic accident early last year in the North End have reached a settlement and the suit was removed from the Circuit Court docket. The amount involved in the settlement was not disclosed.

Mrs. Jessie V. Kennedy, represented by Robert MacDonald Bruce, filed suit against Fred W. Jenkins, trading as the Astor Cab Company, alleging she was injured when a taxicab and an automobile in which she was riding collided May 28, 1946 at the intersection of Franklin Street and Columbia Avenue. The taxicab driver was accused of negligence.

Bruce also said that several other claims against the taxi company have been settled out of court. William C. Walsh and Thomas B. Finan were attorneys for Jenkins.

Arthur M. Kennedy, husband of the injured woman and owner of the car involved in the mishap, receives $263.15 for damages to the vehicle. John D. Kennedy, infant son of the couple, and Edna L. Ackerman, also in the car, were paid undisclosed amounts in the settlements.

A code of laws promulgated by King Hammurapi of Babylon is the oldest such code known.

Action Sought On Sanitary Bill

A meeting of the Allegany County Sanitary District Committee will be held tonight in the City Hall, Frostburg, at 7:30 o'clock, according to J. Milton Dick, to seek action in Annapolis on the measure. The meeting is open to the public.

Dick said yesterday, he had been informed that the bill is "in jeopardy," meaning that it is in danger of not being passed by the General Assembly, unless people in the county who are interested and affected make it known to the delegation that the measure is desirable.

At a meeting of the Potomac Park Improvement Association the group went on record urging action on the measure, described as an enabling act to set up sanitary districts within the county.

Horace P. Whitworth, chairman of the Allegany County Delegation, has indicated the bill will be held in committee because it does not provide for a referendum.

About 40 residents of the county, including public health officials and residents in outlying sections have been advocating the measure as one which would generally improve sanitary conditions, and eliminate pollution of streams, etc., Dick explained.

Two Men, Woman Fined On Disorder Charge

Two men and their woman companion were fined $10 and costs each when arraigned yesterday morning in Trial Magistrates Court on charges of acting in a disorderly manner on or near a public highway. All three pleaded guilty.

State Police listed the trio as Leonard C. Moreland, Route 1, Ridgeley, W. Va.; Herbert R. Llewellyn, Rawlings, and Virginia M Plum, 12 North Mechanic Street. They were arrested at 2:20 a. m. by Troopers William McElfish and Walter Wilt.

MEN AND WOMEN IN SERVICE

George Francis Martz, aviation radioman, first class, USN, 121 Bedford Street, is a member of U. S. Navy Patrol Squadron Eight on the island of Okinawa.

Sgt. Edward L. Ganoe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Ganoe, Romney, W. Va., who enlisted in the army January 7, this year recently completed his basic training at Fort Bragg, N. C., where he qualified as a marksman with rifle.

All the hoop-la about Robert Young, the railroader, is supposed to be a build-up for him to run as Vice President on the Republican ticket. . . . New York's District Attorney Hogan, who made it hot for Graziano, rumored to be making a pitch to succeed Dewey if Dewey tries to succeed Truman. . . The Olivia de Havilland-Joan Fontaine chill over the Academy Awards was only half the story. Judy Garland, who introduced the "best original tune of 1946" ("Atcheson, Topeka and the Santa Fe") declined to sing the Oscar award number, for reasons best known to herself. Dinah Shore was called in to substitute.

Gen. Harold George, who headed the gigantic Air Transport Command during the war, will head the new Peruvian International Airlines, starting daily flights between Montreal and Lima, Peru, next month . . Stanley Mortimer, whose ex-wife, the former Barbara Cushing, is making the gay spots with Bill (CBS) Paley, has found a new interest in Kathleen Harriman, daughter of Secretry of Commerce Averill W. Peggy Ann Garner signed to write a monthly advice-to-teen-agers column for a magazine titled "Calling All Girls." . . . Reports from the cinema capital say that Clark Gable's dancing efforts in "The Hucksters" won't becloud the fame of Fred Astaire. . . . British censors have placed "The Outlaw" where it probably belongs—in the comedy category.

"Brigadoon," the new smash hit at the Ziegfeld Theatre, has what the French call "the perfume of youth," and is the sweetest, cleanest, liveliest and loveliest musical comedy to hit the boards since "Oklahoma" blazed a trail. Billy Rose was wise in holding his theatre until it arrived, as "Brigadoon" will still be a tennant long after some of the tawdrier exhibitions have been forgotten. . . . Patricia Morison, here from Hollywood for the filming of "Kiss of Death," is planning an opera career, with "Carmen" as her first choice . . . Marc Platt, who just finished his role opposite Rita Hayworth in the Technicolor musical "Down to Earth," is working on a new ballet called "Speakeasy," set to music by Leon Petroff, with the Ballet Russe in mind. . . . Eugene Conley, ex-GI tenor who triumphed at the Paris Opera Comique recently, will return here in time to rejoin the New York City Opera troupe for its Spring season, starting April 6. . . . Selznick has dropped plans to make a movie of "Dark of the Moon," fearing censorship troubles. That drama would make a whale of a grand opera, in case any composer is listening.

MUTUAL Reliance BETWEEN Doctor and Druggist

Your Doctor and Pharmacist are members of two of the oldest and most mutually dependent professions. They are both required by law, and rigid principles within their own organizations, to spend many years of preparation before receiving their degrees of "M. D." (Doctor of Medicine) and "R. Ph." (Registered Pharmacist).
All 48 states require standards of qualification before licensing Doctors and Pharmacists to practice. Like the Doctor, the Pharmacist has his definite responsibilities to the community.
Both Doctor and Pharmacist must understand the preparation and preservation of drugs, and be well qualified in prescribing and dispensing important and often dangerous drugs. Their mutual reliance is founded on realization of responsibility to each patient.
Hand in hand with the Medical profession, Pharmacy has helped in the development of new, life-giving drugs. Truly, throughout life, your Doctor and Pharmacist are important to the well-being of your loved ones. Keep the hands of politicians off these two guardians of your health.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh
Do Men Like Women?
Maybe you read that recent article in a national magazine, claiming that American men don't really like the company of women. They just put them up on a pedestal and leave them there.
But I wouldn't say that that was so in our town. Look at any married couple—like the Cuppers. Jane wouldn't nag if Dee spent his evenings "with the boys"—but actually Dee likes nothing better than to stay home by the fire, sharing a glass of beer with Jane, playing cribbage, or just talking.
And when he does go out, for an afternoon of fishing down at Seward's Creek, or for an evening glass of beer at Andy Botkin's Garden Tavern, Jane is almost always with him (except when she's got a spot of baking in the oven).
From where I sit, respect doesn't rule out everyday companionship . . . and never should. They go together—essential parts of a successful marriage.

The President's closest advisers after a secret survey, tell him the unification plan for our military forces won't get Congressional okay in its present form.

President Aleman of Mexico will have an interesting statement to make about D. P.'s (displaced persons) when he arrives at the White House next month. . . . A group of Republican Senators will shortly introduce new anti-discrimination legislation to replace functions of the now defunct Fair Employment Practices Committee initiated by F.D.R. . . . When Paul McNutt resigns as our Philippine representative, he will open law offices in New York. . . . If Lt.-Gov. Thompson gets the Governor's chair in Georgia and goes on a "White Supremacy" ticket, ex-Gov. Ellis Arnall will oppose him as actively as he did the Talmadges. . . . All the hoop-la about Robert Young, the railroader, is supposed to be a build-up for him to run as Vice President on the Republican ticket. . . . New York's District Attorney Hogan, who made it hot for Graziano, rumored to be making a pitch to succeed Dewey if Dewey tries to succeed Truman. . . The Olivia de Havilland-Joan Fontaine chill over the Academy Awards was only half the story. Judy Garland, who introduced the "best original tune of 1946" ("Atcheson, Topeka and the Santa Fe") declined to sing the Oscar award number, for reasons best known to herself. Dinah Shore was called in to substitute.

Gen. Harold George, who headed the gigantic Air Transport Command during the war, will head the new Peruvian International Airlines, starting daily flights between Montreal and Lima, Peru, next month . . Stanley Mortimer, whose ex-wife, the former Barbara Cushing, is making the gay spots with Bill (CBS) Paley, has found a new interest in Kathleen Harriman, daughter of Secretry of Commerce Averill W. Harriman. . . . At the exact hour that Buff Cobb's engagement to Bill Eythe hit the newsstands, Buffie was in an East Side nitery in the company of Vic Mature. . . . Peggy Ann Garner signed to write a monthly advice-to-teen-agers column for a magazine titled "Calling All Girls." . . . Reports from the cinema capital say that Clark Gable's dancing efforts in "The Hucksters" won't becloud the fame of Fred Astaire. . . . British censors have placed "The Outlaw" where it probably belongs—in the comedy category.

"Brigadoon," the new smash hit at the Ziegfeld Theatre, has what the French call "the perfume of youth," and is the sweetest, cleanest, liveliest and loveliest musical comedy to hit the boards since "Oklahoma" blazed a trail. Billy Rose was wise in holding his theatre until it arrived, as "Brigadoon" will still be a tennant long after some of the tawdrier exhibitions have been forgotten. . . . Patricia Morison, here from Hollywood for the filming of "Kiss of Death," is planning an opera career, with "Carmen" as her first choice . . . Marc Platt, who just finished his role opposite Rita Hayworth in the Technicolor musical "Down to Earth," is working on a new ballet called "Speakeasy," set to music by Leon Petroff, with the Ballet Russe in mind. . . . Eugene Conley, ex-GI tenor who triumphed at the Paris Opera Comique recently, will return here in time to rejoin the New York City Opera troupe for its Spring season, starting April 6. . . . Selznick has dropped plans to make a movie of "Dark of the Moon," fearing censorship troubles. That drama would make a whale of a grand opera, in case any composer is listening.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Do Men Like Women?

Maybe you read that recent article in a national magazine, claiming that American men don't really like the company of women. They just put them up on a pedestal and leave them there.

But I wouldn't say that that was so in our town. Look at any married couple—like the Cuppers. Jane wouldn't nag if Dee spent his evenings "with the boys"—but actually Dee likes nothing better than to stay home by the fire, sharing a glass of beer with Jane, playing cribbage, or just talking.

And when he does go out, for an afternoon of fishing down at Seward's Creek, or for an evening glass of beer at Andy Botkin's Garden Tavern, Jane is almost always with him (except when she's got a spot of baking in the oven).

From where I sit, respect doesn't rule out everyday companionship . . . and never should. They go together—essential parts of a successful marriage.

MUTUAL Reliance BETWEEN Doctor and Druggist

Your Doctor and Pharmacist are members of two of the oldest and most mutually dependent professions. They are both required by law, and rigid principles within their own organizations, to spend many years of preparation before receiving their degrees of "M. D." (Doctor of Medicine) and "R. Ph." (Registered Pharmacist).

All 48 states require standards of qualification before licensing Doctors and Pharmacists to practice. Like the Doctor, the Pharmacist has his definite responsibilities to the community.

Both Doctor and Pharmacist must understand the preparation and preservation of drugs, and be well qualified in prescribing and dispensing important and often dangerous drugs. Their mutual reliance is founded on realization of responsibility to each patient.

Hand in hand with the Medical profession, Pharmacy has helped in the development of new, life-giving drugs. Truly, throughout life, your Doctor and Pharmacist are important to the well-being of your loved ones. Keep the hands of politicians off these two guardians of your health.

Eclipse SUPEREST

[illegible] Innerspring Mattress

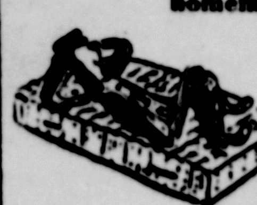
SEE those ventilating eyelets? There are close to 800 of them — 800 pores through which the mattress breathes and airs itself.

SEE those springy steel coils? See how they're padded with layer on layer of fine cotton felt. It makes your mattress extremely buoyant—and marvelously firm, too.

SEE the pre-built border? It insures the shape of your mattress against sagging—defies destruction by any bed-edge sitters.

SEE the trim taped edge? Nothing bulky about, nothing to catch stray dust and dirt. And nothing that needs constant repairing either.

SEE those firm rope handles? They're securely attached so that no pulling, no matter how strong, will get them loose. Good news for homemakers, isn't it?



SEE the good looking, strong, serviceable ticking with which this SUPEREST is covered? It will meet with your approval as it has with ours.

Advice To The Lovelorn

16-Year-Old Flirt, A "Spoiled Brat," Gets Wise To Herself — Or Does She?

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 16 years old and really a spoiled brat, and I don't want to be one.

I've been going around hurting people. By that, I mean boys' hearts. I have stacks of boy friends and I have an awful gift of being able to get any boy I want. I get them, and start them off to a romantic beginning. I tell them I'm in love, too. But that's only for a while until I see someone else I want.

Another bad thing is that I can get all the boys whose hearts I broke back, after I've been so awful. That is, I could get all but one. I think that's the one I really like. He is the one who has opened my eyes to all I've been doing, but he doesn't want me.

I'd do anything to stop this habit, or whatever you may call it. Please don't say it's up to me to get myself out, because I've tired. I also know it's my own fault. Won't you please help me?

"M.A.C."

The man a girl can't get is always the one she wants, and this goes doubly for the type of girl you are. A heartless flirt doesn't respect the boys she can get easily. But it's another story when one comes along who is proof against her shenanigans and refuses to allow her to add his scalp to her collection. Then she feels the magnetic attraction that always draws the female of the species irresistibly toward a male who's stronger than she is.

You say you've tried to mend your way, and imply that you haven't been successful. Why not? It ought not to be so terribly hard to stop being insincere and put a little sincerity into your words and actions for a change. Could it be that you're, in reality, so proud of this "awful gift" of yours for breaking boys' hearts that you're reluctant to give it up?

Suppose you begin by asking yourself—and trying to give yourself an honest answer — whether you're actually interested in this boy for what he is, or whether it may not be merely that your vanity is intrigued because your wiles won't work on him and you're determined to make him another of your victims by hook or by crook. Which is it you want me to tell you—how you can make yourself into an honest, sincere person, or how to make this boy succumb to your charms? Think about this for a while, and then let me know your answer.

One Driver Fined; Four Forfeit Bond

One driver was fined and four others forfeited bonds yesterday morning in Trial Magistrates Court on charges of violating state motor vehicle laws.

Creed George Smith, 207 Maryland Avenue, paid $6.45 on a reckless driving charge filed March 12. He was arrested on Baltimore Avenue by State Trooper William McElfish.

Walter Marshall Glenn, Charleston, W. Va., forfeited $6:45 for violation of a driver's license restriction, and Albert E. Kushall, Baltimore, forfeited a similar amount for driving without a license on Braddock Road. Trooper McElfish made the arrests last Friday.

John Henry Hager, RFD Cumberland, forfeited $6:45 for passing on a curve, and Samuel Marshall Thompson, 620 Greene Street, forfeited $6:45 on the same charge. Both were arrested last week on Route 40 by Troopers Walter Wilt and Glen Folk.

H. A. Henderson was elected president of the Wiley Ford Volunteer Fire Company at the annual meeting. Along with other officers elected he will assume office April 1.

Other officers named include M. L. Houdersheldt, first vice president; Perry Davis, second vice president; K. E. Ashenfelter, recording secretary; L. R. Brooke, financial secretary; Charles Sirna, treasurer; Eugene Abe, Jr., chief; Robert Green, assistant chief; Robert Whitacre, captain; Rev. Vernon Shanholtz, chaplain and Carl Brown, sergeant-at-arms.

Ninety-four out of every 100 women in India are mothers.

Former Residents Ill

George Patton and his sister, Mrs. Mary Geis, former residents of Allegany County, are both patients in Lutheran Hospital, Des Moines, Iowa. A brother, Joseph Patton, who lives in Illinois, recently went to visit them, became ill with a congested lung and was admitted to the same hospital, according to Mrs. Clara Klosterman, Bedford Street, and Mrs. Alice Weber, Mapleside.

Tired, "All-In"—Listless Feeling Brought To Halt
As Vibrant Energy is Released To Every Muscle, Fibre, Cell
Do you get up in the mornings still tired, feel down-and-out all day? Have you checked-up on your blood strength lately? Overwork, undue worry, cold, flu or other illness often wears down the red-blood-cells.
Every day—every hour—millions of tiny red-blood-cells must pour forth from the marrow of your bones to replace those that are worn-out. A low blood count may affect you in several ways: no appetite, underweight, no energy, a run-down condition, lack of resistance to infection and disease.
To get real relief you must keep up your blood strength. Medical authorities, by analysis of the blood, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in building up low blood strength in non-organic nutritional anemia. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.
Also, SSS Tonic helps you enjoy the food you eat by increasing the gastric digestive juice when it is non-organically too little or scanty—thus the stomach will have little cause to get balky with gas, bloat and give off that sour food taste.
Don't wait! Energize your body with rich, red-blood. Start on SSS Tonic now. As vigorous blood surges throughout your whole body, greater freshness and strength should make you eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better, have a healthy color glow in your skin—firm flesh fill out hollow places. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle from your drug store. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

Adventists Stress Medical Work

Enlargement of the medical work in North Brazil and the construction of a clinic in the city of Belem is the purpose of a special Sabbath school program to be given at the Seventh Day Adventists Church here Saturday, March 28.

According to Robert Snider, superintendent of the Seventh Day Adventist, medical evangelistic work in this area has been given a strong impetus by Pastor L. B. Holliwell and his wife, who during the past 15 years have travelled over 150,000 miles of the Amazon and its vast network of tributaries to bring health and healing to the sick and underprivileged.

Seventh Day Adventist Church leaders anticipate that the "overflow" offering to be taken this week in all of the Sabbath schools of the denomination, will provide $40,000 for the medical ministry in North Brazil.

Land has been secured in the City of Belem for a clinic and funds are on hand to begin construction, but more money is needed to complete the project.

France has created a State Institute of Aeronautical Technology, a State Aviation Academy, and has held a large national aircraft show to display new postwar designs.

David McNemar, Of Oakland, Dies In Piedmont

By GEORGE DADDYSMAN

WESTERNPORT, March 19 — David A. McNemar, 73, Oakland, died today at 7:10 a. m. at the home of his son, Lester E. McNemar, 9 Murphy Street, Piedmont, with whom he had been residing for over a year while he had been ill.

A native of Ohio Mr. McNemar was a son of the late Joseph and Mary Ellen Ridings McNemar and had resided at Oakland 15 years. He was employed with the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company for over 50 years and was employed as a watchman for the company when he retired three years ago account of illness. He was a member of the Methodist Church at Oakland.

Besides his widow, Mrs. Stella F. Schell McNemar, and son, Lester, he is survived by two other sons, Hal J. and Ray McNemar, both of Piedmont; four daughters Miss Twila McNemar, Oakland; Mrs. Edward Sollars, Deer Park; Mrs. Eston Nazelrod and Mrs. William McKone, Piedmont; one brother William McNemar, Antioch, W. Va. and two sisters Mrs. Walter Kline, Keyser, W. Va. and Mrs. Lillian Shank, Moorefield, W. Va.

The body will remain at the Bolden Funeral Home at Oakland where services will be held Saturday 2 p. m. with interment in the Deer Park Cemetery.

Repairing Theatre

James A. Welsh, owner and manager of the Welsh Theatre, Main Street, which was damaged by fire March 13, stated today that he expects to have the theatre reopened sometime next week.

The building is being remodeled and part of the roof has already been replaced.

The roof, on the part of the building occupied by Joe Nelson's Clothing Store, has been replaced.

Marriage Is Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. Ravenscroft, Philos Avenue, extended, Westernport, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Phyllis A. Ravenscroft to Perry L. Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Miller, near Westernport. The single ring ceremony was performed Saturday night at 7 o'clock at the parsonage of the Westernport First Baptist church by Rev. William B. Orndorff.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Sherman, Piedmont, were the attendants.

The bride wore an aqua wool suit, with pink and black accessories and a corsage of pink rosebuds.

Mrs. Miller is a graduate of Bruce High School, Westernport, and is employed at the G. C. Murphy Company store at Piedmont. Mr. Miller served in the Army during World War II and spent 18 months in the European theatre and is employed at the Luke plant of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company. They are residing at the home of his parents.

Dohm Rites Held

Services for Ellsworth Dohm, 44, who died Saturday in Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, were conducted at his home 221 Vine Street, extended, Westernport, yesterday afternoon by Francis Elridge, McCoole, of the Jehovah Witnesses. Interment was in Philos Cemetery, Westernport.

Pallbearers were John Kirk, Giffin McCormick, Patrick Mills, Paul Miller, James Clark and Roy Jones.

Goff Will Speak

Donald Goff, Maryland avenue, Westernport, vice president of the North Eastern Jurisdiction of the Methodist Youth Fellowship, will be the keynote speaker at the annual youth night of the Wyoming conference to be held at Endicott, N. Y. April 11-13.

Mr. Goff is a graduate of Bruce high school class of '46 and is serving as pastor of Grace Methodist church at Charleston, W. Va. who is attending Morris Harvey college at Charleston.

$600 Collected

J. Harold Baker, Piedmont, chairman for the annual drive for the Red Cross in the Piedmont district announced yesterday that $600 had been reported collected in Piedmont. The quota for the district is $1,000 which includes Elk Garden, Beryl Shaw, and Hampshire. Outside of Piedmont Baker has been unable to get the material for collecting to them on account of the bad weather.

Frostburg Moose Lodge Purchases Store Building

Two Floors To Be Used As Clubrooms

By RUDOLPH NICKEL

FROSTBURG, March 19—Arrangements to purchase a three-story brick building on West Main Street from A. Charles Stewart, register of wills, for a purchase price of $45,000, have been completed by Frostburg Lodge No. 248, Loyal Order of Moose, according to Fuller Davis, governor of the lodge.

Davis said the lodge plans to start immediately reconversion of the second and third floors for use as clubrooms. Stewart will continue to use the first floor for an indefinite period to house his men's clothing store. He has been using the second and third floors largely for storage purposes.

The 25 by 100-foot structure, located between the Gunter Hotel and the Pritchard Building, was erected by Stewart in 1922 on the site of an earlier building destroyed by fire. Besides Davis, Moose members assisting in arranging for the purchase were Frank Shriver and Walter Rank.

About four years ago the Moose lodge purchased the Hocking property on East Main Street and converted it into a home. The building will be sold or rented as soon as remodeling on the new home is completed.

Sports Frolic Planned

The Men's Athletic Association of Frostburg State Teachers' College will hold a sports frolic Friday night, March 28 from 9 to 1 in the college gymnasium, with dancing to recorded music of name bands as each orchestra is shown on a movie screen.

Tickets may be secured at the T. and S. drug store, at the Harris restaurant, or by calling the college. Alumni are invited to attend. The committee in charge includes Daniel Bohrer, Bill Kroll, Adrian Anderson, Donald Hansel and John Pfaff, Jr., with Coach David Warner as faculty advisor.

On Saturday night, March 29, Little Theatre will present the play "You Can't Take It With You." This event will also be held in the college gymnasium.

Fellowship Of Prayer

PRAYING TOGETHER

As he sat at meat with them, he took bread, and blessed it, and brake, and gave to them. And their eyes were opened, and they knew him. Luke 24:30, 31. Read Luke 11:1-4.

The ability to know Jesus as the Risen Savior depends upon appreciation, not upon evidence. Two men walked with the Risen Lord but did not recognize him until prayer opened their eyes.

The most effective tool for the necessary appreciation is always prayer. Personal prayer will help, but the full knowledge of the Risen Christ opens only to those who go together into God's presence praying, "Our Father." Jesus craved and needed those last hours with his friends in the Upper Room.

We also need the social prayer of which the Lord's Supper is the highest expression. During the sacrament, when great memories mingle with holy symbols, our hearts respond to ancient words, "In the same night in which Jesus was betrayed." Then indeed Christ as the Living Presence is known to us in the breaking of the bread.

It is not concidence that the Risen Saviour appeared to the diciples when they were together. Unless we gather regularly in prayer, his Resurrection will be merely an historical fact, not a personal experience.

Let Us Pray: Our Father, as we go to thy house to pray, help us to stretch out our hands and open our hearts to those who worship thee with us. Then shall we see together that which none of us can see alone. Amen.

Frostburg Moose Lodge Purchases Store Building

Two Floors To Be Used As Clubrooms

By RUDOLPH NICKEL

FROSTBURG, March 19—Arrangements to purchase a three-story brick building on West Main Street from A. Charles Stewart, register of wills, for a purchase price of $45,000, have been completed by Frostburg Lodge No. 248, Loyal Order of Moose, according to Fuller Davis, governor of the lodge.

Davis said the lodge plans to start immediately reconversion of the second and third floors for use as clubrooms. Stewart will continue to use the first floor for an indefinite period to house his men's clothing store. He has been using the second and third floors largely for storage purposes.

The 25 by 100-foot structure, located between the Gunter Hotel and the Pritchard Building, was erected by Stewart in 1922 on the site of an earlier building destroyed by fire. Besides Davis, Moose members assisting in arranging for the purchase were Frank Shriver and Walter Rank.

About four years ago the Moose lodge purchased the Hocking property on East Main Street and converted it into a home. The building will be sold or rented as soon as remodeling on the new home is completed.

Sports Frolic Planned

The Men's Athletic Association of Frostburg State Teachers' College will hold a sports frolic Friday night, March 28 from 9 to 1 in the college gymnasium, with dancing to recorded music of name bands as each orchestra is shown on a movie screen.

Tickets may be secured at the T. and S. drug store, at the Harris restaurant, or by calling the college. Alumni are invited to attend. The committee in charge includes Daniel Bohrer, Bill Kroll, Adrian Anderson, Donald Hansel and John Pfaff, Jr., with Coach David Warner as faculty advisor.

On Saturday night, March 29, Little Theatre will present the play "You Can't Take It With You." This event will also be held in the college gymnasium.

Miss Metzner Is Wed

Richard Junior Kamauf, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Kamauf, National, and Miss Mary Katherine Metzner, daughter of Joseph Metzner, LaVale and the late Mrs. Metzner, were married Friday at 7:30 p. m. in Zion Evangelical and Reformed Church, with Rev. Walter D. Mehrling, pastor, officiating.

The attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Walter McFarland, Wright's Crossing. The bride was attired in a navy blue street length dress with a corsage of pink rosebuds. Mrs. McFarland wore a black suit and a corsage of pink rosebuds.

The bridegroom, who attended Beall High School, is employed at the Celanese plant. The bride, a former student at Allegany High School, Cumberland, is also employed at the Celanese plant. They are residing at Wright's Crossing.

Fellowship Of Prayer

Daily Lenten Devotional

PRAYING TOGETHER

As he sat at meat with them, he took bread, and blessed it, and brake, and gave to them. And their eyes were opened, and they knew him. Luke 24:30, 31. Read Luke 11:1-4.

The ability to know Jesus as the Risen Savior depends upon appreciation, not upon evidence. Two men walked with the Risen Lord but did not recognize him until prayer opened their eyes.

The most effective tool for the necessary appreciation is always prayer. Personal prayer will help, but the full knowledge of the Risen Christ opens only to those who go together into God's presence praying, "Our Father." Jesus craved and needed those last hours with his friends in the Upper Room.

We also need the social prayer of which the Lord's Supper is the highest expression. During the sacrament, when great memories mingle with holy symbols, our hearts respond to ancient words, "In the same night in which Jesus was betrayed." Then indeed Christ as the Living Presence is known to us in the breaking of the bread.

It is not concidence that the Risen Saviour appeared to the diciples when they were together. Unless we gather regularly in prayer, his Resurrection will be merely an historical fact, not a personal experience.

Let Us Pray: Our Father, as we go to thy house to pray, help us to stretch out our hands and open our hearts to those who worship thee with us. Then shall we see together that which none of us can see alone. Amen.

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, March 19.—Extremely interesting is the cable that I just received telling me that James Mason is going to star in "The Life of King David" for Alex Korda. Mason, moreover, has agreed to make the picture within the year. It's not the book, "David the King," but a story that Korda has had for several years.

Connie Bennett

Now all this sounds wonderful and I'm printing it in the best of faith, but how do we know that Mason, who is as fickle and changeable as the March wind, won't have other ideas later on?

True, he said he'd do the picture and he likes Korda and he doesn't like J. Arthur Rank, but I've known other film people who've gone gray waiting for Mason to fulfill what they thought were bona fide commitments.

A 22-year-old angel sounds mighty "fascinating" and a young angel is what Edwin Luckenbach is called. He's the son of the Luckenbach Steamship Company head and it was his (Edwin's) not his father's money, that went into "Bathsheba," the James Mason play.

Well, the angel is headed for Hollywood and he's putting his money into "Taming Of the Shrew" which opens Saturday at the El Patio, and while here, he'll discuss the sale of "Bathsheba" for the movies. The Mason play didn't receive very good notices in New York, but bad notices haven't deterred the picture producers from buying properties in the past.

One of the people in Hollywood who heard from Maurice Chevalier is Ernst Lubitsch, his old friend, and the man who directed him in "Smiling Lieutenant," "Love Parade," and others of his best movies.

If Chevalier comes to Hollywood to make a picture, he'd like it to be for Ernst, and, naturally, if Ernst can get a story, he'd like to have Chevalier.

Awarding Ernst a special Oscar for his 25 years in the picture business was a gesture that won the approval of everyone.

Chatter in Hollywood: There has never been a happier, prouder Academy winner than Olivia DeHavilland. She's just loving every minute of this new fame, and she'd be a strange girl, indeed, if she didn't. The telegrams and flowers that have come to her have all been received with such genuine happiness.

Bette Davis, who's been up for the award seven times and is a two time winner herself, sent three dozen roses with a note of congratulations saying, "Two dozen roses are for the two girls in 'The Dark Mirror' and the other dozen are for the girl in 'To Each His Own'."

Jane Wyman called her bright and early and congratulated her and told her next to winning the Oscar herself, she was happiest Livy had won it.

All in all, it's been a wonderful week for Missy DeHavilland.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Mrs. Jack Warner flew in from New York and surprised Jack just before he received the decoration at March Field. She looks wonderful and says their daughter, Barbara, whom she left in Switzerland in school, is very happy.

Here they come. Four hundred fan club presidents who arrive the last of June for a Hollywood conference.

The pretty girl who was with Jimmy Stewart at the Academy and later at the Rathvon party was Ellen Ross. He has had a number of dates with her lately.

Rita Hayworth knocked the Racquet Club members cold when she walked out on the courts for her tennis lesson in a regular Clark Gable turtle neck sweater. And she looked pretty too. She seems so much happier since her break with the self-styled genius and like her old self. She'll get a divorce as soon as she returns to town.

Must be love. Constance Bennett has flown across the continent six times in 30 days to be with her bridegroom, Colonel Coulter. Now she is flying to Alabama to join him again. He'll be out here in June.

Eloise Jennsen, who designed all Hedy Lamarr's clothes in "Dishonored Lady," cut the tendons in her wrist very badly when she dropped a fish bowl. She was making Hedy's wardrobe for New York.

The newest dinner duet in town: Leslie Fenton and Rita Johnson at the Santa Monica Mayfair.

Philip Dorn, who was so critically ill, went home Sunday and is on the mend.

Marian Herwood Keys, assistant to Irene, has taken a leave of absence from M-G-M to await her baby. Her husband is William Keys.

Canada Lee, the famous negro actor, has received the sad word that his sister is very sick in New York. As soon as he can get away from his movie assignment at Enterprise, he'll return east.

Olga San Juan has had a matrimonial change of heart and has indefinitely postponed her marriage to Bob Moon, the radio announcer.

That's all today.

According to Trojan legend, Pallas Athena, Greek Goddess of Wisdom, kept ancient Troy from capture as long as the city retained its glistening white statue known as Palladium.

Market Finishes With Net Average Gain After Surviving Late Selloff

NEW YORK, March 19 (AP) — The stock market survived a last-hour sell-off today to finish with a net average gain for the third successive session.

Industrials lead the way in extending the recovery move in early dealings and gains ranging to more than a point were well maintained until late in the day when steels softened. High-priced "blue chips" stood firm and a majority of other issues stayed on the upside.

Volume of dealings picked up to its best level of the week, transfers totaling 760,000 shares against 660,000 Tuesday.

Nickel plate preferred jumped 3¼ to 88¼ while Philip Morris common was up ⅝ at 34½. Better performers included Santa Fe, up 1¾ at 88½; Standard Oil (N. J.), 1 at 65½; Allied Chemical 3 at 176, and Goodrich, 1¾ at 64. Also ahead were General Motors, Goodyear, Dow Chemical, Texas Co., Union Carbide, Eastman Kodak, United States Gypsum, Chesapeake & Ohio, New York Central, North American and American Water Works.

United States Steel closed off ⅛ at 72½; Youngstown Sheet was down ½ at 66½. Other losers were Consolidated Edison, Kennecott, Sears Roebuck, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, American Can and Air Reduction.

Curb gainers included Aireon preferred, General Fireproofing, American Superpower and Barium Steel. Turnover here was 230,000 shares against 190,000 Tuesday.

Railroad obligations managed to advance, on the average, for the first time in two weeks in the bond market.

Volume, still low at $3,510,000, compared with $3,020,000 Tuesday.

United States Governments held steady in the over-the-counter market with the Victory Loan 2½s of December '67-'72 at 103 9-32 bid.

Market Finishes With Net Average Gain After Surviving Late Selloff

NEW YORK, March 19 (AP) — The stock market survived a last-hour sell-off today to finish with a net average gain for the third successive session.

Industrials lead the way in extending the recovery move in early dealings and gains ranging to more than a point were well maintained until late in the day when steels softened. High-priced "blue chips" stood firm and a majority of other issues stayed on the upside.

Volume of dealings picked up to its best level of the week, transfers totaling 760,000 shares against 660,000 Tuesday.

Nickel plate preferred jumped 3¼ to 88¼ while Philip Morris common was up ⅝ at 34½. Better performers included Santa Fe, up 1¾ at 88½; Standard Oil (N. J.), 1 at 65½; Allied Chemical 3 at 176, and Goodrich, 1¾ at 64. Also ahead were General Motors, Goodyear, Dow Chemical, Texas Co., Union Carbide, Eastman Kodak, United States Gypsum, Chesapeake & Ohio, New York Central, North American and American Water Works.

United States Steel closed off ⅛ at 72½; Youngstown Sheet was down ½ at 66½. Other losers were Consolidated Edison, Kennecott, Sears Roebuck, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, American Can and Air Reduction.

Curb gainers included Aireon preferred, General Fireproofing, American Superpower and Barium Steel. Turnover here was 230,000 shares against 190,000 Tuesday.

Railroad obligations managed to advance, on the average, for the first time in two weeks in the bond market.

Volume, still low at $3,510,000, compared with $3,020,000 Tuesday.

United States Governments held steady in the over-the-counter market with the Victory Loan 2½s of December '67-'72 at 103 9-32 bid.

Utah Eliminates West Virginia U., 64-62

Victors Meet Monday In Finals At Garden

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR

NEW YORK, March 19 (AP) — Kentucky's Wildcats, top-seeded defending champions, reached the finals of the National Invitation Basketball Tournament by turning back North Carolina State 60-42, tonight and will meet Utah University for the title Monday night.

Utah, unranked in the tournament, upset second-seeded West Virginia, 64-62 in the other half of the smi-final doubleheader before a capacity crowd of 18,472 in Madison Square Garden.

North Carolina State, which played the favored Wildcats on even terms in the first half which ended with the score deadlocked at 20-all suddenly lost the range in the final period and Kentucky's classy crew won going away.

West Virginia, out-hustled all the way in a game that was not as close as the score indicated, almost pulled it out of the fire in the last minute but the Mountaineers' desperate rally fell two points short of overcoming a ten-point Utah lead.

Arnold Ferrin and Vern Gardner, a pair of six-foot four-inch veterans, set the scoring pace for the Utes with 18 points each.

Utah surprised the Mountaineers with a fine collection of ball hawks of assorted sizes who sped into an 11-4 lead in the first six minutes and went to rest at half-time holding the long end of a 30-21 score.

Pile Up 16 Point Lead

With Gardner assuming the major share of scoring lead which had been shouldered by Ferrin in the first period, the Westerners kept up the pressure in the second half with a withering fire that stretched the lead to 16 points for a time and completely demoralized the Mountaineers.

Utah which mixed an occasional fast break with a deliberate attack, held a 56-44 advantage when the clock showed only five minutes to play.

Ed Beach, whose bucket had put West Virginia in the lead at the outset, dropped a couple of free throws and Bill Zirkel hit from the floor only to have Ferrin and Gardner nullify their efforts with short shots for Utah.

Leland Byrd and Zirkel tallied again and Beach added two more as the Utah lead melted to seven points. A basket by Gardner and a free throw by Wat Misaka boosted it to ten points at 64-54 with a little more than a minute to go.

Rally Comes Too Late

At that point, the fast breaking Mountaineers, whose shots simply refused to drop on many earlier occasions, warmed up and Beach banged one in from close quarters to bring his total for the night to 14 points, high for the losers.

Jim Walthall added a free throw for West Virginia, Joe Duff hit a free throw and a field goal and that's the way it stood when Walthall fired in desperation as the game ended. He missed but was fouled on the shot and sank two free throws after play was concluded.

Gardner and Misaka played the entire game for Utah, while Ferrin and Leon Watson gave way to substitutes for the first time with a minute to go, a maneuver which contributed to the Mountaineer rally. Lineups:

AHS Cagers To Leave Saturday At 10:30 A. M. For College Park Tilt

Allegany High School's basketball squad will leave in automobiles Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock for College Park where the W. M. I. League, Cumberland and District No. 1 champions will play Sparrows Point High School Saturday at 7:30 p. m. in the University of Maryland gymnasium.

The game will determine the Class "A" scholastic basketball championship of Maryland.

Coach Walter L. Bowers last night said that 12 AHS players will make the trip. The team will remain at College Park over Saturday night and will return home Sunday afternoon or evening.

Coney's Defense Best

James P. Love Post No. 92, of Lonaconing, which took both halves and the championship, had the league's best defensive record, limiting opposing teams to only 34 points per game.

Coach Norman Gerdeman's Cumberland Amvets turned in the best team foul shooting record, hooping 274 of 484 free throws for an average of .566. The K. of C. took runner-up honors with a mark of .559 followed by the Cumberland Loyal Order of Moose with .557, Fort Cumberland Post .535 and Lonaconing .531.

One hundred and sixty-five players saw action in league games during the season. The Knights of Columbus gave 33 players a chance to show their wares while 26 played for the Amvets. The Moose and Paw Paw rosters showed 19 each, and Mt. Savage, Lonaconing, Fort Cumberland and Fulton Myers Post 17 each.

High scoring honors went to Norman Mason, Moose forward, who rolled up a grand total of 410 points.

Johnson Leads In Goals

Robert "Babe" Johnson, of Lonaconing, was runner-up with 334 points but he led the league in field goals with a total of 144. Mason's field goal total was 143. He sank 124 of 179 foul shots, however, to win the scoring title by a 76-point margin.

Mason's foul shooting percentage of .692 for 179 chances was the best performance in the league.

Royale Dairy, Gulfers, Pirates Score At "Y"

A field goal by Charles Crabtree 20 seconds before the final whistle broke a 42-42 deadlock and gave the First Methodist Church Seniors a 44 to 42 decision over the Davis (W. Va.) Eagles in a thrilling senior class game last night in the Central YMCA-Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce sponsored basketball tourney on the "Y" court.

Gene Worden, who gave an outstanding performance for Davis, sank a field shot to tie the score only to have Crabtree take a pass from out-of-bounds and tally the winning shot from a corner.

TODAY'S SCHEDULE

6 p. m.—(115)—Fogle Hoopsters vs. Armbruster's Radio Shop.
7 p. m.—(135)—Giffords All Stars vs. Cumberland Pirates.
8 p. m.—(Jr.)—St. Paul's Alumni vs. Lacy's Delicatets.
9 p. m.—(Sr.)—Coney Alumni vs. Ft. Cumberland Legion.
10 p. m.—(Jr.)—Keyser Firestones vs. Royale Dairy.
11 p. m.—(Sr.)—"Sonny" Geatz Cafe vs. Ridgeley Legion.

The Methodists led at the quarter, 12-11, at the half, 25-20 and at the end of the third period, 33-31 in the best game played thus far in the tourney.

Clarence Hartman and Don Crabtree scored 13 and 12 points for the victors while Worden racked up 27 for the team that went to the finals of last year's tournament.

Gulfers, Pirates Win

Sisk's Gulfers opened the third night's program of the tournament by turning back LeRoy's Aces, 38-24, in the 115-pound class. Bobby Mendelsohn was the big scorer for the Gulfers with 11 points while Schley Lyons paced the Aces with 10 tallies. The Gulfers held 16-15 edge at the intermission.

In a 135-pound class game, the Cumberland Pirates completely outclassed the Lonaconing Indians, 51 to 4. Keith Rowan scored the Coney team's lone field goal. Billy Kelly scored 15 points for the winners.

Charley Lattimer and Elmer Freeland accounted for 28 points as the Royale Dairy steam-rollered the LaSalle Cavaliers, 56-12 in a junior unlimited class tilt. Lattimer gathered 16 points and Freeland marked up an even dozen.

Frostburgers Win

Out-of-town teams galloped off with victories in the last two games of the evening.

Harris' Spartans, or Beall High School's varsity cagers, defeated the Mapleside Ramblers by the score of 30 to 20 in a junior unlimited class contest. "Ozzie" Nelson headed the winners with an even dozen points. The score was knotted at 15-15 at the intermission but the Spartans sewed up the game in the third quarter by blanking the locals 12-0.

Tom Bosley racked up 18 points as the Keyser American Legion walloped the Cumberland Ramblers in the final contest, a senior class tilt, 41-21. Keyser piled up a 23-7 lead at the half.

Keyser Will Play Princeton Today At Morgantown

Schoolboy Tourney To Open At 2 P. M.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., March 19 (AP)—Basketball fans from all over the state tonight converged upon Morgantown on the eve of the 34th West Virginia scholastic tournament.

Cage-conscious citizens were set for the opening at 2 p. m. tomorrow of three days of school boy competition.

The opening round schedule:

First game, 2 p. m., Weirton vs. Huntington East.

Second game, 3:30 p. m., Princeton vs. Keyser.

Third game, 8 p. m., South Charleston vs. Elkins.

Fourth game, 9:30 p. m., Beckley vs. Washington Irving of Clarksburg.

The tournament ticket office reported a sellout of the 5,000-seat Mountaineers fieldhouse for each of the three days. Semi-finals will be played Friday night, and the championship final Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Three of the eight teams pulled in tonight for lodging at the men's dormitory. They were Huntington East, South Charleston and Keyser.

14 Cagers Make Trip

KEYSER, W. Va., March 19—Coach Fred Clark and 14 members of Keyser High School's basketball squad left today at 5:30 p. m. in automobiles for Morgantown, where the Region No. 4 champions will play Princeton High School tomorrow afternoon in the state scholastic basketball tournament.

Keyser won regional honors by defeating Moorefield High School. Coach Clark's cagers have won 24 and lost two.

Legion's Softball Team Meets Friday

Players of the Fort Cumberland Post, American Legion team of the Rocking Chair Softball League, will meet Friday at 8 p. m. at the American Legion Home. Others interested in joining the team are invited to attend.

Teams Will Meet

A baseball and softball meeting will be held at the Legion of the Guardsmen club rooms, 142 North Centre Street, tonight at 8 o'clock. Players of both teams are requested to attend to be measured for uniforms.

City Softball League Opener Set For May 4

Teams Play 54 Games, Plan Split Season

The City Softball League will launch its 1947 campaign on Sunday May 4 when North End Social and Athletic Club, 1946 champions, will play the runner-up Fort Cumberland Post, American Legion team, at Community Park on the same program with the Interstate Baseball League opener between Fort Cumberland Post and Cumberland Lodge, Loyal Order of Moose.

Representatives of the ten teams in the circuit approved the schedule at a meeting last evening at the Amvets' Home. Each team will play a total of 54 games or 27 in each half of the split season schedule. The second half of the season opens in July and closes September 5.

Games Opening Week

Following the single game on opening day, May 4, the pairings for other contests that week are:

Monday, May 5—Amvets at North End, Virginia Avenue at Lacy's Delicatets, Astor Cab at East Side, Legion at Maccabees, Concord at V.F.W.

Wednesday, May 7—Maccabees at Concord, Lacy's at Astor Cab, East Side at Legion, V.F.W. at Amvets, North End at Virginia Avenue.

Friday, May 9—V.F.W. at Maccabees, Virginia Avenue at Amvets, Astor Cab at North End, Legion at Lacy's and Concord at East Side.

Concord Clothiers have replaced The Silver Grill in the league.

Cozad Heads Umpires

Floyd "Sammy" Cozad was named umpire-in-chief of the ten-club circuit.

A pennant, donated by Earl Nonneman, will be presented to the NESA Club, 1946 champions, at the inaugural game, it was announced at last night's session.

The league decided that players released after May 23 must go to one of the last three clubs in the league standings, that all players must be signed 24 hours prior to their appearance in a game and that the deadline for signing players is July 25.

Pitt Signs Coach

KOELKER WILL FIGHT ZAN FEATHERWEIGHT ON MONDAY'S CARD

Jake Koelker, promising young featherweight of the Tiger Athletic Club, will swap punches with Neil Gallagher, of the Zan Athletic Club, Morgantown, W. Va., in one of the three-round prelims next Monday night in the South Cumberland Athletic Club's amateur boxing show at the state armory.

Presley W. "Red" Mauk, matchmaker, also announced last evening that Jimmy Reed, of the South Cumberland A. C., and Ben Pough, of the Rocket A. C., middleweights, will tangle in a return match and Medford Nicholson, of the South Cumberland A. C., will collide with Bobby George of the Tiger A. C. These bouts also are listed for three rounds.

Five bouts already have been arranged for Monday's card which will get under way at 8 o'clock.

Charlie Smith and Johnny Tressler, heavyweights, will tangle in the five round main go. In the semi-final, Vance Sinclair, of Morgantown, will meet Jimmie Catanese, ace featherweight of the S.C.A.C.

The program will comprise at least eight matches.

RIDGELEY LEGION TOSSERS TO MEET

A meeting of the Ridgeley American Legion baseball team of the Interstate League will be held tonight at 7:30 o'clock for the purpose of electing a manager and discussing other plans for the 1947 season.

All players seeking a tryout with the team are urged to attend tonight's meeting.

Phil Terranova Wins

ST. LOUIS, March 19 (AP)—Phil Terranova, 130, New York, stopped Paulie Jackson, 135, Reading, Pa., in the eighth of a scheduled ten-round bout tonight. The New York featherweight had all the best of it, with a vicious body attack.

PULLS MORE AND SLIPS LESS IN BAD WEATHER!

KELLY Springfield TRACTOR TIRES

Actually these sharp-toed cleats provide more pull in any kind of weather or any ground condition. Less slip means more work time saved, less fuel. Proved best in countless tests.

Why Farmers Say Kellys Are The Best Buy—

1 Better Traction — Kelly's sturdy, sharp-angled, buttressed cleats bite more deeply—for maximum traction in any soil.

2 Self-Cleaning — No pockets to pack with dirt. Kelly's open-center tread stays clean.

3 Wear Longer — Kelly's tougher, Armorubber tread is tougher, wears longer, and keeps its Kant-Slip traction longer, too.

4 Stronger Body—Denser, stronger, pre-stretched cord gives Kelly Kant-Slips greater resistance to bumps and bruising.

Utah Eliminates West Virginia U., 64-62

Victors Meet Monday In Finals At Garden

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR

NEW YORK, March 19 (AP) — Kentucky's Wildcats, top-seeded defending champions, reached the finals of the National Invitation Basketball Tournament by turning back North Carolina State 60-42, tonight and will meet Utah University for the title Monday night.

Utah, unranked in the tournament, upset second-seeded West Virginia, 64-62 in the other half of the smi-final doubleheader before a capacity crowd of 18,472 in Madison Square Garden.

North Carolina State, which played the favored Wildcats on even terms in the first half which ended with the score deadlocked at 20-all suddenly lost the range in the final period and Kentucky's classy crew won going away.

West Virginia, out-hustled all the way in a game that was not as close as the score indicated, almost pulled it out of the fire in the last minute but the Mountaineers' desperate rally fell two points short of overcoming a ten-point Utah lead.

Arnold Ferrin and Vern Gardner, a pair of six-foot four-inch veterans, set the scoring pace for the Utes with 18 points each.

Utah surprised the Mountaineers with a fine collection of ball hawks of assorted sizes who sped into an 11-4 lead in the first six minutes and went to rest at half-time holding the long end of a 30-21 score.

Pile Up 16 Point Lead

With Gardner assuming the major share of scoring lead which had been shouldered by Ferrin in the first period, the Westerners kept up the pressure in the second half with a withering fire that stretched the lead to 16 points for a time and completely demoralized the Mountaineers.

Utah which mixed an occasional fast break with a deliberate attack, held a 56-44 advantage when the clock showed only five minutes to play.

Ed Beach, whose bucket had put West Virginia in the lead at the outset, dropped a couple of free throws and Bill Zirkel hit from the floor only to have Ferrin and Gardner nullify their efforts with short shots for Utah.

Leland Byrd and Zirkel tallied again and Beach added two more as the Utah lead melted to seven points. A basket by Gardner and a free throw by Wat Misaka boosted it to ten points at 64-54 with a little more than a minute to go.

Rally Comes Too Late

At that point, the fast breaking Mountaineers, whose shots simply refused to drop on many earlier occasions, warmed up and Beach banged one in from close quarters to bring his total for the night to 14 points, high for the losers.

Jim Walthall added a free throw for West Virginia, Joe Duff hit a free throw and a field goal and that's the way it stood when Walthall fired in desperation as the game ended. He missed but was fouled on the shot and sank two free throws after play was concluded.

Gardner and Misaka played the entire game for Utah, while Ferrin and Leon Watson gave way to substitutes for the first time with a minute to go, a maneuver which contributed to the Mountaineer rally. Lineups:

Fort Cumberland Post Establishes Scoring Records

Averages 59 Points; Coney Defense Best

Fort Cumberland Post's basketball team established five scoring records during the Interstate Basketball League season, according to figures compiled for the eight-club circuit whose teams played a schedule of 28 games.

The local American Legion cagers, managed by John "Red" Sloan, set the following marks:

Highest total points for season, 1,593.

Highest average points per game, 59.

Highest total per single game, 104, against Paw Paw.

Highest individual score per game, 45, by Jimmie Macfarlane against Paw Paw.

Highest field goal total per game, Macfarlane, 22.

Coney's Defense Best

James P. Love Post No. 92, of Lonaconing, which took both halves and the championship, had the league's best defensive record, limiting opposing teams to only 34 points per game.

Coach Norman Gerdeman's Cumberland Amvets turned in the best team foul shooting record, hooping 274 of 484 free throws for an average of .566. The K. of C. took runner-up honors with a mark of .559 followed by the Cumberland Loyal Order of Moose with .557, Fort Cumberland Post .535 and Lonaconing .531.

One hundred and sixty-five players saw action in league games during the season. The Knights of Columbus gave 33 players a chance to show their wares while 26 played for the Amvets. The Moose and Paw Paw rosters showed 19 each, and Mt. Savage, Lonaconing, Fort Cumberland and Fulton Myers Post 17 each.

High scoring honors went to Norman Mason, Moose forward, who rolled up a grand total of 410 points.

Johnson Leads In Goals

Robert "Babe" Johnson, of Lonaconing, was runner-up with 334 points but he led the league in field goals with a total of 144. Mason's field goal total was 143. He sank 124 of 179 foul shots, however, to win the scoring title by a 76-point margin.

Mason's foul shooting percentage of .692 for 179 chances was the best performance in the league.

Royale Dairy, Gulfers, Pirates Score At "Y"

A field goal by Charles Crabtree 20 seconds before the final whistle broke a 42-42 deadlock and gave the First Methodist Church Seniors a 44 to 42 decision over the Davis (W. Va.) Eagles in a thrilling senior class game last night in the Central YMCA-Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce sponsored basketball tourney on the "Y" court.

Gene Worden, who gave an outstanding performance for Davis, sank a field shot to tie the score only to have Crabtree take a pass from out-of-bounds and tally the winning shot from a corner.

TODAY'S SCHEDULE

6 p. m.—(115)—Fogle Hoopsters vs. Armbruster's Radio Shop.
7 p. m.—(135)—Giffords All Stars vs. Cumberland Pirates.
8 p. m.—(Jr.)—St. Paul's Alumni vs. Lacy's Delicatets.
9 p. m.—(Sr.)—Coney Alumni vs. Ft. Cumberland Legion.
10 p. m.—(Jr.)—Keyser Firestones vs. Royale Dairy.
11 p. m.—(Sr.)—"Sonny" Geatz Cafe vs. Ridgeley Legion.

The Methodists led at the quarter, 12-11, at the half, 25-20 and at the end of the third period, 33-31 in the best game played thus far in the tourney.

Clarence Hartman and Don Crabtree scored 13 and 12 points for the victors while Worden racked up 27 for the team that went to the finals of last year's tournament.

Gulfers, Pirates Win

Sisk's Gulfers opened the third night's program of the tournament by turning back LeRoy's Aces, 38-24, in the 115-pound class. Bobby Mendelsohn was the big scorer for the Gulfers with 11 points while Schley Lyons paced the Aces with 10 tallies. The Gulfers held 16-15 edge at the intermission.

In a 135-pound class game, the Cumberland Pirates completely outclassed the Lonaconing Indians, 51 to 4. Keith Rowan scored the Coney team's lone field goal. Billy Kelly scored 15 points for the winners.

Charley Lattimer and Elmer Freeland accounted for 28 points as the Royale Dairy steam-rollered the LaSalle Cavaliers, 56-12 in a junior unlimited class tilt. Lattimer gathered 16 points and Freeland marked up an even dozen.

Frostburgers Win

Out-of-town teams galloped off with victories in the last two games of the evening.

Harris' Spartans, or Beall High School's varsity cagers, defeated the Mapleside Ramblers by the score of 30 to 20 in a junior unlimited class contest. "Ozzie" Nelson headed the winners with an even dozen points. The score was knotted at 15-15 at the intermission but the Spartans sewed up the game in the third quarter by blanking the locals 12-0.

Tom Bosley racked up 18 points as the Keyser American Legion walloped the Cumberland Ramblers in the final contest, a senior class tilt, 41-21. Keyser piled up a 23-7 lead at the half.

Schoolboy Tourney To Open At 2 P. M.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., March 19 (AP)—Basketball fans from all over the state tonight converged upon Morgantown on the eve of the 34th West Virginia scholastic tournament.

Cage-conscious citizens were set for the opening at 2 p. m. tomorrow of three days of school boy competition.

The opening round schedule:

First game, 2 p. m., Weirton vs. Huntington East.

Second game, 3:30 p. m., Princeton vs. Keyser.

Third game, 8 p. m., South Charleston vs. Elkins.

Fourth game, 9:30 p. m., Beckley vs. Washington Irving of Clarksburg.

The tournament ticket office reported a sellout of the 5,000-seat Mountaineers fieldhouse for each of the three days. Semi-finals will be played Friday night, and the championship final Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Three of the eight teams pulled in tonight for lodging at the men's dormitory. They were Huntington East, South Charleston and Keyser.

14 Cagers Make Trip

KEYSER, W. Va., March 19—Coach Fred Clark and 14 members of Keyser High School's basketball squad left today at 5:30 p. m. in automobiles for Morgantown, where the Region No. 4 champions will play Princeton High School tomorrow afternoon in the state scholastic basketball tournament.

Keyser won regional honors by defeating Moorefield High School. Coach Clark's cagers have won 24 and lost two.

Legion's Softball Team Meets Friday

City Softball League Opener Set For May 4

Teams Play 54 Games, Plan Split Season

The City Softball League will launch its 1947 campaign on Sunday May 4 when North End Social and Athletic Club, 1946 champions, will play the runner-up Fort Cumberland Post, American Legion team, at Community Park on the same program with the Interstate Baseball League opener between Fort Cumberland Post and Cumberland Lodge, Loyal Order of Moose.

Representatives of the ten teams in the circuit approved the schedule at a meeting last evening at the Amvets' Home. Each team will play a total of 54 games or 27 in each half of the split season schedule. The second half of the season opens in July and closes September 5.

Games Opening Week

Following the single game on opening day, May 4, the pairings for other contests that week are:

Monday, May 5—Amvets at North End, Virginia Avenue at Lacy's Delicatets, Astor Cab at East Side, Legion at Maccabees, Concord at V.F.W.

Wednesday, May 7—Maccabees at Concord, Lacy's at Astor Cab, East Side at Legion, V.F.W. at Amvets, North End at Virginia Avenue.

Friday, May 9—V.F.W. at Maccabees, Virginia Avenue at Amvets, Astor Cab at North End, Legion at Lacy's and Concord at East Side.

Concord Clothiers have replaced The Silver Grill in the league.

Cozad Heads Umpires

Floyd "Sammy" Cozad was named umpire-in-chief of the ten-club circuit.

A pennant, donated by Earl Nonneman, will be presented to the NESA Club, 1946 champions, at the inaugural game, it was announced at last night's session.

The league decided that players released after May 23 must go to one of the last three clubs in the league standings, that all players must be signed 24 hours prior to their appearance in a game and that the deadline for signing players is July 25.

Pitt Signs Coach

KOELKER WILL FIGHT ZAN FEATHERWEIGHT ON MONDAY'S CARD

Jake Koelker, promising young featherweight of the Tiger Athletic Club, will swap punches with Neil Gallagher, of the Zan Athletic Club, Morgantown, W. Va., in one of the three-round prelims next Monday night in the South Cumberland Athletic Club's amateur boxing show at the state armory.

Presley W. "Red" Mauk, matchmaker, also announced last evening that Jimmy Reed, of the South Cumberland A. C., and Ben Pough, of the Rocket A. C., middleweights, will tangle in a return match and Medford Nicholson, of the South Cumberland A. C., will collide with Bobby George of the Tiger A. C. These bouts also are listed for three rounds.

Five bouts already have been arranged for Monday's card which will get under way at 8 o'clock.

Charlie Smith and Johnny Tressler, heavyweights, will tangle in the five round main go. In the semi-final, Vance Sinclair, of Morgantown, will meet Jimmie Catanese, ace featherweight of the S.C.A.C.

The program will comprise at least eight matches.

RIDGELEY LEGION TOSSERS TO MEET

A meeting of the Ridgeley American Legion baseball team of the Interstate League will be held tonight at 7:30 o'clock for the purpose of electing a manager and discussing other plans for the 1947 season.

All players seeking a tryout with the team are urged to attend tonight's meeting.

Phil Terranova Wins

ST. LOUIS, March 19 (AP)—Phil Terranova, 130, New York, stopped Paulie Jackson, 135, Reading, Pa., in the eighth of a scheduled ten-round bout tonight. The New York featherweight had all the best of it, with a vicious body attack.

PULLS MORE AND SLIPS LESS IN BAD WEATHER
KELLY Springfield TRACTOR TIRES
Actually these sharp-toed cleats provide more pull in any kind of weather or any ground condition. Less slip means more work time saved, less fuel. Proved best in countless tests.
Why Farmers Say Kellys Are The Best Buy—
1 Better Traction — Kelly's sturdy, sharp-angled, buttressed cleats bite more deeply—for maximum traction in any soil.
2 Self-Cleaning — No pockets to pack with dirt. Kelly's open-center tread stays clean.
3 Wear Longer — Kelly's famous Armorubber tread is tougher, wears longer, and keeps its Kant-Slip traction longer, too.
4 Stronger Body—Denser, stronger, pre-stretched cord gives Kelly Kant-Slips greater resistance to bumps and shocks.

"Bud" Fisher Is Besieged With Scholarship Offers

FISHER'S RECORD

Here's "Bud" Fisher's four-year scoring record in basketball:

Grade	G.	F.	Pct.	Pts.
9th	106	27-46	60	260
10th	147	94-149	63	388
11th	153	103-140	74	409
12th	163	125-168	75	451
Totals	560	349-503	69	1,508

Bruce "Bud" Fisher, Bedford (Pa.) High School's brilliant all-around athlete, has received so many scholarship offers that he has not fully made up his mind as to what school he will attend after he is graduated in June.

The triple threat back of Bedford's gridiron team and scoring ace of the Bisons' basketball team has an appointment to the United States Military Academy, West Point, and a chance to trade that appointment for one to the United States Naval Academy. Scholarship offers have been received from colleges in Pennsylvania, Virginia and North Carolina.

"Bud" will take the college entrance exams on April 16 and the results of that test will largely determine his choice which will likely be one of the service schools.

Came From Ferndale

Fisher attended Ferndale High School until the end of his freshman year when his dad, Bruce M. Fisher, moved to Bedford to take over the coaching duties there. At Ferndale "Bud" earned his numerals in football and a varsity letter in basketball.

In his sophomore year at Bedford, he received honorable mention on the All-District football team as a back because of his outstanding passing and all-around play. In his junior year, he was chosen an alternate on the All-District and All-State teams as a back, and was the main-spring in the Bisons' undefeated high scoring machine which ranked seventh in the state. Despite the fact that he was handicapped by a muscle injury, "Bud" was the sparkplug of the Bisons' grid team in his senior year and won honorable mention on the All-District team.

He's Triple Threat Man

Last year the Buffaloes' ace was chosen on the all-state alternate team as forward in basketball and during his three years of competition at Bedford High he has led his team to three successive county championships and this year the Bisons advanced to the finals in the district.

In four years of high school basketball, "Bud" has racked up 569 field goals and 1,487 points, an average of 372 points per season. His four-year foul shooting average is 69 per cent for 349 conversions in 503 tries.

Scored 451 Points

For the cage season just concluded, Fisher topped all scorers in the tri-state district with a total of 451 points in 24 games, an average of 19 points per game. He meshed 125 of 168 free throws for a 74 per cent average for the second straight year. Bedford won 15 games and lost 9 and out of a total of 816 points credited to the Bisons, Fisher accounted for 55.3 per cent of the tallies.

The popular lad is an honor student and has not missed the honor roll once during his entire four years of high school work.

He takes part in baseball, plays some golf and tennis, is a good swimmer and has a strong interest in aviation—one of his hobbies being the building of model planes.

Ted Gets New Contract

GREEN BAY, Wis., March 19 (AP)—Ted Fritsch, the National Football League's leading scorer in 1946, signed a new contract with the Green Bay Packers yesterday, Coach E. L. (Curly) Lambeau reported.

The stocky former Wisconsin Teachers College fullback who won all-league honors last fall has completed five seasons with the Green Bay club.

Holy Cross Tests Navy In Opening Tourney Contest

CCNY Meets Wisconsin In NCAA Tilt Tonight

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK, March 10 (AP) — N.C.A.A. tournament teams, five of them conference champions, today prepared to muscle into the basketball spotlight with the opening play in the eastern competition set to start in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night.

Navy, Holy Cross, City College and Wisconsin move into the Garden picture for a two-night stand following tonight's national invitation tourney semi-finals between Kentucky and North Carolina State and Utah and West Virginia.

Holy Cross (24-3) and Navy (16-1) will hook up in tomorrow night's 8 p. m. (EST) opener and C.C.N.Y (16-4) and Wisconsin's Big Nine kings (15-5) will clash in the 9:45 p. m. (EST) finale. The victors of these contests will then tangle Saturday for the eastern crown and the right to meet the western regional titleholders in the Garden Tuesday.

The western competition gets under way Friday night in the Kansas City auditorium. The four district representatives in the eliminations are all conference champions. In the first round Texas, (23-1), Southwest Conference, engages Wyoming (22-4), Big Seven, and Oklahoma (22-6), Big Six, meets Oregon State (27-4), Pacific Coast Conference. The winners will battle it out Saturday night for the No. 1 spot in the New York windup of the tournament.

The Iron Age began about 1,000 B. C.

DANNY DREW WILL PLAY WITH AMVETS

Danny Drew will play an outfield position with the Cumberland Amvets baseball team of the Bi-State League, it was announced yesterday by Norman Gerdeman, manager of the local club.

Drew, former Frostburg outfielder, played with Jersey City in the International League, prior to joining the armed service. He played with Frostburg the early part of 1946 and then wound up the season with Newport News, Va.

President Of Old Federal Loop Dies

WAUKEGAN, Ill., March 19—(AP)—James A. Gilmore, 71, former president of the Federal Baseball League which flourished briefly as a threat to the major leagues before World War I, died at Downey Veterans' Administration Hospital today.

Gilmore, manager of a New York brokerage firm until the mid-thirties, died of a stroke complicated by penumonia after a long illness.

A native of Portsmouth, Ohio, Gilmore was in the coal business when he took the helm of the upstart Federal League in 1913. He succeeded in wooing several wealthy promoters into the league in 1915, but the circuit collapsed the following year.

"Bud" Fisher Is Besieged With Scholarship Offers

FISHER'S RECORD

Here's "Bud" Fisher's four-year scoring record in basketball:

Grade	G.	F.	Pct.	Pts.
9th	106	27-46	60	260
10th	147	94-149	63	388
11th	153	103-140	74	409
12th	163	125-168	75	451
Totals	569	349-503	69	1,508

Bruce "Bud" Fisher, Bedford (Pa.) High School's brilliant all-around athlete, has received so many scholarship offers that he has not fully made up his mind as to what school he will attend after he is graduated in June.

The triple threat back of Bedford's gridiron team and scoring ace of the Bisons' basketball team has an appointment to the United States Military Academy, West Point, and a chance to trade that appointment for one to the United States Naval Academy. Scholarship offers have been received from colleges in Pennsylvania, Virginia and North Carolina.

"Bud" will take the college entrance exams on April 16 and the results of that test will largely determine his choice which will likely be one of the service schools.

Came From Ferndale

Fisher attended Ferndale High School until the end of his freshman year when his dad, Bruce M. Fisher, moved to Bedford to take over the coaching duties there. At Ferndale "Bud" earned his numerals in football and a varsity letter in basketball.

In his sophomore year at Bedford, he received honorable mention on the All-District football team as a back because of his outstanding passing and all-around play. In his junior year, he was chosen an alternate on the All-District and All-State teams as a back, and was the main-spring in the Bisons' undefeated high scoring machine which ranked seventh in the state. Despite the fact that he was handicapped by a muscle injury, "Bud" was the sparkplug of the Bisons' grid team in his senior year and won honorable mention on the All-District team.

Last year the Buffaloes' ace was chosen on the all-state alternate team as forward in basketball and during his three years of competition at Bedford High he has led his team to three successive county championships and this year the Bisons advanced to the finals in the district.

In four years of high school basketball, "Bud" has racked up 509 field goals and 1,487 points, an average of 372 points per season. His four-year foul shooting average is 69 per cent for 349 conversions in 503 tries.

Scored 451 Points

For the cage season just concluded, Fisher topped all scorers in the tri-state district with a total of 451 points in 24 games, an average of 19 points per game. He meshed 125 of 168 free throws for a 74 per cent average for the second straight year. Bedford won 15 games and lost 9 and out of a total of 816 points credited to the Bisons, Fisher accounted for 55.3 per cent of the tallies.

The popular lad is an honor student and has not missed the honor roll once during his entire four years of high school work.

He takes part in baseball, plays some golf and tennis, is a good swimmer and has a strong interest in aviation—one of his hobbies being the building of model planes.

Ted Gets New Contract

GREEN BAY, Wis., March 19 (AP)—Ted Fritsch, the National Football League's leading scorer in 1946, signed a new contract with the Green Bay Packers yesterday, Coach E. L. (Curly) Lambeau reported.

The stocky former Wisconsin Teachers College fullback who won all-league honors last fall has completed five seasons with the Green Bay club.

Holy Cross Tests Navy In Opening Tourney Contest

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK, March 10 (AP)—N.C.A.A. tournament teams, five of them conference champions, today prepared to muscle into the basketball spotlight with the opening play in the eastern competition set to start in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night.

Navy, Holy Cross, City College and Wisconsin move into the Garden picture for a two-night stand following tonight's national invitation tourney semi-finals between Kentucky and North Carolina State and Utah and West Virginia.

Holy Cross (24-3) and Navy (16-1) will hook up in tomorrow night's 8 p. m. (EST) opener and C.C.N.Y (16-4) and Wisconsin's Big Nine kings (15-5) will clash in the 9:45 p. m. (EST) finale. The victors of these contests will then tangle Saturday for the eastern crown and the right to meet the western regional titleholders in the Garden Tuesday.

The western competition gets under way Friday night in the Kansas City auditorium. The four district representatives in the eliminations are all conference champions. In the first round Texas, (23-1), Southwest Conference, engages Wyoming (22-4), Big Seven, and Oklahoma (22-6), Big Six, meets Oregon State (27-4), Pacific Coast Conference. The winners will battle it out Saturday night for the No. 1 spot in the New York windup of the tournament.

The Iron Age began about 1,000 B. C.

DANNY DREW WILL PLAY WITH AMVETS

Danny Drew will play an outfield position with the Cumberland Amvets baseball team of the Bi-State League, it was announced yesterday by Norman Gerdeman, manager of the local club.

Drew, former Frostburg outfielder, played with Jersey City in the International League, prior to joining the armed service. He played with Frostburg the early part of 1946 and then wound up the season with Newport News, Va.

President Of Old Federal Loop Dies

WAUKEGAN, Ill., March 19—(AP)—James A. Gilmore, 71, former president of the Federal Baseball League which flourished briefly as a threat to the major leagues before World War I, died at Downey Veterans' Administration Hospital today.

Gilmore, manager of a New York brokerage firm until the mid-thirties, died of a stroke complicated by penumonia after a long illness.

A native of Portsmouth, Ohio, Gilmore was in the coal business when he took the helm of the upstart Federal League in 1913. He succeeded in wooing several wealthy promoters into the league in 1915, but the circuit collapsed the following year.

Card of Thanks

We wish to take this means of expressing our thanks to our friends, neighbors and relatives who were so kind to us during the recent illness and following the death of our beloved wife, mother, daughter and sister, Mrs. Catherine L. Norris. We are grateful to those who sent floral tributes and donated cars for the funeral. We especially wish to thank pastor Phillip E. Preister for his consideration and the choir of Trinity Lutheran Church.

PICKED MEN WANTED
for interesting work in Japan
ALL EXPENSES PAID AND $90 PER MONTH

U. S. Army Ground Forces units now on peacetime duty in the Far East include some of the most famous combat divisions of the war. The First Cavalry Division, for example, now mechanized in Japan, made an unforgettable record. It was the first U. S. unit that reached Manila and Tokyo, and received Distinguished Unit citations for action on Los Negros, Kwajalein and Leyte.

Picked young men who can meet the high standards of the Regular Army, and who enlist for three years, can now join this great division, after initial training in the U. S., and help enforce peace in the Orient.

Service in the Far East today provides excellent living conditions and recreation facilities. Sightseeing is encouraged. Swimming pools, athletic fields, well-equipped clubs are available to soldiers. Overseas pay, 20% higher than at home, starts at $90 a month for a Private, plus food, clothing, quarters, medical and dental care and other benefits. Enlistments open to men 18 to 34 inclusive (17 with parents' consent). Full details at

We wish to take this means of expressing our thanks to our friends, neighbors and relatives who were so kind to us during the recent illness and following the death of our beloved wife, mother, daughter and sister, Mrs. Catherine L. Norris. We are grateful to those who sent floral tributes and donated cars for the funeral. We especially wish to thank pastor Phillip E. Preister for his consideration and the choir of Trinity Lutheran Church.

PICKED MEN WANTED
ALL EXPENSES PAID AND $90 PER MONTH

U. S. Army Ground Forces units now on peacetime duty in the Far East include some of the most famous combat divisions of the war. The First Cavalry Division, for example, now mechanized in Japan, made an unforgetable record. It was the first U. S. unit that reached Manila and Tokyo, and received Distinguished Unit citations for action on Los Negros, Kwajalein and Leyte.

Picked young men who can meet the high standards of the Regular Army, and who enlist for three years, can now join this great division, after initial training in the U. S., and help enforce peace in the Orient.

Service in the Far East today provides excellent living conditions and recreation facilities. Sightseeing is encouraged. Swimming pools, athletic fields, well-equipped clubs are available to soldiers. Overseas pay, 20% higher than at home, starts at $90 a month for a Private, plus food, clothing, quarters, medical and dental care and other benefits. Enlistments open to men 18 to 34 inclusive (17 with parents' consent). Full details at Assignee's Sale of Four Room House and Lot Located at Rawlings, Maryland.

Under and by virtue of a Power of Sale contained in a mortgage from Philip Liwellyn and Macie M. Liwellyn, his wife, dated May 18th 1944, and recorded in Liber No. 170, folio 124, of the Mortgage Records of Allegany County, and duly assigned to the undersigned for the purpose of foreclosure, default having occurred in the covenants and provisions of said mortgage, I will offer at public sale on the corner of Baltimore and Liberty Streets, beside the Second National Bank, in Cumberland, Maryland, on Saturday, March 22nd, 1947, at 10:00 o'clock, A. M., the following property, to-wit:

All that lot or parcel of ground situated in Election District No. 7, near Rawlings Station in Allegany County, Maryland, and beginning for the same at a stake from which the East corner of the foundation wall of the residence on this piece of ground stands North 80 degrees and 56 minutes West 42-15/100 feet, said stake stands on the Southwest side of a 35 foot street and running thence with said Street, North 35 degrees and 20 minutes West 150 feet to a stake at the South intersection of said 35 foot street, with a 15 foot alleyway, thence with said allayway, South 48 degrees and 25 minutes West 300 feet to a stake, thence South 34 degrees and 15 minutes East 130-4/10 feet to a stake in line with a fence, thence with approximate fence line, North 50 degrees and 07 minutes East 300 feet to the beginning.

This property is improved with a four room frame house with well on property and about an acre of ground located about one-half mile East of Rawlings and 300 feet from the McMullen Highway.

TERMS OF SALE: One-third cash on day of sale and balance upon ratification of sale and delivery of a deed therefor.

EDWARD J. RYAN,
Assignee of Mortgage.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

Helen A. Bottemer, Vs. Lawrence P. Bottemer, No. 19905, Equity, in the Circuit Court, for Allegany County, Maryland.

The object of this Bill of Complaint is to secure the passage of a decree divorcing Helen A. Bottemer, Complainant, A VINCULO MATRIMONII, from Lawrence P. Bottemer, the Defendant.

The Bill of Complaint states that the couple were married on July twenty-fourth, 1945, at St. Augustine, Florida, and lived together for approximately ten days at which time the Defendant exhibited severe cruelty toward the Complainant, at which time she returned to Cumberland, and has lived here ever since; the Bill further states that she has attempted to effect a reconciliation, her efforts have been of no avail. No children were born of this marriage. The separation of the parties has been continuous and unbroken for more than eighteen consecutive months before the filing of this suit for an absolute divorce and that the Complainant is a resident of the state of Maryland, and that the Defendant is a non-resident of this state and when last heard from was a resident of the state of Florida. The bill prays the Court to grant her the right to resume the use of her maiden name, Helen A. Combs, and for such other and further relief as may be proper in Equity.

It is thereupon this 26th. day of February, 1947, ORDERED by the Circuit Court, for Allegany County, Maryland, sitting in Equity, that the Plaintiff cause a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Allegany County, one each week, for four successive weeks, before the 30th. day of March, 1947, giving notification to the said Lawrence P. Bottemer, absentee Defendant, of the object and substance of this Bill of Complaint, and warning him to be and appear in this Court, either in person, or by solicitor, on or before the 15th. day of April, 1947, to show cause, if any he may have, why a decree ought not be passed as prayed.

ROBERT JACKSON,
Clerk.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of this Bill of Complaint is to secure the passage of a decree divorcing Helen A. Bottemer, Complainant, A VINCULO MATRIMONII, from Lawrence P. Bottemer, the Defendant.

The Bill of Complaint states that the couple were married on July twenty-fourth, 1945, at St. Augustine, Florida, and lived together for approximately ten days at which time the Defendant exhibited severe cruelty toward the Complainant, at which time she returned to Cumberland, and has lived here ever since; the Bill further states that she has attempted to effect a reconciliation, her efforts have been of no avail. No children were born of this marriage. The separation of the parties has been continuous and unbroken for more than eighteen consecutive months before the filing of this suit for an absolute divorce and that the Complainant is a resident of the state of Maryland, and that the Defendant is a non-resident of this state and when last heard from was a resident of the state of Florida. The bill prays the Court to grant her the right to resume the use of her maiden name, Helen A. Combs, and for such other and further relief as may be proper in Equity.

It is thereupon this 26th. day of February, 1947, ORDERED by the Circuit Court, for Allegany County, Maryland, sitting in Equity, that the Plaintiff cause a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Allegany County, one each week, for four successive weeks, before the 30th. day of March, 1947, giving notification to the said Lawrence P. Bottemer, absentee Defendant, of the object and substance of this Bill of Complaint, and warning him to be and appear in this Court, either in person, or by solicitor, on or before the 15th. day of April, 1947, to show cause, if any he may have, why a decree ought not be passed as prayed.

Committee Approves Wholesale Liquor Bill

Manager Would Be Named By Board

Favorable report of the Judiciary Committee of the House of Delegates was given yesterday afternoon to a measure which proposes to set up a wholesale liquor dispensary to be operated by Allegany County in a move to increase revenue.

The bill as approved provides for appointment of a dispensary manager by the same liquor control board that would regulate the retail liquor business in the county in event the Legislature passes a retail liquor measure.

At the time the bill was approved, a retail liquor bill had not been prepared and the method of appointing the liquor control board was not determined.

First Indication

While it had been considered likely that a liquor control board would regulate the retail liquor business under a new law to replace that declared unconstitutional by the Court of Appeals, this was the first indication from Annapolis that such a board would be created to handle the retail setup.

Delegate Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., sponsor of the measure, originally had proposed that the dispensary manager be appointed by the judges of the Fourth Judicial Circuit, but he had to amend this provision because of the Court of Appeals decision that the judges were performing a non-judicial function in administering the county retail liquor law.

Whitworth then proposed that the manager be appointed by a three-man board to be appointed by the governor, two of the members to be chosen from the political party polling the largest number of votes in the last preceding gubernatorial election in Allegany County and the third member to be selected from the party polling the next greatest number of votes in the county.

This provision, however, was stricken from the bill, Whitworth said, and the method of choosing the members of the liquor control board will be set forth in the retail liquor bill.

Predicts $300,000 Annually

Whitworth, when he introduced his bill, predicted that it would provide the county with revenue amounting to at least $300,000 annually. He intimated that it would provide property owners with some relief in regard to the "ever increasing property tax."

Under the bill the dispensary would operate for the sale and distribution of all alcoholic beverages except beer to licensed dealers of the county. It would begin operation as a monopoly January 1, 1948.

Another measure designed to increase the county's revenue was introduced in the House yesterday by the Allegany County delegation. This is a bill to provide a $10 license fee for billboards erected in the county.

Pension Bill Offered

A measure to provide for retiring and pensioning Allegany County employes of 65 years who have served not less than 20 years and for the levy of the cost annually by the County Commissioners was introduced yesterday by Delegate William H. Geppert. It was referred to the Allegany County delegation.

Sen. Robert B. Kimble introduced a bill to provide that the Allegany County Commissioners levy enough to pay the First District tax collector $500 for the year 1946, and $200 to collectors in the Second and Third districts for the same year.

Receivers Named For Burnwell Coal At Grantsville

40 Idle As Strip Mine Is Closed

A petition for the appointment of a receiver for the Burnwell Coal Company of near Grantsville, has been filed in Garrett County Circuit Court, and Chief Judge William A. Huster has signed an order naming J. Fred Graves, Baltimore, president of the company and A. T. Matthews, an Oakland attorney as receivers. The petition was filed by Walter W. Dawson, Oakland attorney.

According to Matthews, plans have not been formulated by the receivers as to whether the business will be sold, liquidated or operated, as he has not had time to cover the problem thoroughly.

The operation, a strip mine, producing a high grade of six-foot vein coal employed about 40 men and truckers, it was reported. Several of them, including James Morgan, 721 Columbia Avenue, shop steward of Operating Engineers Local No. 37; W. L. Dorsey, 621 Henderson Avenue, secretary-treasurer of the Associated Truckers of Grantsville; J. Riley, RFD 1, this city; Charles Glass, Swanton; William Carder, this city; and Bruce Sweitzer, Swanton, went to Oakland yesterday and conferred with Matthews on the question of continued operation.

Some of the men contend that the company owes them money in wages, and Morgan said last night some of the men had company checks which were not honored by the bank. He said they had been instructed to file claims for all wages due and past due.

Frank Powers, mine inspector said the Burnwell operation has about 700 acres of high grade six-foot vein coal near Grantsville, under lease, and that the company does no deep mining. He said the operation has been closed this week as a result of the court action.

Powers also stated that John Keister who was formerly associated with Graves in the Burnwell operation, is no longer connected with the company, he and Graves having dissolved their partnership or working agreement last November. Since then Keister has been operating a deep mine nearby, employing about 12 or 15 men, known as the Laurel Coal Company.

Workmen from the Burnwell Company said last night the strip mine operation has been producing about 6,000 tons of coal a month.

SURVIVES OPERATION—James Bennett, 3, 17 Fifth Street, who was rushed from Allegany Hospital here to University Hospital, Baltimore, Monday night was reported in a "satisfactory" condition late last night following a lengthy brain operation. It was reported the operation disclosed there was no brain abscess but the exact results of the operation were not available last night. "Jimmie" suddenly developed an "expanding skull lesion" while a patient at the local hospital. Last night's operation was the second he has undergone in the past two days. The above picture was taken when he was two years old.

Utility Workers Offer Support To Bus Drivers

"Handwriting On Wall," Says Dean

Declaring that the "handwriting is on the wall" if the Potomac Edison Company maintains its present position in the strike of bus drivers and maintenance men, James A. Dean, president of Local 331, Utility Workers Union of America, CIO, wrote to Mayor Thomas S. Post yesterday expressing appreciation for his efforts in calling upon the company to submit the dispute to arbitration.

Dean, who heads the local composed of workers for the Potomac Edison Company in the River and Celanese plants, Union Street Steam-Heating plant and the Cumberland Line Department, was asked if the statement meant that union members planned to stage a sympathy strike in event the current dispute is prolonged, but he did not elaborate further, saying only, "the statement speaks for itself."

Meanwhile, no new developments were reported by management or the union in the strike that has tied up city bus transportation for the past 14 days.

In his letter to the Mayor, Dean wrote:

Conveys Thanks

"Local Union 331 of the Utility Workers Union of America, CIO . . . does hereby wish to convey to you its sincere thanks for the efforts you are making in calling upon the Potomac Edison Company to submit to arbitration, the present dispute which exists between it and the local bus drivers and maintenance men.

"It is not our desire to create public hysteria, but, we feel it is our duty to inform you, that, if the present position of the Potomac Edison Company is continued, then the 'handwriting is clearly upon the wall.'

"Our contract with the Potomac Edison Company expires on May 1, 1947, and we earnestly hope that the present situation is not a preview of 'darker days to come.' "

Asked to comment yesterday on action of the Mayor and Council who Monday passed a resolution relative to taking over city transportation, Dr. Horace B. Flack, head of the Legislative Reference Bureau at Annapolis, said any action would depend entirely on the situation and that he would be unable to comment definitely until he had seen a bill prepared on the subject.

Very Broad Powers

However, Dr. Flack did say that "there are very broad police powers for taking over in such cases where public health and welfare are concerned" and that the state has very broad powers in some cases which it can relegate to the various subdivisions when it sees fit.

Whether these powers would apply to the Cumberland situation Dr. Flack said he is not prepared to state at this time.

Mayor Post admitted yesterday the possibility that the city would not have authority to take over transportation but added that he wants an opinion from City Attorney Charles Z. Heskett. In event the city cannot, the Mayor said he would inquire into the possibility of having legislation enacted whereby the city could be authorized to purchase transportation equipment to be operated by the city.

While the proposal to take over transportation has drawn some comment that it would interfere with free enterprise, the Mayor declared it would not set a precedent.

Hints At "Reprisals"

He also hinted at "reprisals" in connection with the Potomac Edison Company, and said that the city has given "this utility every courtesy and every consideration and in my opinion the company is not snowing the residents of this city a similar courtesy in this matter."

Henry W. Price, PE manager here, said he had no comment to make.

Regardless of the fate of Monday's resolution and the repeated efforts of the Mayor to get the present dispute into arbitration, there was no doubt yesterday that a great bulk of the union membership in the area, both AFL and CIO, had swung solidly behind the Mayor and were even regarding him as a spokesman.

Striking bus drivers were jubilant

Four Scouts Pass Second Class Tests

Four Cumberland Boy Scouts were advanced to the rank of second class after passing requirements before a Board of Review Tuesday night at Boy Scout headquarters.

Successful scouts were Donald Stimely, Troop 2, B. and O. Y. M. C. A.; Paul Lanham, Troop 4, Centre Street Methodist Church; and Joseph Wuertz and Francis Haselberger, Troop 8, St. Mary's Catholic Church.

Members of the Board of Review are Edgar T. Duke, chairman; and Bernard J. Beck and F. T. Bell.

Army Advisory Committee Will Sponsor Forum

Plan Panel Talk On Military Training

A meeting of the Citizens Advisory committee of the Second Army will be held Friday, March 28, at 6 p. m. at the Golden Gate Tea Room, followed by a panel discussion at 7:30 to 8 p. m. in the City Hall auditorium, which will be broadcast over WTBO, and will be open to the public.

Thomas F. Conlon, former mayor and chairman of the Advisory committee, said the meeting has been called at the request of Capt. Thomas Stafford, of Second Army Headquarters, Baltimore, now here in the interest of recruiting and creating interest in military training.

Capt. Stafford stated yesterday that Alan Coutts a professor of New York University and now working as a consultant with the Secretary of War, will participate in the panel, with Robert Little Ebert acting as moderator. Others on the program include Thomas B. Finan, local attorney, Frank Werner, local newspaperman, and Rev. Justus Liesmann, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Frostburg.

In addition to members of the committee, Conlon said invitations to the dinner have been extended Lt. Col. Randolph Millholland and Major Howard Dickey of the National Guard here, and to post commanders of all local veteran organizations.

Members of the Advisory committee include William C. Burns, William Jones, John R. Kelley, Fred C. Dreyer, F. Allan Weatherholt, Vincent Borgman, John S. Bowman, Samuel A. Graham, Carl A. Lower, and James McGee.

Capt. Stafford said last night the newest military training proposals will be explained to members of the committee as well as to those who wish to attend the meeting in the City Hall, and a question period will follow the panel discussion.

Elks Name Mullan As Exalted Ruler

Officers Will Be Installed April 2

F. Marcellus Mullen was elected exalted ruler of Cumberland Lodge No. 63, B. P. O. Elks, last night, succeeding Michael F. O'Neill.

Mullan and other officers will be installed April 2 with George R. Lyming, past exalted ruler, as installing officer.

Other officers elected are Robert B. Walker, esteemed leading knight; Walter S. Chaney, esteemed loyal knight; Thomas B. Finan, esteemed lecturing knight; James E. Yarnall, secretary; Edgar A. Dashiell, treasurer; W. H. Jenkins, tiler; John G. Snyder, trustee for three years; J. D. Heron, alternate to the grand lodge.

Grand lodge sessions will be held the second week in July in Portland, Ore. Mullan will be the representative of the Cumberland lodge.

Survey Of "Y" Facilities To Be Made

A survey will be made early this Spring, at no cost to Central YMCA, of the "Y's" facilities, equipment and activities, with recommendations for a long-range program covering the next five or 10 years, according to Robert L. Sisson, general secretary.

Edmund R. Tomb, Newark, N. J., executive secretary of the Central Atlantic Area YMCA of the National Council, will come here in April with two associates to make the survey, which is expected to last over a period of several weeks.

They will report their findings and recommendations to the board of directors, which approved the survey project at a meeting earlier this week.

Sisson said the Central Atlantic Area sponsored a similar survey here in 1939, dealing largely with the operation of the building's facilities. At that time it was recommended that a committee be named to consider expanding the program to include young people between the ages of 16 to 30.

Since then, the Rec Club for teen-aged high school students, and a Young Adult group have been formed.

South End Boys Club Will Meet Friday

South End Boys Club will meet tomorrow at 6 p. m. in the basement of Grace M. E. Church Hall, according to club leader J. Millard Hughes.

Members of the club, are requested to bring their questionnaire forms to the meeting, if they have not already returned them. Plans will be outlined tonight for the boys' banquet to be held at the Hall March 28 at 6 p. m. Only boys properly registered will be eligible to attend the banquet, he explained, and reservations now number 140. Total membership is 220, comprised of boys between 6 and 17.

Board Sustains Giatras' Permit For Confectionery

Opposition Turned Down At Hearing

Following a stormy two-hour hearing at City Hall last night on an appeal to the Zoning Appeals Board opposing the action of City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer in granting a permit to George Giatras to use a proposed two-story brick building at 223 Bedford Street as a confectionery, the board voted unanimously to dismiss the appeal and uphold Rizer's action.

Julius E. Schindler, attorney for the plaintiff, Mrs. Edith F. Mays, 229 Bedford Street, who owns the building at 233 Bedford Street where Giatras is at present operating a confectionery, stated after the hearing that he is unable to say at present whether or not an appeal from the board's decision will be filed in Circuit Court.

Eight Witness Testify

Eight witnesses, including Chief of Police Oscar A. Eyerman, testified in the case. Mrs. Mays and her husband, Ralph R. Mays, were the only witnesses called to testify by Schindler. Thomas B. Finan, attorney for Giatras, called the remaining six to testify that Giatras had intended to construct a building at 223 Bedford Street for use as a confectionery when he bought the property in 1940, four years before the city zoning ordinance was passed.

Earl E. Manges, board stenographer, read a statement from Rizer, who was unable to attend the hearing. Rizer said he was "personally acquainted" with the fact that Giatras purchased the lot prior to the passage and adoption of the zoning law in November, 1944, and that construction of the building was delayed because of war shortages of material and labor.

In outlining his arguments at the start of the hearing, Schindler said Rizer's granting of the permit was in violation of the provisions of the ordinance regarding business establishments in residential sections. The lot in question is located in a Residential C zoning district.

He introduced as evidence a certified copy of a building permit secured by Giatras in September, 1941, to build a two-story brick addition at the rear of 223 Bedford Street for use as apartments, pointing out that nothing was said in the permit regarding a confectionery.

Joseph R. Mantheiy, a board member, pointed out that the building which was then located on the lot, and for which that permit was obtained, was later torn down by Giatras to make room for the proposed new building to house the confectionery, and that therefore the 1941 permit was null and void.

Giatras gave similar testimony, asserting that since his lease from Mrs. Mays to occupy his present premises will expire next June, he wished to construct a new building and move his business there.

Chief Eyerman Testifies

Both Mr. and Mrs. Mays testified that location of the confectionery at the new address would tend to depreciate property values in the neighborhood, and Schindler claimed the board would in effect change the section from a residential one into a business section if the granting of the permit were upheld.

Chief Eyerman testified that Giatras told him of his intention to build a new structure for his confectionery business before the war, and that he (Eyerman) advised him on certain matters of construction relating to allowing space for moving supplies into the store.

Henry Dressman, Cash Valley Road, general contractor, testified that in the fall of 1941 he signed a contract to build for Giatras a two-story building on the new lot, with a confectionery on the first floor and an apartment on the second.

Dressman and Charles Raymond Hinkle, 715 Lincoln Street, a carpenter, both testified that Giatras originally intended to remodel the existing building on the lot, but that it was decided that it would be less expensive to construct a new building. The war halted those plans, they said.

Other witnesses in behalf of Giatras were George C. Beckman, 425 Independence Street, and William T. Damm, 217 Bedford Street, both of whom testified Giatras had told them prior to 1944 that he intended to construct a building on the lot to house his confectionery business.

Giatras himself testified that he has been in business on Bedford Street since 1922; that he planned to locate his confectionery in the new building when he bought the lot; and that he wishes to have new quarters ready for business when his lease expires in June, so that he can take his two sons, both Army veterans, into the business.

Finan Cites Opinion

During examination and cross-examination of the witnesses by the two attorneys, one or the other of the lawyers would object to the asking of various questions. Mantheiy reminded them that the board was not a judicial court, just a fact-finding body, and that no objections could be raised.

In his closing appeal, Finan cited an opinion handed down during the July, 1945, term of Circuit Court by Associate Judge Walter Capper in the Mattingly appeal from a Zoning Board decision.

At that time Judge Capper cited Section 20, Section 7, paragraph 3 of the ordinance, which authorizes the Zoning Board to allow variance from the regulations of the ordinance "where, owing to special conditions, enforcement of the provisions will result in unwarranted hardship and injustice" to the applicant.

Service For Deaf Scheduled Sunday

Rev. Otto B. Berg, Episcopal missioner to the deaf, will pay his quarterly visit to the deaf of Cumberland and vicinity this weekend.

A service of Holy Communion, to be conducted by Rev. Mr. Berg in the sign language, is scheduled to be held in Emmanuel Episcopal Church Sunday morning at 9:30 o'clock. Emmanuel church school pupils will go directly to the parish house for their opening service Sunday morning.

New Equipment Arriving At State Armory

National Guardsmen Receive First Pay

Capt. Charles P. Venable, of the Second Army headquarters, Baltimore, made an inspection and inventory at the State Armory last night. He examined and checked a quantity of material shipped here for use of the two National Guard units now being organized, and said the Armory, since its renovation, seems to be in good condition.

Assigned to the Second Army as a National Guard instructor, Capt. Venable is in the Transportation Corps and saw action during the war in the European Theater.

He told Lt. Col. Randolph Millholland and Major Howard Dickey that more equipment and supplies will be shipped from now until the two units here have their requirements. He stated he was substituting for the regular inspector Major Hankins, but has assisted in inspections of other units within the state. Cumberland is making good progress in organization, but equipment is a little slower in arriving here than in some other places.

Capt. Venable said uniforms for the enlisted men can be expected most any time now as they are on requisition.

Members of the two units, Headquarters Company and Company C, have drawn their first pay checks, Major Dickey announced, and each man received pay for one day's drill each week since December 12, 1946, the date the units were officially federally recognized.

There are about 80 members of the two units already enlisted, with twice that many more needed, Major Dickey said, to bring the units to desired strength. There are openings in both Headquarters and Company C for radio men, telephone and communications men, motor mechanics, drivers, riflemen, clerks, cooks and various other specialists. Either veterans or non-veterans over 18 in good physical condition may enlist, he explained. The two units drill regularly each Wednesday night.

Amvets Will Hold Special Election

To Name Finance Officer Tonight

A special election will be held by J. Louis Wolford Post No. 1, Amvets tonight at 8 o'clock, to name a successor to Joseph E. Mackert, who declined to accept a third term as post finance officer.

Post Commander William B. Orndorff said last night he has received a letter from Mackert explaining that his physician has ordered him to cease all activities possible and to take a complete rest. He added, "it is only fair to you and the organization that I resign as finance officer of J. Louis Wolford Post."

In the hotly contested March 8 election, Mackert defeated Robert Francis Baker by a margin of seven votes. He is winding up his second term as finance officer now.

Orndorff explained last night that the by-laws on elections provide that if an officer does not accept an elective post before time of installation, an election may be held at a special or regular meeting with nominations from the floor. The election will be held tonight prior to the scheduled installation of new officers, so the new finance officer can also be installed.

The new post commander, who will succeed Orndorff, the new adjutant, is Norman G. Gerdeman. Clarence T. McCoy, Washington, D. C., and Richard R. Marks, Clarksburg, W. Va., national field representatives of the Amvets will install the new officers.

BOSTON CHOIR WILL SING HERE TONIGHT

The a cappella choir of Eastern Nazarene College, Boston, Mass., will present a concert of sacred music at the First Church of the Nazarene, Oldtown Road, tonight at 8 o'clock.

Mrs. Esther Williamson, professor of voice at the college, is director of the choir of 36 persons. Miss Edith Cove, professor of pianoforte and organ, will accompany the choir in several selections.

Dr. Samuel Young, president of the college, is traveling with the choir on its 2,400-mile tour of Connecticut, New York, Maryland, the District of Columbia and other states.

The program will include "To Thee We Sing," "The Cherubim Song," "Dark Waters," "Jesus Saviour Pilot Me," "Bless Thou the Lord," "O Happy Day," "He Is Mine," "Make Me a Blessing," and "He Will Keep."

Bruce Berry, trumpeter, will play "The Holy City," and Martha Maybury and Clifford Keys, violinists, will play a medley of gospel songs. The program will close with the singing of two selections from Handel's "Messiah," "Since by Man Came Death" and the "Hallelujah Chorus." The public is invited to attend.

Woodland Inn Robbery Is Being Investigated

West Virginia State Police were investigating yesterday the breaking and entering of the Woodland Inn, Frankfort Road, near Short Gap, W. Va., early yesterday morning.

According to the management of the inn, the intruders gained entrance sometime after midnight after breaking a back door and looted the place of about six cartons of cigarets and an undetermined amount of change from a juke box and pin ball machine.

The amount taken from the juke box was reported slight since coins had been emptied Tuesday night, but there was no estimate of the contents of the pin ball machine. Trooper L. E. Proudfoot is investigating the robbery, the second at the inn within a two-month period.

Tax Collector's Term Extended For One Year

Chief Judge William A. Huster signed a decree in Circuit Court yesterday, to extend the term of office of Miss Doris L. Stewart, tax collector in Tax Collection District No. 2, Frostburg, from April 1, 1947, to April 1, 1948, to enable her to complete collections.

Miss Stewart petitioned the court to have her term extended.

New York Opera Company Opens Here Tonight

Offer Traviata At Fort Hill

The opera "La Traviata," presented by the New York Opera Company tonight at 8:30 o'clock in Fort Hill High School Auditorium, will feature several outstanding and talented young vocalists.

The leading role, Violetta, the heorine of the story, is sung by Miss Marjorie Hamill. The part of Flora is taken by Miss Gerta Koblitz, well known blond lyric soprano of stage and radio.

Annina is played by Christenson; Alfredo by Antonio Fiore, internationally known tenor; Germont is sung by Lorenzo Cianfrini; Dottore is portrayed by Harry Kulkman, Barone is sung by Filoseta; and Gastone is sung by the noted tenor, Frank Iezzi.

The Opera is conducted by Frank Foti and the executive staff includes, Bruna Reutemann, company manager; George Meister, stage director; Joseph Corso, musical personnel and Miss Dorothy O'Neill, booking representative.

The company is expected to arrive here at noon today by special bus. The organization includes 65 people including symphony and corps de ballet.

The presentation of "Traviata" tonight is the first of three performances to be staged here. Tomorrow afternoon school children from throughout the county will witness "Carmen" at a 2:30 p. m. all-student matinee, and "Carmen" will again be presented tomorrow at 8:30 p. m.

The Opera is sponsored here by Henry Hart Post No. 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and reserved seat tickets are available at the Standard Music Co., Frederick street; Music Shop, South Liberty street; Wilson Hardware, North Mechanic street; Truitt's Drug Store, Virginia Avenue, and Stewart's Music House, 114 Greene street.

Tickets will also be available at the box office, and persons with Forum tickets may exchange them for reserved seats tonight. Tickets for the Opera are also good for the Forum lecture at 7 p. m. at Allegany High School auditorium.

Howard Williams, 26, Bedford, Pa., an employe of the National Jet Company, was treated in the same hospital yesterday morning for a puncture wound of the right hand.

Textile Union Holds Contract Discussion

Members of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, held a lengthy discussion on contract termination and re-negotiation of a new contract with the Celanese Corporation of America at a well attended meeting last night in the union hall, William Boyd Coleman, president, reported.

The second meeting, scheduled for workers who were unable to attend last night's session, will be held this morning at 10 o'clock.

Delegates presented a report on the Rayon Advisory Council held in Philadelphia March 9 and 10. The council holds several meetings a year so that locals of the rayon industry may have uniformity in program and contract provisions, officials said.

The present contract expires May 19 in case the union notifies the company at least 60 days prior to that date that it intends to terminate the agreement.

Bruce Bliven On Forum Program Tonight

Bruce Bliven, president and editor of the "New Republic", since 1930, will be the guest speaker on the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce Forum tonight at 7 o'clock in Allegany High School auditorium.

The time of the lecture has been moved to 7 p. m., so that Forum patrons can also attend the Opera at Fort Hill High School auditorium at 8:30 o'clock.

Bliven will speak on the subject "The New World and the Atom".

Charles Catherman, Jr., chairman of the Forum committee said that Forum tickets will be honored at the Opera at Fort Hill high school as arrangements have been made with the VFW to exchange the extra ticket in Forum season books for reserved seats to the performance of "La Traviata".

Consolidating Breweries Approved By Directors

ALONG THE POTOMAC TO WASHINGTON

By J. GLENN BEALL
(Member of Congress from Maryland Sixth District)

THE SPEECH

The President got all of us thinking last week when he talked before a joint session of Congress. He was never more serious in his life. And you can bet every member of Congress will weigh very carefully every proposal suggested by the Chief Executive before final action is taken.

He gave three main reasons for his request: 1. The creation of conditions allowing the two nations to live free of coercion, in compliance with a primary objective of United States policy of freedom for all nations. 1. The need for Greek Government's help against the Communist-led terrorism which threatens its existence. Turkey also needs help. 3. The United Nations is not in a position to move with the necessary speed and Britain no longer is able to help, therefore, it is up to the United States to provide the needed help.

I believe practically every member of Congress is spontaneously willing to extend aid in the form of food, clothing, medicine and other human needs to the Greeks. There is much suffering in that country. However, national legislators realize that the President is proposing that the loans to Greece and Turkey are not just for human needs, but for military supplies and purposes and that we shall send civilian and military technicians to show these governments how to provide for "the instruction and training of selected Greek and Turkish personnel". It is reasonable to assume such American technicians will sooner or later need the protection of American troops. It has been our past national experience that where our credit, money and military supplies go our soldiers soon follow.

Here are some questions to mull over in your mind.

Will our intervention in Greece and Turkey mean the possibility of war with Russia? Will this action really help resist Soviet expansion? What is the United Nations position in this matter? How much will it cost? Can we afford it? Can we afford not to try it? Will it promote war or peace? Will it work in Greece, Turkey, etc., when it failed miserably in China? Is a solvent America any guaranty against Communism at home and abroad? Can the United States feed, finance and police a great portion of the world?

These and many more questions will be considered by you and by us before the President's proposal is voted upon. You can be sure that it will not be rushed through Congress hurriedly "as is."

UNDER THE DOME

We introduced a resolution in the House of Representatives last week to provide for the restoration and preservation of the Francis Scott Key mansion in Washington and to establish the Francis Scott Key National Monument. . . . We are cooperating with the other members of the Maryland Delegation in trying to retain the position of Engineer for Maryland. A group of employees of the Farmers Home Administration came to Washington to discuss this matter.

The Senate accepted a conference report on House Resolution 1968, the $179 million deficiency appropriation bill, clearing the measure for the White House. The bill means the end of OPA on June 30. . . . The House, by voice vote, passed H. R. 2404, suspending the four cent per pound excise import tax on copper.

The House passed a Bill making the Army and Navy Nurses Corps a permanent organization. . . . Navigation and vessel inspection laws as applied to vessels operated by the War Department were suspended.

Joining the delegation from Frederick, we had a long conference with Mr. Jesse Donaldson, First Assistant Postmaster General, concerning the suspended rural mail service to persons living near Myersville, Maryland. They've had mail service for the past forty years and one can't blame them for not wanting it discontinued in these modern days.

Rubber controls, amendment of the Federal Reserve Act, procurement of supplies and Services for the Armed Services and the extension of sugar controls are on the tentative program for the House of Representatives for this week.

Mr. and Mrs. John J. Coyle, Klosterman's Addition, announce the birth of a daughter in Memorial Hospital Wednesday afternoon.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Mervin Simms, Blaine, W. Va., in Memorial Hospital Wednesday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Winter C. Paugh, Kitzmiller, announce the birth of a daughter in Memorial hospital Wednesday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Wolfe, Ridgeley, W. Va., announce the birth of a son in Allegany Hospital Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Bramble, 460 Goethe Street, announce the birth of a son Wednesday morning in Allegany Hospital.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. William V. Pratt, 122 Reynolds Street Wednesday morning in Memorial Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Reall, Gormania, W. Va., announce the birth of a son Wednesday morning in Memorial Hospital.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Paul W. Davidson, 110 South Street, Wednesday morning in Memorial Hospital.

A daughter, Deborah Dean, was born to Lt. Col. and Mrs. David A. Hornby in Mitchell Fileld Station Hospital, Long Island, N. Y., March 11. Mrs. Hornby is the former Miss Maryland Sowers, this city.

A daughter, Lynda Kay, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Carl Frankenberry, Cresaptown, in Allegany Hospital, Tuesday. Mrs. Frankenberry is the former Miss Hilda Snyder, Cresaptown.

Queen City And Export Stockholders To Meet

Approval of an agreement of consolidation of the Queen City Brewing Company and The Cumberland Brewing Company by the boards of directors of the two firms, subject to ratification by the stockholders, was disclosed yesterday in a joint announcement by F. Brooke Whiting, Queen City president, and G. William Bibby, head of the Cumberland firm.

Details of the consolidation are to be presented to the stockholders of the respective companies at meetings in the near future. The consolidation is based on book values of the two corporations.

The statement follows:

Obstacle To Progress

"While the history of the two companies has been one of continued progress, the definite trend of the brewing industry since repeal has been the elimination of the small local brewery. The great advances in transportation and refrigeration plus the great strides in modern merchandising methods have been an obstacle to the progress of any small manufacturing business.

"Further evidence is the fact that since 1934 the number of breweries in this country has declined from 750 to 450. A further and most important point is that of the total volume of beer consumed in the United States last year approximately 42 per cent was produced and sold by the 25 largest breweries.

"In addition to the very evident advantages of this or any consolidation, it will certainly go a long way to guaranteeing the existence of the brewing industry in Cumberland and should result in a successful operation that will be able to meet in a healthy manner the very definite competition that is becoming prevalent with the return to normal conditions.

Long Range Security

"The directors feel that after months of study and analysis that in recommending this consolidation they have provided a plan which will offer long range security and soundness of investment to stockholders that would not be possible if they continued to operate in competition.

"Any stockholders who desire to obtain full details of the agreement of consolidation prior to the stockholders' meetings may do so by contacting either Mr. Whiting or Mr. Bibby."

Wilson Files Answers In Tax Exemption Suits

Says Commissioners Acted Within Law

Answers were filed in Circuit Court yesterday by Lewis M. Wilson, attorney to the Board of Allegany County Commissioners in the tax exemptinon suits of John H. Reed who challenges the legality of county exemptions to three major industries.

Wilson states in the three answers that the Board acted under a state law authorizing such exemptions, and their action was not illegal. The answers cover suits involving the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, Celanese Corporation of America, and the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company.

The tire company, represented by William C. Walsh, filed its own answer Tuesday. The Celanese, through its attorney, Charles Z. Heskett, and the Pulp and Paper Company, represented by Horace P. Whitworth, Sr., each filed a demurrer, but no detailed answer.

The board attorney accused Reed of "unnecessary delay" in bringing the actions, pointing out that it has been a custom of many years standing to grant exemptions to encourage industries to locate in the county and expand.

Wilson also asserted that it was "ancient history" for Reed to inject exemptions granted in the last 20 or more years, and such exemptions are now irrelevant, due to the statute of limitations.

Reed's contention that Commissioner Charles N. Wilkinson, Jr., was disqualified from voting on the order passed January 28, granting the Kelly company a five-year exemption, was also attacked by Wilson, who said if such a charge had any foundation, any of the commissioners who owned property and are taxpayers would not be able to pass on any matters affecting the county tax rate. "There are no property qualifications for persons seeking the office of commissioner," Wilson added, "and that's the good old American way of doing things."

Says Charges "Unfair"

Wilson also said the charges made against Wilkinson by Reed were "grossly unfair" and were also "brazen and unnecessary."

The board attorney, in one answer, pointed out that the pulp and paper company was last granted an exemption by the board on January 13, 1941, and that "such orders in the past were never questioned." Wilson pointed out that the firm's plant at Luke has continually expanded over the years, with employment increasing. He asserted that Reed's motives in bringing such actions at this time were dubious.

In the third answer, Wilson declared that the American Cellulose and Chemical Manufacturing Company, Ltd., was granted an exemption by the board on July 6, 1918, and that later the firm became the Celanese Corporation of America. The new firm, he cited, was given its first exemption December 13, 1927 and another exemption—the second, Wilson said—on November 24, 1942, which does not expire until 1952.

He also declared that the last exemption granted the Celanese in the form of a solid and binding contract which cannot be set aside or attacked collaterally. He further explains that this contract was made and signed by and between H.

Committee Approves Wholesale Liquor Bill

Manager Would Be Named By Board

Favorable report of the Judiciary Committee of the House of Delegates was given yesterday afternoon to a measure which proposes to set up a wholesale liquor dispensary to be operated by Allegany County in a move to increase revenue.

The bill as approved provides for appointment of a dispensary manager by the same liquor control board that would regulate the retail liquor business in the county in event the Legislature passes a retail liquor measure.

At the time the bill was approved, a retail liquor bill had not been prepared and the method of appointing the liquor control board was not determined.

First Indication

While it had been considered likely that a liquor control board would regulate the retail liquor business under a new law to replace that declared unconstitutional by the Court of Appeals, this was the first indication from Annapolis that such a board would be created to handle the retail setup.

Delegate Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., sponsor of the measure, originally had proposed that the dispensary manager be appointed by the judges of the Fourth Judicial Circuit, but he had to amend this provision because of the Court of Appeals decision that the judges were performing a non-judicial function in administering the county retail liquor law.

Whitworth then proposed that the manager be appointed by a three-man board to be appointed by the governor, two of the members to be chosen from the political party polling the largest number of votes in the last preceding gubernatorial election in Allegany County and the third member to be selected from the party polling the next greatest number of votes in the county.

This provision, however, was stricken from the bill, Whitworth said, and the method of choosing the members of the liquor control board will be set forth in the retail liquor bill.

Predicts $300,000 Annually

Whitworth, when he introduced his bill, predicted that it would provide the county with revenue amounting to at least $300,000 annually. He intimated that it would provide property owners with some relief in regard to the "ever increasing property tax."

Under the bill the dispensary would operate for the sale and distribution of all alcoholic beverages except beer to licensed dealers of the county. It would begin operation as a monopoly January 1, 1948.

Another measure designed to increase the county's revenue was introduced in the House yesterday by the Allegany County delegation. This is a bill to provide a $10 license fee for billboards erected in the county.

Pension Bill Offered

A measure to provide for retiring and pensioning Allegany County employes of 65 years who have served not less than 20 years and for the levy of the cost annually by the County Commissioners was introduced yesterday by Delegate William H. Geppert. It was referred to the Allegany County delegation.

Sen. Robert B. Kimble introduced a bill to provide that the Allegany County Commissioners levy enough to pay the First District tax collector $500 for the year 1946, and $200 to collectors in the Second and Third districts for the same year.

Receivers Named For Burnwell Coal At Grantsville

40 Idle As Strip Mine Is Closed

A petition for the appointment of a receiver for the Burnwell Coal Company of near Grantsville, has been filed in Garrett County Circuit Court, and Chief Judge William A. Huster has signed an order naming J. Fred Graves, Baltimore, president of the company and A. T. Matthews, an Oakland attorney as receivers. The petition was filed by Walter W. Dawson, Oakland attorney.

According to Matthews, plans have not been formulated by the receivers as to whether the business will be sold, liquidated or operated, as he has not had time to cover the problem thoroughly.

The operation, a strip mine, producing a high grade of six-foot vein coal employed about 40 men and truckers, it was reported. Several of them, including James Morgan, 721 Columbia Avenue, shop steward of Operating Engineers Local No. 37; W. L. Dorsey, 621 Henderson Avenue, secretary-treasurer of the Associated Truckers of Grantsville; J. Riley, RFD 1, this city; Charles Glass, Swanton; William Carder, this city; and Bruce Sweitzer, Swanton, went to Oakland yesterday and conferred with Matthews on the question of continued operation.

Some of the men contend that the company owes them money in wages, and Morgan said last night some of the men had company checks which were not honored by the bank. He said they had been instructed to file claims for all wages due and past due.

Frank Powers, mine inspector said the Burnwell operation has about 700 acres of high grade six-foot vein coal near Grantsville, under lease, and that the company does no deep mining. He said the operation has been closed this week as a result of the court action.

Powers also stated that John Keister who was formerly associated with Graves in the Burnwell operation, is no longer connected with the company, he and Graves having dissolved their partnership or working agreement last November. Since then Keister has been operating a deep mine nearby, employing about 12 or 15 men, known as the Laurel Coal Company.

Workmen from the Burnwell Company said last night the strip mine operation has been producing about 6,000 tons of coal a month.

SURVIVES OPERATION—James Bennett, 3, 17 Fifth Street, who was rushed from Allegany Hospital here to University Hospital, Baltimore, Monday night was reported in a "satisfactory" condition late last night following a lengthy brain operation. It was reported the operation disclosed there was no brain abscess but the exact results of the operation were not available last night. "Jimmie" suddenly developed an "expanding skull lesion" while a patient at the local hospital. Last night's operation was the second he has undergone in the past two days. The above picture was taken when he was two years old.

Utility Workers Offer Support To Bus Drivers

"Handwriting On Wall," Says Dean

Declaring that the "handwriting is on the wall" if the Potomac Edison Company maintains its present position in the strike of bus drivers and maintenance men, James A. Dean, president of Local 331, Utility Workers Union of America, CIO, wrote to Mayor Thomas S. Post yesterday expressing appreciation for his efforts in calling upon the company to submit the dispute to arbitration.

Dean, who heads the local composed of workers for the Potomac Edison Company in the River and Celanese plants, Union Street Steam-Heating plant and the Cumberland Line Department, was asked if the statement meant that union members planned to stage a sympathy strike in event the current dispute is prolonged, but he did not elaborate further, saying only, "the statement speaks for itself."

Meanwhile, no new developments were reported by management or the union in the strike that has tied up city bus transportation for the past 14 days.

In his letter to the Mayor, Dean wrote:

Conveys Thanks

"Local Union 331 of the Utility Workers Union of America, CIO . . .does hereby wish to convey to you its sincere thanks for the efforts you are making in calling upon the Potomac Edison Company to submit to arbitration, the present dispute which exists between it and the local bus drivers and maintenance men.

"It is not our desire to create public hysteria, but, we feel it is our duty to inform you, that, if the present position of the Potomac Edison Company is continued, then the 'handwriting is clearly upon the wall.'

"Our contract with the Potomac Edison Company expires on May 1, 1947, and we earnestly hope that the present situation is not a preview of 'darker days to come.' "

Asked to comment yesterday on action of the Mayor and Council who Monday passed a resolution relative to taking over city transportation, Dr. Horace B. Flack, head of the Legislative Reference Bureau at Annapolis, said any action would depend entirely on the situation and that he would be unable to comment definitely until he had seen a bill prepared on the subject.

Very Broad Powers

However, Dr. Flack did say that "there are very broad police powers for taking over in such cases where public health and welfare are concerned" and that the state has very broad powers in some cases which it can relegate to the various subdivisions when it sees fit.

Whether these powers would apply to the Cumberland situation Dr. Flack said he is not prepared to state at this time.

Mayor Post admitted yesterday the possibility that the city would not have authority to take over transportation but added that he wants an opinion from City Attorney Charles Z. Heskett. In event the city cannot, the Mayor said he would inquire into the possibility of having legislation enacted whereby the city could be authorized to purchase transportation equipment to be operated by the city.

While the proposal to take over transportation has drawn some comment that it would interfere with free enterprise, the Mayor declared it would not set a precedent.

Hints At "Reprisals"

He also hinted at "reprisals" in connection with the Potomac Edison Company, and said that the city has given "this utility every courtesy and every consideration and in my opinion the company is not showing the residents of this city a similar courtesy in this matter."

Henry W. Price, PE manager here, said he had no comment to make.

Regardless of the fate of Monday's resolution and the repeated efforts of the Mayor to get the present dispute into arbitration, there was no doubt yesterday that a great bulk of the union membership in the area, both AFL and CIO, had swung solidly behind the Mayor and were even regarding him as a spokesman.

Striking bus drivers were jubilant

Four Scouts Pass Second Class Tests

Four Cumberland Boy Scouts were advanced to the rank of second class after passing requirements before a Board of Review Tuesday night at Boy Scout headquarters.

Successful scouts were Donald Stimely, Troop 2, B. and O. Y. M. C. A.; Paul Lanham, Troop 4, Centre Street Methodist Church; and Joseph Wuertz and Francis Haselberger, Troop 8, St. Mary's Catholic Church.

Members of the Board of Review are Edgar T. Duke, chairman; and Bernard J. Beck and F. T. Bell.

Plan Panel Talk On Military Training

A meeting of the Citizens Advisory committee of the Second Army will be held Friday, March 28, at 6 p. m. at the Golden Gate Tea Room, followed by a panel discussion at 7:30 to 8 p. m. in the City Hall auditorium, which will be broadcast over WTBO, and will be open to the public.

Thomas F. Conlon, former mayor and chairman of the Advisory committee, said the meeting has been called at the request of Capt. Thomas Stafford, of Second Army Headquarters, Baltimore, now here in the interest of recruiting and creating interest in military training.

Capt. Stafford stated yesterday that Alan Coutts a professor of New York University and now working as a consultant with the Secretary of War, will participate in the panel, with Robert Little Ebert acting as moderator. Others on the program include Thomas B. Finan, local attorney, Frank Werner, local newspaperman, and Rev. Justus Liesmann, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Frostburg.

In addition to members of the committee, Conlon said invitations to the dinner have been extended Lt. Col. Randolph Millholland and Major Howard Dickey of the National Guard here, and to post commanders of all local veteran organizations.

Members of the Advisory committee include William C. Burns, William Jones, John R. Kelley, Fred C. Dreyer, F. Allan Weatherholt, Vincent Borgman, John S. Bowman, Samuel A. Graham, Carl A. Lower, and James McGee.

Capt. Stafford said last night the newest military training proposals will be explained to members of the committee as well as to those who wish to attend the meeting in the City Hall, and a question period will follow the panel discussion.

Elks Name Mullan As Exalted Ruler

Officers Will Be Installed April 2

F. Marcellus Mullen was elected exalted ruler of Cumberland Lodge No. 63, B. P. O. Elks, last night, succeeding Michael F. O'Neill.

Mullan and other officers will be installed April 2 with George R. Lyming, past exalted ruler, as installing officer.

Other officers elected are Robert B. Walker, esteemed leading knight; Walter S. Chaney, esteemed loyal knight; Thomas B. Finan, esteemed lecturing knight; James E. Yarnall, secretary; Edgar A. Dashiell, treasurer; W. H. Jenkins, tiler; John G. Snyder, trustee for three years; J. D. Heron, alternate to the grand lodge.

Grand lodge sessions will be held the second week in July in Portland, Ore. Mullan will be the representative of the Cumberland lodge.

Survey Of "Y" Facilities To Be Made

A survey will be made early this Spring, at no cost to Central YMCA, of the "Y's" facilities, equipment and activities, with recommendations for a long-range program covering the next five or 10 years, according to Robert L. Sisson, general secretary.

Edmund R. Tomb, Newark, N. J., executive secretary of the Central Atlantic Area YMCA of the National Council, will come here in April with two associates to make the survey, which is expected to last over a period of several weeks.

They will report their findings and recommendations to the board of directors, which approved the survey project at a meeting earlier this week.

Sisson said the Central Atlantic Area sponsored a similar survey here in 1939, dealing largely with the operation of the building's facilities. At that time it was recommended that a committee be named to consider expanding the program to include young people between the ages of 16 to 30.

Since then, the Rec Club for teen-aged high school students, and a Young Adult group have been formed.

South End Boys Club Will Meet Friday

South End Boys Club will meet tomorrow at 6 p. m. in the basement of Grace M. E. Church Hall, according to club leader J. Millard Hughes.

Members of the club, are requested to bring their questionnaire forms to the meeting, if they have not already returned them. Plans will be outlined tonight for the boys' banquet to be held at the Hall March 28 at 6 p. m. Only boys properly registered will be eligible to attend the banquet, he explained, and reservations now number 140. Total membership is 220, comprised of boys between 6 and 17.

John Spiker and Vernon Hoggard are assisting in keeping records, checking attendance and with the welfare program.

Opposition Turned Down At Hearing

Following a stormy two-hour hearing at City Hall last night on an appeal to the Zoning Appeals Board opposing the action of City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer in granting a permit to George Giatras to use a proposed two-story brick building at 223 Bedford Street as a confectionery, the board voted unanimously to dismiss the appeal and uphold Rizer's action.

Julius E. Schindler, attorney for the plaintiff, Mrs. Edith F. Mays, 229 Bedford Street, who owns the building at 233 Bedford Street where Giatras is at present operating a confectionery, stated after the hearing that he is unable to say at present whether or not an appeal from the board's decision will be filed in Circuit Court.

Eight Witness Testify

Eight witnesses, including Chief of Police Oscar A. Eyerman, testified in the case. Mrs. Mays and her husband, Ralph R. Mays, were the only witnesses called to testify by Schindler. Thomas B. Finan, attorney for Giatras, called the remaining six to testify that Giatras had intended to construct a building at 223 Bedford Street for use as a confectionery when he bought the property in 1940, four years before the city zoning ordinance was passed.

Earl E. Manges, board stenographer, read a statement from Rizer, who was unable to attend the hearing. Rizer said he was "personally acquainted" with the fact that Giatras purchased the lot prior to the passage and adoption of the zoning law in November, 1944, and that construction of the building was delayed because of war shortages of material and labor.

In outlining his arguments at the start of the hearing, Schindler said Rizer's granting of the permit was in violation of the provisions of the ordinance regarding business establishments in residential sections. The lot in question is located in a Residential C zoning district.

He introduced as evidence a certified copy of a building permit secured by Giatras in September, 1941, to build a two-story brick addition at the rear of 223 Bedford Street for use as apartments, pointing out that nothing was said in the permit regarding a confectionery.

Joseph R. Manthely, a board member, pointed out that the building which was then located on the lot, and for which that permit was obtained, was later torn down by Giatras to make room for the proposed new building to house the confectionery, and that therefore the 1941 permit was null and void.

Giatras gave similar testimony, asserting that since his lease from Mrs. Mays to occupy his present premises will expire next June, he wished to construct a new building and move his business there.

Chief Eyerman Testifies

Both Mr. and Mrs. Mays testified that location of the confectionery at the new address would tend to depreciate property values in the neighborhood, and Schindler claimed the board would in effect change the section from a residential one into a business section if the granting of the permit were upheld.

Chief Eyerman testified that Giatras told him of his intention to build a new structure for his confectionery business before the war, and that he (Eyerman) advised him on certain matters of construction relating to allowing space for moving supplies into the store.

Henry Dressman, Cash Valley Road, general contractor, testified that in the fall of 1941 he signed a contract to build for Giatras a two-story building on the new lot, with a confectionery on the first floor and an apartment on the second.

Dressman and Charles Raymond Hinkle, 715 Lincoln Street, a carpenter, both testified that Giatras originally intended to remodel the existing building on the lot, but that it was decided that it would be less expensive to construct a new building. The war halted those plans, they said.

Other witnesses in behalf of Giatras were George C. Beckman, 425 Independence Street, and William T. Damm, 217 Bedford Street, both of whom testified Giatras had told them prior to 1944 that he intended to construct a building on the lot to house his confectionery business.

Giatras himself testified that he has been in business on Bedford Street since 1922; that he planned to locate his confectionery in the new building when he bought the lot; and that he wishes to have new quarters ready for business when his lease expires in June, so that he can take his two sons, both Army veterans, into the business.

Finan Cites Opinion

During examination and cross-examination of the witnesses by the two attorneys, one or the other of the lawyers would object to the asking of various questions. Manthely reminded them that the board was not a judicial court, just a fact-finding body, and that no objections could be raised.

In his closing appeal, Finan cited an opinion handed down during the July, 1945, term of Circuit Court by Associate Judge Walter Capper in the Mattingly appeal from a Zoning Board decision.

At that time Judge Capper cited Section 20, Section 7, paragraph 3 of the ordinance, which authorizes the Zoning Board to allow variance from the regulations of the ordinance "where, owing to special conditions, enforcement of the provisions will result in unwarranted hardship and injustice" to the applicant.

Service For Deaf Scheduled Sunday

Rev. Otto B. Berg, Episcopal missioner to the deaf, will pay his quarterly visit to the deaf of Cumberland and vicinity this weekend.

A service of Holy Communion, to be conducted by Rev. Mr. Berg in the sign language, is scheduled to be held in Emmanuel Episcopal Church Sunday morning at 9:30 o'clock. Emmanuel church school pupils will go directly to the parish house for their opening service Sunday morning.

New Equipment Arriving At State Armory

National Guardsmen Receive First Pay

Capt. Charles P. Venable, of the Second Army headquarters, Baltimore, made an inspection and inventory at the State Armory last night. He examined and checked a quantity of material shipped here for use of the two National Guard units now being organized, and said the Armory, since its renovation, seems to be in good condition.

Assigned to the Second Army as a National Guard instructor, Capt. Venable is in the Transportation Corps and saw action during the war in the European Theater.

He told Lt. Col. Randolph Millholland and Major Howard Dickey that more equipment and supplies will be shipped from now until the two units here have their requirements. He stated he was substituting for the regular inspector Major Hankins, but has assisted in inspections of other units within the state. Cumberland is making good progress in organization, but equipment is a little slower in arriving here than in some other places.

Capt. Venable said uniforms for the enlisted men can be expected most any time now as they are on requisition.

Members of the two units, Headquarters Company and Company C, have drawn their first pay checks, Major Dickey announced, and each man received pay for one day's drill each week since December 12, 1946, the date the units were officially federally recognized.

There are about 80 members of the two units already enlisted, with twice that many more needed, Major Dickey said, to bring the units to desired strength. There are openings in both Headquarters and Company C for radio men, telephone and communications men, motor mechanics, drivers, riflemen, clerks, cooks and various other specialists. Either veterans or non-veterans over 18 in good physical condition may enlist, he explained. The two units drill regularly each Wednesday night.

Amvets Will Hold Special Election

To Name Finance Officer Tonight

A special election will be held by J. Louis Wolford Post No. 1, Amvets tonight at 8 o'clock, to name a successor to Joseph E. Mackert, who declined to accept a third term as post finance officer.

Post Commander William B. Orndorff said last night he has received a letter from Mackert explaining that his physician has ordered him to cease all activities possible and to take a complete rest. He added, "it is only fair to you and the organization that I resign as finance officer of J. Louis Wolford Post."

In the hotly contested March 8 election, Mackert defeated Robert Francis Baker by a margin of seven votes. He is winding up his second term as finance officer now.

Orndorff explained last night that the by-laws on elections provide that if an officer does not accept an elective post before time of installation, an election may be held at a special or regular meeting with nominations from the floor. The election will be held tonight prior to the scheduled installation of new officers, so the new finance officer can also be installed.

The new post commander, who will succeed Orndorff, the new adjutant, is Norman G. Gerdeman. Clarence T. McCoy, Washington, D. C., and Richard R. Marks, Clarksburg, W. Va., national field representatives of the Amvets will install the new officers.

BOSTON CHOIR WILL SING HERE TONIGHT

The a cappella choir of Eastern Nazarene College, Boston, Mass., will present a concert of sacred music at the First Church of the Nazarene, Oldtown Road, tonight at 8 o'clock.

Mrs. Esther Williamson, professor of voice at the college, is director of the choir of 36 persons. Miss Edith Cove, professor of pianoforte and organ, will accompany the choir in several selections.

Dr. Samuel Young, president of the college, is traveling with the choir on its 2,400-mile tour of Connecticut, New York, Maryland, the District of Columbia and other states.

The program will include "To Thee We Sing," "The Cherubim Song," "Dark Waters," "Jesus Saviour Pilot Me," "Bless Thou the Lord," "O Happy Day," "He Is Mine," "Make Me a Blessing," and "He Will Keep."

Bruce Berry, trumpeter, will play "The Holy City," and Martha Maybury and Clifford Keys, violinists, will play a medley of gospel songs. The program will close with the singing of two selections from Handel's "Messiah," "Since by Man Came Death" and the "Hallelujah Chorus." The public is invited to attend.

Woodland Inn Robbery Is Being Investigated

West Virginia State Police were investigating yesterday the breaking and entering of the Woodland Inn, Frankfort Road, near Short Gap, W. Va., early yesterday morning.

According to the management of the inn, the intruders gained entrance sometime after midnight after breaking a back door and looted the place of about six cartons of cigarets and an undetermined amount of change from a juke box and pin ball machine.

The amount taken from the juke box was reported slight since coins had been emptied Tuesday night, but there was no estimate of the contents of the pin ball machine. Trooper L. E. Proudfoot is investigating the robbery, the second at the inn within a two-month period.

Tax Collector's Term Extended For One Year

Chief Judge William A. Huster signed a decree in Circuit Court yesterday, to extend the term of office of Miss Doris L. Stewart, tax collector in Tax Collection District No. 2, Frostburg, from April 1, 1947, to April 1, 1948, to enable her to complete collections.

Miss Stewart petitioned the court to have her term extended.

A decree was also signed by Judge Huster, granting a divorce to Anna Mae Cook, from Ona Garland Cook, and giving her the custody of three minor children.

Textile Union Holds Contract Discussion

Members of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, held a lengthy discussion on contract termination and re-negotiation of a new contract with the Celanese Corporation of America at a well attended meeting last night in the union hall, William Boyd Coleman, president, reported.

The second meeting, scheduled for workers who were unable to attend last night's session, will be held this morning at 10 o'clock.

Delegates presented a report on the Rayon Advisory Council held in Philadelphia March 9 and 10. The council holds several meetings a year so that locals of the rayon industry may have uniformity in program and contract provisions, officials said.

The present contract expires May 19 in case the union notifies the company at least 60 days prior to that date that it intends to terminate the agreement.

Bliven will speak on the subject "The New World and the Atom".

Charles Catherman, Jr., chairman of the Forum committee said that Forum tickets will be honored at the Opera at Fort Hill high school as arrangements have been made with the VFW to exchange the extra ticket in Forum season books for reserved seats to the performance of "La Traviata".

Consolidating Breweries Approved By Directors

By J. GLENN BEALL

(Member of Congress from Maryland Sixth District)

THE SPEECH

The President got all of us thinking last week when he talked before a joint session of Congress. He was never more serious in his life. And you can bet every member of Congress will weigh very carefully every proposal suggested by the Chief Executive before final action is taken.

He gave three main reasons for his request: 1. The creation of conditions allowing the two nations to live free of coercion, in compliance with a primary objective of United States policy of freedom for all nations. 1. The need for Greek Government's help against the Communist-led terrorism which threatens its existence. Turkey also needs help. 3. The United Nations is not in a position to move with the necessary speed and Britain no longer is able to help, therefore, it is up to the United States to provide the needed help.

I believe practically every member of Congress is spontaneously willing to extend aid in the form of food, clothing, medicine and other human needs to the Greeks. There is much suffering in that country. However, national legislators realize that the President is proposing that the loans to Greece and Turkey are not just for human needs, but for military supplies and purposes and that we shall send civilian and military technicians to show these governments how to provide for "the instruction and training of selected Greek and Turkish personnel". It is reasonable to assume such American technicians will sooner or later need the protection of American troops. It has been our past national experience that where our credit, money and military supplies go our soldiers soon follow.

Here are some questions to mull over in your mind.

Will our intervention in Greece and Turkey mean the possibility of of war with Russia? Will this action really help resist Soviet expansion? What is the United Nations position in this matter? How much will it cost? Can we afford it? Can we afford not to try it? Will it promote war or peace? Will it work in Greece, Turkey, etc., when it failed miserably in China? Is a solvent America any guaranty against Communism at home and abroad? Can the United States feed, finance and police a great portion of the world?

These and many more questions will be considered by you and by us before the President's proposal is voted upon. You can be sure that it will not be rushed through Congress hurriedly "as is."

UNDER THE DOME

We introduced a resolution in the House of Representatives last week to provide for the restoration and preservation of the Francis Scott Key mansion in Washington and to establish the Francis Scott Key National Monument. . . .We are cooperating with the other members of the Maryland Delegation in trying to retain the position of Engineer for Maryland. A group of employees of the Farmers Home Administration came to Washington to discuss this matter.

The Senate accepted a conference report on House Resolution 1968, the $179 million deficiency appropriation bill, clearing the measure for the White House. The bill means the end of OPA on June 30. . . .The House, by voice vote, passed H. R. 2404, suspending the four cent per pound excise import tax on copper.

The House passed a Bill making the Army and Navy Nurses Corps a permanent organization. . . . Navigation and vessel inspection laws as applied to vessels operated by the War Department were suspended.

Joining the delegation from Frederick, we had a long conference with Mr. Jesse Donaldson, First Assistant Postmaster General, concerning the suspended rural mail service to persons living near Myersville, Maryland. They've had mail service for the past forty years and one can't blame them for not wanting it discontinued in these modern days.

Rubber controls, amendment of the Federal Reserve Act, procurement of supplies and Services for the Armed Services and the extension of sugar controls are on the tentative program for the House of Representatives for this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Bramble, 460 Goethe Street, announce the birth of a son Wednesday morning in Allegany Hospital.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. William V. Pratt, 122 Reynolds Street Wednesday morning in Memorial Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Reall, Gormania, W. Va., announce the birth of a son Wednesday morning in Memorial Hospital.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Paul W. Davidson, 110 South Street, Wednesday morning in Memorial Hospital.

A daughter, Deborah Dean, was born to Lt. Col. and Mrs. David A. Hornby in Mitchell Fileld Station Hospital, Long Island, N. Y., March 11. Mrs. Hornby is the former Miss Maryland Sowers, this city.

A daughter, Lynda Kay, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Carl Frankenberry, Cresaptown, in Allegany Hospital, Tuesday. Mrs. Frankenberry is the former Miss Hilda Snyder, Cresaptown.

Queen City And Export Stockholders To Meet

Approval of an agreement of consolidation of the Queen City Brewing Company and The Cumberland Brewing Company by the boards of directors of the two firms, subject to ratification by the stockholders, was disclosed yesterday in a joint announcement by F. Brooke Whiting, Queen City president, and G. William Bibby, head of the Cumberland firm.

Details of the consolidation are to be presented to the stockholders of the respective companies at meetings in the near future. The consolidation is based on book values of the two corporations.

The statement follows:

Obstacle To Progress

"While the history of the two companies has been one of continued progress, the definite trend of the brewing industry since repeal has been the elimination of the small local brewery. The great advances in transportation and refrigeration plus the great strides in modern merchandising methods have been an obstacle to the progress of any small manufacturing business.

"Further evidence is the fact that since 1934 the number of breweries in this country has declined from 750 to 450. A further and most important point is that of the total volume of beer consumed in the United States last year approximately 42 per cent was produced and sold by the 25 largest breweries.

"In addition to the very evident advantages of this or any consolidation, it will certainly go a long way to guaranteeing the existence of the brewing industry in Cumberland and should result in a successful operation that will be able to meet in a healthy manner the very definite competition that is becoming prevalent with the return to normal conditions.

Long Range Security

"The directors feel that after months of study and analysis that in recommending this consolidation they have provided a plan which will offer long range security and soundness of investment to stockholders that would not be possible if they continued to operate in competition.

"Any stockholders who desire to obtain full details of the agreement of consolidation prior to the stockholders' meetings may do so by contacting either Mr. Whiting or Mr. Bibby."

Wilson Files Answers In Tax Exemption Suits

Says Commissioners Acted Within Law

Answers were filed in Circuit Court yesterday by Lewis M. Wilson, attorney to the Board of Allegany County Commissioners in the tax exemptinon suits of John H. Reed who challenges the legality of county exemptions to three major industries.

Wilson states in the three answers that the Board acted under a state law authorizing such exemptions, and their action was not illegal. The answers cover suits involving the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, Celanese Corporation of America, and the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company.

The tire company, represented by William C. Walsh, filed its own answer Tuesday. The Celanese, through its attorney, Charles Z. Heskett, and the Pulp and Paper Company, represented by Horace P. Whitworth, Sr., each filed a demurrer, but no detailed answer.

The board attorney accused Reed of "unnecessary delay" in bringing the actions, pointing out that it has been a custom of many years standing to grant exemptions to encourage industries to locate in the county and expand.

Wilson also asserted that it was "ancient history" for Reed to inject exemptions granted in the last 20 or more years, and such exemptions are now irrelevant, due to the statute of limitations.

Reed's contention that Commissioner Charles N. Wilkinson, Jr., was disqualified from voting on the order passed January 28, granting the Kelly company a five-year exemption, was also attacked by Wilson, who said if such a charge had any foundation, any of the commissioners who owned property and are taxpayers would not be able to pass on any matters affecting the county tax rate. "There are no property qualifications for persons seeking the office of commissioner," Wilson added, "and that's the good old American way of doing things."

Says Charges "Unfair"

Wilson also said the charges made against Wilkinson by Reed were "grossly unfair" and were also "brazen and unnecessary."

The board attorney, in one answer, pointed out that the pulp and paper company was last granted an exemption by the board on January 13, 1941, and that "such orders in the past were never questioned." Wilson pointed out that the firm's plant at Luke has continually expanded over the years, with employment increasing. He asserted that Reed's motives in bringing such actions at this time were dubious.

In the third answer, Wilson declared that the American Cellulose and Chemical Manufacturing Company, Ltd., was granted an exemption by the board on July 6, 1918, and that later the firm became the Celanese Corporation of America. The new firm, he cited, was given its first exemption December 13, 1927 and another exemption—the second, Wilson said—on November 24, 1942, which does not expire until 1952.

He also declared that the last exemption granted the Celanese in the form of a solid and binding contract which cannot be set aside or attacked collaterally. He further explains that this contract was made and signed by and between H.
